NO. 74—SEVENTY-SECOND YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1930 — TWENTY-FOUR PAGES

DEVASTATION SWEEPS OVER LOVELY LAND

Beautiful French Country Now Scene of Death and Destruction Following on Floods

OVER FOUR HUNDRED BELIEVED DROWNED

Four Days of Inundations Does Damage to Extent of Billions to Vineyards and Buildings

(Associated Press)

BORDEAUX, France, March 6.—A vast area of Southern France has been devastated in four days by floods with losses running beyond a billion francs.

This city, the third in importance in France, barely escaped the flood waters of the big Garonne River, swollen by its flooded tributaries. The commander of the port tonight allayed the fears of his fellow citizens by declaring that the flood had reached its maximum in the region of the city, which was in no danger.

The vineyards of the famous Barsac region, which furnish highly prized white Bordeaux wines, were entirely under water tonight. Five hundred houses were flooded and roads cut throughout the region.

DEVASTATED LAND

Appalled by reports of how the Southern section of their beautiful land has been laid waste, how hundreds of lives have been lost; how thousands of families have been made homeless and penniless, President Doumergue and Premier Tardieu tomorrow will hasten to the stricken area for an inspection.

The waters have ruined the Department of the Tarn; have ravaged the Departments of Tar-et-Garonne and Lot-et-Garonne, and have damaged nine other departments seriously.

The official list of deaths has reached 150, but the work of clearing the ruins to find the missing has only begun. Persons who have visited the region estimate that between 300 and 400 are dead.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS

Thousands of families are homeless, many wiped out entirely. In some cases parents lost all of their children, while in others children returning found the flood swirling over the place where their homes stood and their parents washed away.

The bereaved now haunt the river banks, looking haggardly for loved ones whose bodies will be found later miles from the spot where the flood surprised them.

As to material losses, many hold that yesterday's estimate of a billion francs was far too low. The waters are spreading over some of the finest of France's vineyard lands, such as Barsac and Carona. It is impossible to tell what will be the effect on the yield and quality of wines from those vineyards until this year's vintage is in the cellars.

OLD SEA DOG OF GERMANY HAS PASSED

Admiral Tirpitz, Instigator of Submarine War, Is Dead After Only Short Illness

WAS FAMOUS FIGURE DURING WORLD WAR

(Associated Press)

BENHAUSEN, Bavaria, March 6.—Admiral Alfred Von Tirpitz, Lord High Admiral of the German navy during the war and father of Germany's submarine warfare, died in a sanitarium here at 2.30 a.m. today after a brief attack of bronchitis. He would have been eighty-one years old on March 19.

The aged, grey-bearded warrior, who sometimes was termed the German Odin, or War God of the Seas, was in good health early in February when the bronchial ailment took him down. He seemed to recover, but when his heart action became weak he was brought from his home at Feldafing on the banks of Starnberger Lake, to this place, a suburb of Munich.

RETIRED WARRIOR

At Feldafing he had been leading the life of a retired warrior, occasionally lifting his voice in defence of the German republic. In 1925, while a deputy in the Reichstag, he went to Hanover and persuaded Field Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg to accept candidacy for the German presidency.

Two years ago he wearied of parliamentary life and declined renomination for the Reichstag in a rather bitter letter to the German Nationalist party, in which he declared the party was making too many compromises. The party then made him its honorary chairman, but he played no political role, merely writing articles occasionally on topics of the day.

From the time he was twenty until he broke with the Kaiser in 1916, Admiral Von Tirpitz' life was one of the most intimate association with the German navy. In 1891 he became Secretary of State for the Imperial Navy, holding it until his quarrel with Wilhelm. He generally is given credit for instigating and organizing it to its high peak of efficiency.

PARTING OF THE WAYS

He and Wilhelm were said to have come to the parting of the ways on the very submarine warfare

Butter Blending In Old Country Strongly Rapped

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, March 6.—The blending of foreign butter with the domestic product and its sale under the label of "English butter," is a practice condemned at yesterday's meeting of the Royal Agricultural Society. Sir Douglas Newton, Conservative member of Parliament, and chairman of the National Agricultural Council, stated a considerable amount of foreign butter was being thus blended and offered to customers under a false label. The practice, he said, was strangling the efforts of home and Dominion dairy farmers.

The society decided to ask the Dairy Produce Committee of the House of Commons to consider the matter.

BROKERS' LOANS UP

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending March 5, were announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as $3,583,000,000, representing an increase of $94,000,000 as compared with the preceding week

PAVING FOR ISLAND ROAD ADVOCATED

Mr. C. F. Davie, M.P.P., Says It Should Be Completed at Least From Victoria to Nanaimo

ENCROACHMENT OF ORIENTALS

Sproat Lake-Tofino Road Is Stressed as Desirable for Development of Island

THE permanent paving of the Island Highway, at least from Victoria to Nanaimo, was strongly advocated in the Legislature yesterday by Mr. C. F. Davie, Conservative, Cowichan-Newcastle, in speaking on the debate on the budget.

Mr. Davie said that the portions of the highway between Victoria and Colwood, and between South Wellington and Nanaimo, had already been paved, and he had been advised that it would require a sum not in excess of $1,000,000 to complete the paving of the part between Colwood and South Wellington.

"Regardless of what the former Minister of Public Works has done, or the present incumbent of that office has done in connection with the road, the Island Highway will always be a disgrace until it is paved. It is the main artery of Vancouver Island and should receive special attention at the hands of the Government," Mr. Davie declared.

SPROAT LAKE-TOFINO ROAD

The speaker described Long Beach, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, as one of the scenic beauties of North America, and urged the linking up of arterial highways with Long Beach. He spoke of the value of tourist traffic, and believed that Long Beach would prove a great attraction to visitors if the highways were extended to such points of importance.

The Government was to be congratulated, he stated, on having such a man of Hon. N. S. Lougheed's capacity in the post of Minister of Public Works.

ORIENTAL ISSUE

Mr. Davie, referring briefly to the Oriental question, said that "every member of the House must by now have his own views on this matter.

B.C. Dairy Pool Takes Option on Big Feed Plant

NEW WESTMINSTER, March 6.—Option on one of the three big feed companies operating in the province has been taken by a joint committee of the British Columbia Egg Pool and the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, and the deal is likely to be consummated within a month, according to a report given at the annual meeting of the Egg Pool today. The feed concern operates an elevator in Vancouver and a branch office in New Westminster.

Rifles Battalion Of Two Regiments To Be Permanent

OTTAWA, March 6.—The perpetuation of the 1st Canadian Mounted Rifles Battalion, C.E.F., jointly by the Manitoba Mounted Rifles and the Saskatchewan Mounted Rifles has been authorized, according to an announcement by the Department of National Defence today.

HOPE MARKING REGATHERING OF DELEGATES

Return of French Delegation and Resumption of Work Featured by Much Optimism

BELIEVE FRENCH TO MAKE CONCESSIONS

(Associated Press)

LONDON, March 6. — A French delegation returned to the London Naval Conference tonight, ready to join in the strenuous new drive toward disarmament that is expected to begin tomorrow with the reassembling of the five delegations in St. James' Palace for the first time in three weeks.

Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, and Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, son of the Prime Minister, extended the British Government's welcome. After a general greeting like a homecoming party, the veteran M. Aristide Briand led his party off to re-establish itself at the Carlton Hotel. M. Briand came as acting head of the delegation, since Premier Tardieu is studying the flood situation in France.

NEW SITUATION

An entirely new conference situation faces the French as they return from putting their domestic political house in order.

Considerable technical work has been accomplished, but real progress concerns the larger issues, such as the Anglo-American accord, which, it was authoritatively learned today, is in sight.

The American-Japanese naval problem also has changed materially Canadian Wheat Losing Out Is View of Expert

WINNIPEG, March 6.—Europe cannot be compelled to purchase wheat over and above the market price, declared Mr. W. Sanord Evans, M.P.P., addressing the Winnipeg Board of Trade today. Mr. Evans stated that Europe has shown that force cannot be used and until "we can persuade importing countries to take more wheat, our surplus is going to keep accumulating."

Canadian wheat, he said, had lost ground in the markets of the world. "It is regarded, not as Manitoba Hard Wheat, the best in the world, but simply as wheat." Mr. Evans added that the "pain fact" was that "Canada faces the task of regaining the position she formerly held."

FINANCIAL POLICY IS ARRAIGNED

Leader of Opposition Speaks on Budget Proposals in Critical Spirit

SETS PACE TOO FAST FOR B.C.

Complains of Government Failure to Deal With Certain Important Questions

THE leader of the Opposition launched his attack upon the Government upon its financial policy, as set out in the budget, in his speech yesterday afternoon. Mr. T. D. Pattullo never lacks vigor in his attack, and his contribution to the debate was in keeping with his record. It was a general condemnation of the Government, each of the departments coming in for its share of criticism in turn.

The Opposition leader took exception to the policy the Government had adopted in preparing for increased expenditure. Mr. Pattullo laid it down as an improper line to follow for a new Government, in view of the fact, he contended, that it would be found impossible to recede from the pace so set in future years, and that therefore heavy expenditures were inevitable.

He offered some defence of the old Government with respect to its policies, especially that regarding his own Department of Lands, by ascribing the blame to the former Conservative Government, which had set the pace for the policy pursued. In one respect Mr. Pattullo took responsibility, and that was with regard to the soldiers' land settlement policies, which he said were justified in view of the situation, as the late Government saw its duty at the time.

Mr. Pattullo expected nothing coming of the Pacific Great Eastern investigation, and contended that the Government had gone back on its pre-election promises with respect to reduction of taxation, to

Dominions Do Nothing Toward Aid

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, March 6.—The House of Commons yesterday heard hints that the Dominions should contribute towards the expenses of the Empire Marketing Board. Mr. H. Mander, Liberal, Wolverhampton East, asked what contributions the Dominions had made to the publicity side of the board in the last three years.

"None," replied Mr. William Lunn, M.P., Under Secretary for the Dominions.

Mr. Mander then asked: "Should the Dominions not be asked to pay something?" The Under Secretary did not reply to this.

Mr. A. E. Haycock, Labor, West Salford, who was born in Ontario, wanted to know if the Dominions had not been asked to reciprocate by encouraging the purchase of British goods.

"I see no reason why they do not do it," replied Mr. Lunn.

Part of the Empire Marketing Board's publicity consists of special posters. Those being displayed just now illustrate the British Columbia salmon fisheries and extoll the value of fish as food.

Prince of Wales Now Recovering Complete Health

LONDON, March 6.—Sir Ronald Ross, director in chief of the Ross Institute, of which the Prince of Wales is a patron, today received from Nairobi the following telegram, bearing the signature of the Prince's equerry:

"His Royal Highness is now convalescent and the doctors state complete recovery may be expected at the end of this week. His Royal Highness appreciates the directors' kind telegram."

Rabies Outbreak In Oregon Said Worst for Years

PORTLAND, Ore., March 6 — A sudden outbreak of rabies, declared by cattlemen to be the worst since 1915 when about $1,000,000 worth of cattle were lost in Oregon, was reported in Harney County by Elmer Williams, Assistant Predatory Animal Control Leader of the United States Biological Survey, who returned here today from a survey of general conditions in that county.

Funeral Planes With Bodies of Flyers Delayed

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 6. — The aerial funeral cortege which left Teller today for Fairbanks, via Nome and Ruby, with the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, will remain overnight at Ruby because of poor flying conditions.

BOTH SIDES IN READINESS FOR INDIAN CRISIS

Lord Irwin Not Expected to Make Reply to Ultimatum Sent Him by Mahatma Gandhi

AUTHORITIES MOVE TO PREVENT RIOTS

By CONSTANTINE BROWN
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

LONDON, England, March 6.—There is no likelihood that Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, will accept, or even answer, Mahatma Gandhi's ultimatum demanding complete independence and, consequently, the Nationalists are quietly preparing their civil disobedience campaign, set to begin March 12.

Initiating the nonco-operation movement, approximately 40,000 Indians, representing all the Hindu provinces, are gathering around their leader for a "triumphal march" next Wednesday deliberately to gather salt without paying the tax. They will start from Sabermati, go to the sea coast a few miles distant, gather salt and then return to town after having flaunted the authority of the tax collectors.

AFTER FIRST HONORS

There is a scramble among the 117 owners of the salt deposits in that district for the honor of first offering Gandhi and his friends the salt, which they believe will start the great move for independence. Some owners have offered to transfer their property to Gandhi's name to enable the Nationalists to act without possible prosecution on grounds of taking salt not belonging to them.

Meantime the British authorities are taking precautions necessary to cope with the situation. About 2,000 armed policemen are detailed to Gujrath, northern subdivision of

Mr. W. A. Irish Is Remanded on Perjury Charge

WINNIPEG, Man., March 6.—Mr. William A. Irish, facing charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with the $2,000,000 Alexander Macdonald will case, received a remand of eight days when his case was called in police court today. He will appear on March 15. Mr. Irish, who is free on $10,000 bail, did not appear in court.

Two charges of perjury and one of conspiracy have been laid against him, arising out of alleged false affidavits made in connection with the Macdonald will when it was up for probate before the Surrogate Court.

THREE LOST IN FIRE

BOSTON, Mass., March 6.—Three persons, a man, a woman and a three-year-old boy, lost their lives in a fire which swept through an apartment here early today.

A dozen persons were taken to the hospital, dangerously burned.

Red Demonstrations Mainly Confined to Turbulent Rioting

Gatherings of Communists Are Reported in Most of European Capitals but There Was Nothing Serious Save in Berlin—Parade in London Took on Strong Pink Color

Clashes With Police at Seattle End in Arrests

LONDON, March 6.—International Unemployment Day was observed in most of the capitals of Europe today with parades of Communists and jobless. Many arrests of leaders in clashes were made but there was very little disorder of importance except in Berlin. "Red Thursday" proved only a pale pink in the British Isles. In Dublin there were some lively incidents as a large number of unemployed attempted to march on Leinster House where the dail sits. They were charged by police who used their batons and arrested eight demonstrators.

In London a demonstration near the Tower of London led to some skirmishing with the police in which five demonstrators were injured. Four men were arrested in Glasgow and five in Manchester. No reports of disturbances were received from elsewhere in the country.

CLASH AT BERLIN

Communists and police clashed at the municipal employment offices in Berlin, the most serious being at the central office, where a mob of 3,000 jobless blocked the streets. At one place the demonstrators attacked the police with bricks and other missiles, but were dispersed shortly. Riotous clashes were reported from Hamburg, Breslau and Kiel.

Paris went about its business, and Communist demonstrations of any consequence failed to materialize. Special detachments of police were on hand but they had little to do. The big department stores, as a measure of precaution, gave up their sidewalk sales for the day.

There were demonstrations in Stockholm, Seville, Antwerp, Copenhagen and Budapest, but no disorders were reported, although in some arrests were made.

RIOTING IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, March 6.—Defying police orders that there should be no parades or other Communist gatherings in Seattle today in the world-wide demonstration against capitalism, approximately 1,000 persons, bearing Soviet and Communist banners, battled with mounted and foot patrolmen of the Seattle police force at noon today.

The officers and paraders clashed at the corner of Occidental and Washington Streets, deep in the "skidroad" district of Seattle. The mounted patrolmen charged the marchers and tore down their banners as foot officers rushed in to

GOVERNMENT ACT "SMACKS OF CLOSURE"

Motion of Prime Minister King Cuts Short Discussion on Topic of Veterans' Pensions

CONSERVATIVES GET IN STRONG PROTEST

OTTAWA, Ont., March 6.—Debate on the resolution of Dr. Peter McGibbon, Conservative, Muskoka, Ont., with respect to soldier's pensions, was resumed in the House of Commons this afternoon by Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Conservative, Toronto East. While he approved of the measures proposed by the Government for instituting veterans' allowances, he thought the House should first consider amendments to the Pensions Act.

Pensions should be treated as something quite distinct from any allowances which might be granted. A pension was something to which a man was entitled by virtue of his service. He objected to veterans who were entitled to pensions being asked to waive their pensions and take allowances instead.

WANTS SOMETHING DEFINITE

He had no objection, Mr. Ryckman continued, to the resolution going to a committee of the House. He did think, however, that the Government should introduce amendments to the Pensions Act so that the committee would have something definite to work on. He wanted the committee to have a mandate from the House authorizing it to embody the principle of shifting the onus of proof from the applicant for a pension to the administration in legislation.

OTTAWA, March 6.—Hearings into railway questions in Western Canada will begin on March 11, at Winnipeg, when the railway commissioners open their Western trip. It is expected that this section of the board will be kept away from the capital for about a month.

Hungry Cougar Is Caught by Crew of Boat

VANCOUVER, March 6.—A fight to death between a hunger-crazed cougar and the crew of a local tug, armed with pike poles, was told here today, with the arrival of the steam tug Pronative.

According to Captain W. Urquhart, in command of the tug, the savage cat, attracted to the vessel as it lay in Loughborough Inlet recently, launched itself from a cliff fifteen feet high and landed in a work boat, out of which Captain Urquhart had just stepped to shore. The impact partially upset the small boat and the animal fell into the water. The cougar then started for the tug, which was only twenty-five feet from shore. But before it could clamber on board, the crew managed to shove it under water. They continued to push the big cat under until it drowned.

The crew took the animal's body from the water, skinned it and heaved the carcass overboard. As a result of their adventure, the crew will split the $40 bounty and $20 for which amount they disposed of the skin here today.

Grain Agencies Help Cash and Futures Wheat

CHICAGO, March 6. The Farmers' National Grain Corporation and its ally, the Grain Stabilization Corporation, are supporting both the cash and futures wheat markets, Mr. W. G. Kellogg, general manager of the Grain Corporation, made known today in outlining the policy of the two Federally controlled grain agencies.

Mr. Kellogg, replying to an inquiry from a Minneapolis miller regarding the policy of the Grain Corporation, said: "It is our intention to support both the cash and futures wheat markets. Mills can continue to sell flour as safely as they did in the past."

The Grain Corporation now is buying at the market price rather than paying the loan values fixed by the Farm Board, which policy was abrogated last week.

STRIKERS FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—One man was shot to death and three seriously wounded tonight in a battle between employees of the H. C Aberle Hosiery mills and alleged members of the Hosiery Workers' Union and their sympathizers.

Who Surrendered? Is What Is Being Asked of Action Of Leader of New Crusade

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 6.—Who did the surrendering, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin or Lord Beaverbrook? This is the question being asked rather listlessly today. There seems to be no doubt that Lord Beaverbrook's United Empire party has marched to the sound of its own music completely off the scene. Neither the Rothermere Mail or the Beaverbrook Express has the slightest reference to the crusade in their principal news pages today.

The Express prints a long editorial which contains nothing new except at the end, the suggestion, phrased ever so nicely, that Mr. Baldwin had been brought into line. "As a party committed to one ideal only, the United Empire party welcomes the Baldwin pledge with unhesitating enthusiasm," The Express said. This way of putting it seemed to warrant the impression that Lord Beaverbrook is only too glad to find himself arm-in-arm again with the Conservative leader.

WHO MADE OVERTURES?

But who made the first overtures? Was there a go-between? Some are disposed to think it was the fertile brain of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill which provoked the first whispering of the magic word "referendum" as a means of deciding the vexing question of taxes on food, involved in the plan of a barrier around the Empire against foreign goods.

In any event, the suggestion was circulated with subdued persistence at a gathering at a certain country house in Surrey last week-end. Today's Manchester Guardian gives an account of what happened—contributed by "an entirely uninformed and untruthful informant." It runs like this:

"One can imagine a conversation

FINANCIAL POLICY IS ARRAIGNED

the improvements with respect to mining policies and described the Government as an exceptionally extravagant one.

The leader of the Opposition spoke for over an hour and a half.

The Government had promised reduction in expenditures, the Leader of the Opposition said.

STAFF INCREASE

Excluding police, eleemosynary institutions, commissioners of inquiry and the army of temporary help not in the civil service, this Government had increased the technical staff by 12 per cent; the temporary staff by 48 per cent, and the otherwise permanent civil service by 11-2 per cent.

By changes made last year, this Government reduced grants which municipalities would have received from liquor profits and the Motor Vehicle Act, and this year proposes definitely to fix the amount of liquor profits and motor licence fees which shall be paid to the municipalities, irrespective of any increase in revenue from these sources.

In spite of this Government the growth of the province was going to continue, but the grants won't remain as they were, the Opposition leader said.

"Under the guise of relieving the municipalities of certain expenditures in connection with roads, the fact is that individuals within these municipal areas will pay more than heretofore, every dollar of which will go into the provincial treasury," Mr. Pattullo said.

While motor licence fees were formerly earmarked for highway purposes, now both licence fees and gasoline tax go into the consolidated revenue and these sources of revenue will be used, not merely to meet highway construction and maintenance, but as a contribution to all other functions of government as well.

TAX INCREASE

While the Government had increased the gasoline tax 66 2-3 per cent, its increase of taxation over all sources of revenue, not including the sale of natural resources and liquor profits, was 10 per cent.

He said one would have thought the Government would have kept down expenditures. It would be impossible to cut down in future.

Dealing with the Department of Agriculture Mr. Pattullo said there was a very substantial increase of expenditure in this department. The bounty on coyotes was to be paid from this department and expenditure under the Attorney-General's department was reduced accordingly. This was doubtless intended to make it appear that the game department is being run more economically than formerly.

An example of how little the Government understood the work of the agricultural department was shown when the Land Settlement Amendment Act was before the House recently, and the minister could explain. There was an example of the methods of this department in the handling of the Sumas lands, when the minister, in answer to questions, as is usual with the Government, surrounds it with secrecy. It was common talk that a syndicate has offered a low price.

"We have also an example in the fact that the Land Settlement Board, with decreasing business, is loaded down with increasing overhead," Mr. Pattullo remarked.

He referred to Mr. Sanford Evans leaving the Conservative party. He felt that his experience in British Columbia must have brought this about. He asked why Hon. T. G. Coventry was not asked to investigate the irrigation lands.

CRITICIZES MR. POOLEY

Giving attention to the Attorney-General's department Mr. Pattullo said it showed considerable increase in expenditure. The ruthless parsimony of the Attorney-General had not only been a material factor in the increase of expenditure in all departments but had brought the administration of justice and governmental administration generally into disrespect. There had been 152 justices of the peace appointed and thirty-two appointments rescinded.

The report of the investigator into the Liquor Control Act had not yet been filed. Administration under this Government, however, is becoming notorious. The responsibility of the liquor department rested upon the Attorney-General.

"I wish to draw the attention, also, of this House and of this country, to the ever mounting profits from the sale of liquor under the Government Liquor Act," said Mr. Pattullo. "Before the Liberal Government went out of power the matter was under investigation and the price would have been reduced. The province is becoming more and more dependent upon profits from the sale of liquor to carry on administration. This is not a healthy situation and should immediately cease.

The price of liquor should be reduced and administration should, with each year, become less dependent, instead of more dependent, on the profits of liquor to carry on the business of the country.

UNIVERSITY LANDS

"Notwithstanding the reduced expenditure upon the university, the estimates are increased for the ensuing year. With his well-known antagonism to the university, the minister has not hesitated to work further injury upon the undertaking through an attack upon the university endowment lands—of which I will have the opportunity to say more later. Meantime, we are to have an increase in taxation. He said that rumor has it that a tract of that land was to be sold to a syndicate. The lands would in time become one of the most beautiful places in America.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The Department of Labor shows substantial increase. This was due largely to the Old Age Pension Act, for which the Liberal administration was responsible. The minister, according to his own statement, did nothing to relieve unemployment except to send one delegate to Winnipeg. On the contrary, he refused to see a delegation of unemployed who waited upon him, except through one man as spokesman. He surrounded himself with officials.

Hon. W. A. McKenzie said this satement was absolutely untrue.

Mr. Pattullo contended he has a letter from one of the delegation who said he had been most courteously received by the Premier, but the Minister of Mines had pounded the table and called the police.

Mr. McKenzie reiterated that the statement was untrue.

There was a reduction in the estimates of the Department of Mines—and well there might be—for, according to answers to questions, the minister had done nothing to implement the pledges he made to the electors of Penticton. The Conservative party pledged itself to eliminate all miners' licence fees, but they had heard nothing further of this since election. The Minister of Mines was simply sitting down and doing nothing.

He contended that geological lectures and investigation of pulverized coal followed questions asked by the Opposition.

ATTACKS MR. HOWE

In the Provincial Secretary's department, the leader of the Opposition said, estimates show a very substantial increase, notwithstanding large amounts that were charged up the year the administration went out of office. They had no intimation whatever from the Provincial Secretary as to preventive measures, which would ultimately reduce the cost of many institutions, and which would relieve incalculable suffering. "The Provincial Secretary is simply drifting and spending more money," he asserted.

In the Department of Fisheries the Provincial Secretary is also Commissioner of Fisheries, and substantial increase is shown in this vote. The manner in which the Commissioner of Fisheries had handled the fishery situation is a striking example of the ineptitude of this administration to carry on the functions of Government. To use a homely illustration—the canners took the Commissioner of Fisheries out to deep water, threw him overboard, and told him to swim ashore, and he is not ashore yet.

FOREMEN WITH CHAUFFEURS

In the Department of Public Works, the head deputies in the Department of Public Works are the same deputies who served under Dr. Sutherland, when he was Minister of Public Works, during which time the department was subjected to scathing criticism. "Apparently we now have a 'superman' at the head of affairs, but I notice that this 'superman' is the most extravagant operator we have ever had in this province. He was running wild in an orgy of expenditure; he was showing favoritism in expenditure; most rabid partisanship was being exhibited in the conduct of his department; and it was little wonder that we were faced with the budget which now confronts us, when road foremen were supplied with chauffeurs, as was the case in Prince Rupert.

The Department of Lands showed a considerable increase of expenditure, and also a considerable increase in revenue. A portion of this proposed increase in expenditure, he presumed, was on account of anticipated administration of the railway belt and Peace River block. He presumed, also, that the anticipated increase in revenue was due to the same source. He had some considerable doubt as to the net revenues that would be derived from this source for some time.

RAILWAY LANDS

In connection with the return of the Peace River block and the railway lands, the Prime Minister, in making his reference to the completion of the agreement between the Dominion and the province, did not err on the side of lack of appreciation of his own administration and other Conservative activities. He did not pay any tribute to the Dominion Government for its generosity in turning over these vast areas, and in turning them over without reducing the usual subsidy to this province.

Mr. C. F. Davie interjected that the Prime Minister had given due credit to the Dominion authorities.

This House would be well advised, he thought, to keep Dominion politics out of it. There were plenty of provincial issues to discuss, without introducing Dominion matters, the discussion of which was futile in so far as any action that this House could take.

TIMBER LICENCES

"I notice in the estimates of revenue for the Department of Lands, and according to the statement of the Minister of Finance, $300,000 additional revenue is anticipated from reinstatement of timber licences," said Mr. Pattullo. The department and the Government is adopting a most vicious principle. Apparently they propose to throw wide open the reinstatement of timber licences that have lapsed. This is equivalent to reviving the policy of the McBride-Bowser administration, which inaugurated the policy of wide-open staking of the timber resources of this province, yet thereafter put a stop to further acquirement of timber except through competitive purchase for actual operation.

"Apparently the Government proposes to allow any former licence-holders, whose licences reverted to the Crown, and which have been Crown property anywhere from one to twenty years, to reinstate themselves by paying up back dues. No licencee will reinstate himself unless the timber is worth much more than the back dues. The Government, therefore, proposes to turn over to former licencees, Crown property, which may run into the millions. It will be found that the estimate for Government timber sales on the Crown property is consequently too high, and will not be reached.

"The policy of the Government in respect of lapsed timber licences is vicious in the extreme, and capable of gross misuse. The other activities of the Minister of Lands are on a par with this proposal."

While he was minister, Mr. Pattullo said he had only returned such lands after careful investigation by a board.

FORESHORE LANDS

At the terminus of a proposed transcontinental railway, at the town of Stewart, in the very heart of the waterfront abutting the townsite, the Department of Lands turned over to the Stevens family fifteen acres of land at $10 per acre. The minister made no inquiry as to the industrial purpose for which it was required, nor any stipulation as to the establishment of a specific industry to justify alienation of a so large and valuable area in the heart of a potential transcontinental terminus.

Similarly, eighty-eight acres at the mouth of the Fraser were sold to Mr. Trites for $5 per acre, and this same eighty-eight acres, together with an adjacent area, for which some $10,000 had been paid, were subsequently offered for airport purposes to Vancouver for $150,000.

Mr. Maitland pointed out the property was not taken.

Mr. Pattullo said there was increased value at any rate.

"A PARTY HACK"

With respect to the important problem of irrigation, the minister had done nothing, although given a wide authority to do practically as the Government pleases at the last session. It is true that a party hack was appointed to report upon the irrigation question, but now that he has left the Conservative party he felt a little more friendly toward him. That gentleman had not offered a scintilla of information that was not already well known in the department. He offered no concrete plan, but the problem was just where it was—to be worked out by departmental officers.

"This minister has also not hesitated to perpetrate gross injustice upon individuals and corporations, who, in good faith, entered into undertakings with the previous administration, and the minister went so far as to suggest, as justification for his actions, that it was customary for men, when minister, to enter into undertakings without proper authority," said Mr. Pattullo. "When our administration came into office we found that the old administration had given certain undertakings. Through the use of the bludgeon we might have repudiated some of these undertakings, but we did not do so. We assumed that they were entered into in good faith, and we carried them through."

The Leader of the Opposition went into the question of the Kootenay Reclamation Flats.

He criticized the action of the Minister of Lands in this matter. Turning to the Water Act, he regretted that the promise to strengthen its provisions had not been taken. Mr. Pattullo contrasted the announced transmission of a report to Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas and the statement in the British House of Commons that Mr. Thomas had not received it.

The Prime Minister said he was not responsible for what Mr. Thomas said. He had stated what had taken place.

"As Minister of Railways, on the suggestion of Mr. Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the Premier entered into an agreement for joint survey, costing this province a very large sum of money, notwithstanding the fact that there was already on file sufficient information to determine general policy.

P.G.E. COLONIZATION

"The Prime Minister, on the debate on the Address, told the House that in case neither of the two transcontinental railways would undertake solution of the Pacific Great Eastern problem, that there were other people with whom he hoped to be able to do business. Nothing but inexperience and entire lack of business knowledge would permit such a statement under present conditions.

"With the alignment and present relationship of the two national railways to themselves and to the country as a whole, no railroad man, or anyone else in his sane senses, would undertake the purchase of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and extension to the Peace River upon any terms that this province could accept.

"The Minister of Railways and Prime Minister had raised false hopes in the minds of many people who have not had opportunity to give thought to the situation and who may pay some consideration to the prestige of the position of Prime Minister, but it is simply folly to try to convince an intelligent body of men, such as the private members of this House.

The Prime Minister pointed out that before the election the Government of which Mr. Pattullo was a member tried to convince the people that the road was about to be built.

Mr. Pattullo returned with the statement that at that time negotiations had reached a very favorable position.

The Prime Minister intimated that he knew something of this that Mr. Pattullo did not know.

"NEVER BE SOLVED"

"The fact of the matter is that unless the province is prepared to undertake to construct a line to the Peace River and operate both the Peace River line and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway problem will never be solved except by one of the two, or both, national railways. The railways will solve this problem when they think the time opportune and meantime the people will pay," said Mr. Pattullo.

LAND POLICIES

"We are advised that the Government is embarrassed in its finances by reason of the lack of policy by the former administration in respect of lands, and we are led to believe that the huge increases in our public debt and taxation are due, in large measure, to the heavy losses which will be incurred on account of the soldier settlement schemes which we inaugurated, and on account of the lack of collection of some ten million dollars of taxes against various classes of lands, said the Leader.

"As far as the soldier settlement schemes are concerned, we have no apologies to offer. They were undertaken at the request of, and for the benefit of, returned soldiers, and we anticipated that there would be a loss. The Minister of Finance says that these have been written down in their valuations, but according to his figures, the loss will be some nine million dollars. I think the minister has made a grave error in writing down these valuations, as the estimated loss is only a guess, and intending purchasers will refuse to pay more than present valuations, even although present valuations are too low.

REVERTS BACK

"The alleged loss of ten million dollars for back taxes on reverted lands follows as a natural consequence of the policy laid down by the administration which preceded our administration. Everyone recalls the exploitation of the natural resources of this province, and the taking up of all the best acreage adjacent and contiguous to transportation. The administration which had sold this land at $2.50 and $5 an acre, by statute law, increased the price of Crown lands to $5 and $10 an acre. The vast preponderance of these lands were held, as a consequence, at very high prices, and largely speculative. When the boom burst, the result was exactly the same as the collapse in the stock market. Large areas gradually reverted to the Crown for non-payment of taxes. Our administration was not responsible, either for the inflation or the deflation that occurred in land speculation.

"The proposal to reduce the wild land tax is an attempt to get more revenue. As a matter of fact, the lands that are now held, which are paying a wild land tax, are either the very best class of land, or are held by people who are in a strong financial position."

The old Government took full responsibility for the loss in the Soldiers' Settlement Lands. It did its duty as it saw it at the time.

GOVERNMENT BORROWINGS

The Government had borrowed more than $15,000,000 since it came into office. The answers given by the Minister of Finance, as reported in the Votes and Proceedings, did not reconcile themselves to each other. One answer states that the gross net borrowings were some $13,916,000. Answers to another question indicate that they were over $15,000,000. As a matter of fact, in the first instance the answer is incorrect in at least $815,000. In answer to another question the minister stated that $6,449,000 odd had been borrowed under Loan Act, Chapter 36 of the Statutes 1929. This answer was not correct, as $750,000 more than this amount was borrowed under this act.

The Government was taking new borrowing powers of $15,000,000 more, which with already existing powers, totals $24,000,000.

The Government sold six million Treasury notes, payable three million this year and three million next year, bearing 5½ per cent, at 99¾.

This sale was a private sale, no tenders being called for. At the time of the sale institutions in the East were bulging over with money to buy bonds, as witness the Province of Ontario disposing of thirty million long-term bonds, while the Canadian Pacific Railway also sold an issue of thirty million.

Through the improvidence of this administration, the Government was forced to make this sale, as the bank demanded the money at a rate of between 5.50 and 5.75 per cent.

The Minister of Finance said the banks did not force the Government to sell any bonds.

"It was utterly untrue. There never was a more untrue statement made in the House," said the minister.

The minister went on to say that the Province of British Columbia throughout the year got its money at a cheaper rate than any other province in the Dominion.

"The minister recites the excellent financial credit of the province, and there is no doubt that there was, as a matter of fact, built up during our tenure of office, an enviable credit in the financial world," said Mr. Pattullo. "It is a matter of record that the credit of the province, when we took office, was at a very low ebb. This Government is offering all kinds of excuses for its inability to cope with affairs of Government, and it is seeking to place the blame on our administration.

"PLUNGES MADLY ALONG"

"Instead of curtailing all but vital services, the Government is making unnecessary expenditures, and has appointed innumerable partisan commissions, costing in themselves tens of thousands of dollars, and in final results, not only scores, but hundreds of thousands of dollars. Incompetent and inept, the Government plunges madly along.

"The Minister of Finance tells us that a close study will be made during the coming year of the whole financial and taxation structure. This Government knew all about everything before it came into office, so it said, and has had eighteen months, and the assistance of innumerable commissions, yet it is not able to submit any measure to relieve the burden of taxation, but on the contrary, has added to that burden.

"The Prime Minister and his colleagues, before election, persuaded the people of this province that we were tax-ridden to death, notwithstanding that immediately following election to office, the Prime Minister told the people of Great Britain that taxes here were low and equitable. The Minister of Finance views our financial structure with grave concern, but is able to offer no remedial measure, and is going to investigate. I have never been anything else than optimistic, but I confess that I view with alarm conduct of Government as it now exists in this province."

Pictures of Nepal Shown in London

LONDON, March 6.—The first photographic record of Nepal, the little known state between India and Tibet, has been exhibited to a group of scientists in London.

The pictures, which were taken by Sir Malcolm Watson and Major H. Lockwood-Stevens during an expedition to India to fight a malaria scourge, portray an intimate record of the life of Nepal.

The famous temple in Khatmandu, where rests "the green eye of the little yellow god," is pictured for the first time in history. Nepal is said to have been visited by only sixty Europeans within the last hundred years.

FIRE LOSS MAKES LARGE INCREASE

Statistics Just Published Show Losses to Have Been Five Million Over Previous Year

OTTAWA, Ont., March 6.—Fire losses in Canada in 1929 reached a total of $31,469,000, an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over the preceding year, according to a report issued by Mr. G. D. Finlayson, Dominion Superintendent of Insurance. Fire insurance premiums written during 1929 amounted to $58,393,000, an increase of $1,281,000.

Losses in automobile risks totaled $9,518,000 or 56.51 per cent of policies written as against 62.18 per cent in 1928.

Canadian life insurance companies issued in 1929, in Canada and elsewhere, a total net amount of paid-for business of $1,311,603,392, exceeding that of 1928 by $229,236,264, or 21.2 per cent. Of this amount there was issued in Canada $637,188,905, or 5 per cent more than in 1928, and outside the Dominion $674,414,487 or 41.8 per cent more than in 1928.

The year 1929 proved much more favorable for the hail insurance companies, the loss ratio being 28.24 per cent of the premiums compared with 100.39 per cent in 1928.

B.C. SAFETY LEAGUE WIRES ITS CONGRATULATIONS TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Programme Adheres Closely to Schedule — Field Day Tomorrow

The British Columbia Safety League, with headquarters in Vancouver, wired the following message yesterday to Mr. Fred St. Onge, who is directing a safety campaign for cyclists and others in Victoria this week, as follows: "On our behalf, please thank Mr. Deane, municipal inspector of schools, and the principals for their cordial response and interest in your lectures and demonstrations in schools of Victoria. Not only in own self-protection but from the standpoint of good sportmanship and 'playing the game' with motorists should cyclists abandon their careless traffic habits." (Signed) British Columbia Safety League, Percy Abell, manager.

Yesterday, Mr. St. Onge, according to schedule, visited North Ward School, Burnside School and South Park School, and was greeted with the same hearty reception by principals, teachers and scholars, as in all the schools of Victoria, where he has been seen and heard this week. Today an assembly has been arranged by Principal Dilworth at the high school, and this will conclude the school demonstrations, to be followed by the public outdoor demonstration and contests at Royal Athletic Park on Saturday morning. Hundreds of boys and girls, it is expected, will be seen in competition at Royal Athletic field tomorrow morning for the many prizes to be given in the joycycle races, plank riding contest and newspaper delivery contest.

More than 400 riders attempted to cover the narrow plank in the last contest when Mr. St. Onge visited Victoria, and the contest was won by Gilbert Post, a student at Victoria High School. Young Post rode the board once and 149 feet, or a total of 299 feet. Margaret Becklick, of Sir James Douglas School, was second with a score of 245 feet. Many scholars have declared the old records will go by the board on Saturday morning. The programme will get under way at 10 a.m. sharp. Movie camera men will film the event for the news weeklies, and the pictures will be shown all over the world. It looks like a great day for young Victoria cyclists tomorrow.

CARIBOO HAS OPPORTUNITIES

Possibilities for Placer Mining in Famous Area Have Not Yet Been Exhausted

REPORT ISSUED BY DEPARTMENT

Golden Cariboo may be revived as one of the premier gold-producing areas of British Columbia, as a result of a systematic and thorough examination of that famous old field just completed by the Department of Mines. A report on the possibilities of Cariboo, Omineca, Atlin and Queen Charlotte Islands, particularly, and other placer fields in British Columbia, has been filed by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Mines. It features Cariboo, and included in the information made public are the following facts:

1. A number of ancient river channels have been located, many of which offer excellent possibilities of making rich returns.

2. Large dredging areas have been examined and reported upon as offering opportunities for development.

3. Black sands of Queen Charlotte Island have been examined and are deemed worthy of further exploration with a view to possible operations.

Prospecting in the Cariboo in the past fifteen years has been largely confined to an area within a twelve-mile radius of Barkerville, while alluring ground exists outside of this circle.

5. Some places in Cariboo that should have been examined and prospected years ago, it has been found were never touched.

SECOND OF SERIES

The Bulletin—the second issue of the department for 1930—is the first of its kind dealing with placer mining.

An examination of the placer possibilities of British Columbia was determined upon following a personal inspection on the part of the Minister of Mines to the Omineca and Cariboo districts. Last year, as a result of the determination of the minister to "take stock" of the placer situation, experts were detailed to examine the different districts which had formerly been active producers of placer gold.

Mr. C. W. Moore, a mining engineer thoroughly familiar with Cariboo, was retained to make a special report on that district and the Omineca under the direction of Douglas Lay, the resident mining engineer. Mr. Moore's report is perhaps the most comprehensive and practical one that has ever been incorporated in a public document on that famous old goldfield.

"I would emphasize," he says, "that practically all the placer mining done in the Cariboo division during the past fifteen years has been done within a radius of twelve miles from Barkerville. Geologists and engineers all recognize that if the industry is to be revived we must look for placer fields outside this small area. This is now being done with good results."

Mr. Moore continues to say that the renewed interest in Cariboo mining is largely as a result of the policy of the Mines Department in building trails and roads through the district.

SUGGESTS NEW MAP

After advising the need of a new map of the country he goes on to comment on different localities in both Cariboo and Omineca districts. In respect of the latter he says, in part:

"There are several small creeks in this section which are well worth prospecting and same larger areas which are sufficiently attractive to warrant examination with a view to dredging."

Turning to the Cariboo, he remarks: "In the Cariboo, Quesnel and Omineca mining divisions there are without doubt many excellent opportunities, other than those mentioned in this report. It will, however, require considerable time and investigation to secure sufficient data to present a comprehensive description of the many points of interest to the mining industry."

UNWORKED AREA

Mr. Moore, continuing, says: "As an instance of the possibilities there is a high channel paralleling the Horsefly River on the north which probably has never had a pick in it. There is another channel running from Little Swift River to an outlet on Lightning Creek, about two and a half miles below Wingdam, which is cut by numerous creeks and is quite likely to prove the source of the gold, found above the clay, on Peters Creek and Lightning Creek.

"There are miles of old channels in the Cariboo in which there has never been a hole drilled to bedrock. As a matter of fact, detail knowledge of the Cariboo and Omineca is limited to certain areas."

In reviewing the report of Mr. Moore, Mr. Douglas Lay, the resident mining engineer for the district, sets out that evidences would indicate that in preglacial times there were two Fraser Rivers, one flowing northward, via the Crooked, Pack and Parsnip Valleys along the Rocky Mountain trench, and the other river flowing south from the vicinity of Prince George. After brief comment on the geological features of the Cariboo, Mr. Lay summarizes Mr. Moore's report, saying:

"Other important ancient channels, indicated by Mr. C. W. Moore, are: Upper Antler Creek; an ancient channel west of the Willow River, of considerable length, cut by Dragon Creek and various creeks north of this to Archer Creek; a channel running from Little Swift River to a point on Lightning Creek in the vicinity of the old Bonanza mine, on which end are the leases of W. C. Slade. The old channels of Slate Creek in the Manson section, Omineca."

Possible dredging areas are mentioned as: Saw Mill Flat; Big Valley Creek; Willow River, Lower Swift River, Horsefly River; Mill Ranch Pass, and Eight-Mile Lake.

In Omineca, dredging possibilities are located in the Manson section; the Nation River and tributary, Philip Creek, and on Buck River and Bob Creek, near Houston.

QUEEN CHARLOTTE AREA

Mr. Herbert Carmichael, formerly assistant mineralogist, was secured to report on the placer deposits of Atlin and the black sands of the Queen Charlottes. In his references to Atlin, Mr. Carmichael deals especially with the possibilities for large hydraulicking projects.

It is in connection with the black sands of Graham Island, of the Queen Charlotte group, that he stresses as offering a field for wide, and perhaps profitable exploration. He thinks that the whole northeastern section of the island is black sand bearing, covering an area of roughly 800 square miles. He notes that a gold saving machine was in operation on the beach, and states frankly that he had approached the examination of the black sands with skepticism, while he was prejudiced against gold saving machines.

"When I investigated the Graham Island deposits," he states, "I was forced to change my views both as to the deposits, and the machines used for saving gold."

OAK BAY THEFT TRIAL BEGINS

MRS. B. M. MORE AND MRS. H. M. SWORDER GIVE EVIDENCE IN COURT

Preliminary Hearing of Dawley and Vipond to Be Continued on Monday

Hearing of evidence against C. Vipond and C. Dawley, charged with housebreaking and stealing, was begun yesterday in the Oak Bay police court before Magistrate George Jay. Municipal Prosecutor C. L. Harrison appeared for the Crown and Mr. D. S. Tait for the accused. Evidence was given by three witnesses, including Mrs. B. M. More, whose house is alleged to have been broken into, and her sister, Mrs. H. M. Sworder, who was staying with her, and adjournment was made until Monday.

A map or plan showing the house in its relation to its immediate vicinity was identified by Mr. Walter Watson, assistant engineer for Oak Bay Municipality, as having been drawn by him, and was put in evidence.

HOUSE WAS LOCKED

Mrs. More testified that she had left the house about 1:55 o'clock on March 1, to attend her husband's funeral. Her sister, Mrs. Sworder, had accompanied her. Both had returned to the house at about 5:30 o'clock. They had left their handbags, containing their purses, in the house. Each of the purses had contained money. She had locked the house before going out.

When Mrs. More and Mrs. Sworder returned, they did not notice that anything had been disturbed, witness said. It was not until the following morning that they had occasion to look into their purses. They then went to them to get some silver for the collection in church and discovered that the money which had been left in them was gone. Mrs. More was not sure how much money was left in her own purse, but thought there was a $5 bill. There was more in her sister's, she said.

BILL IDENTIFIED

Mrs. Sworder corroborated her sister's evidence, and gave some additional details. She had left $15 in bills in her purse, she testified, and some silver. There was a $10 bill and a $5 bill.

A $10 bill of the Royal Bank, bearing the serial number C-357,483, was put in evidence by the prosecution on its being identified by Mrs. Sworder as the one left in her purse. Witness said that she identified it because of its general appearance and its yellow back.

Solloway, Mills Score Point in Order on Books

VANCOUVER, March 6. — Although J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., counsel for Solloway, Mills & Company, Limited, contended that search warrants, authorizing the seizure of his clients' books and documents at 545 Granville Street, were not worth the paper they were written on, Mr. Justice Fisher again ordered that the books and documents should not be altered, mutilated, destroyed or removed.

Following a two-hour argument in Supreme Court, Mr. Farris and Mr. Gordon Sloan succeeded in an application on behalf of Solloway, Mills & Company to set aside the order His Lordship made on Tuesday.

Bans Charity Balls

VENICE, March 6.—Charity balls have come under the ban of Cardinal La Fontaine, Patriarch of Venice. In a public letter he wrote: "On such occasions misery becomes an excuse for people to appease their desire to dance by letting fall a little money which will be gathered by the poor.

"The Redeemer gave his life to save souls. But in the modern dance one receives a germ which destroys the soul like lightning."

"I am connected with some of the best families."

PROVINCE AND UNIVERSITY

Full, frank and exhaustive consideration ought to be given to the motion of Captain J. Fitzsimmons (Kaslo-Slocan), in the Provincial Legislature asking for a commission to inquire into the relations of the Government and the University of British Columbia. The cry from Vancouver and other parties of "hands off the university" is equivalent to saying that the taxpayers, after yielding up their money to the Government, should no longer take any interest in its disposition. The university is a provincial institution, made possible by provincial taxation, and its administration, its finances and its future must be viewed from the provincial and not from the Burrard Inlet viewpoint.

It is an axiom of good government that the constitutional control of a legislature over the public expenditure should be exercised with great vigilance and effect. In regard to expenditures of public funds the Legislature must always exercise its inquisitorial powers. In alluding to the power of Parliament in this respect Mr. W. E. Gladstone once said: "It is undoubtedly the business of the House of Commons to be responsible, not only for the inception of all public expenditure, but also to follow the money raised by taxation until the last farthing is accounted for." Had this been done in connection with the University of British Columbia's finances, and, further, in the matter of expenditures on the University Endowment Lands, there is no question whatever that many economies could have been effected. The Legislature has been largely apathetic in these matters. Now it has come as a shock to learn that the endowment lands will never endow the university to the tune of a dollar. The endowment lands have been improved at large expense to provide Greater Vancouver with an attractive residential area. In other words, the Province has paid for extensive improvements which should have been undertaken under municipal administration. To this extent favors have been extended to Vancouve that have not been vouchsafed to any other municipality in the province, and the taxpayers of the province as a whole have paid for these.

The Government, which is responsible to the Legislature, knows very little about the character of the administration of finances of the University of British Columbia. It is only since the present Conservative Government came into power that any attempt has been made to provide some check on the growing demands by the university on the provincial exchequer. The time has come when the best constitutional practice in respect to public expenditures of all kinds should be resumed. In other words, it is the duty of the Legislature to exercise control over the entire revenue and expenditures of the province. It has the power to prevent abuses in the management of public finances and to deal with disputed points of account between the treasury and any department or functionary entrusted with the collection or expenditure of public moneys.

The Legislature during the present session, or most certainly as an outcome of a commission of inquiry appointed as a result of Captain Fitzsimmons' motion, has a duty to perform in ascertaining the course of action to be followed now that the endowment policy for the University of British Columbia has proved a fiasco. It has to consider what will be the character of the State aid to be given to that institution in the future. The taxpayers have already endowed the university to the extent of some $11,000,000. With such an investment they have the right to expect that the Government, which is responsible to the Legislature and the Legislature which is responsible to the people, shall exercise the closest supervision over such heavily endowed State education. There is an exactly similar degree of responsibility attaching to the Legislature and the administration of this province in the matter of higher education as there is where primary and secondary education are concerned.

A GREAT GERMAN ADMIRAL

Admiral Von Tirpitz, the maker of Germany's Navy which was voluntarily sunk in Scapa Flow as an aftermath of the Great War, has died leaving behind him a reputation that varies greatly according as his friends or enemies are the commentators. He got the credit during the Great War of having ordered the merciless submarine campaign, which inflicted such heavy losses on British shipping. In his favor, however, it may be recalled that in pre-war times he was a profound admirer of everything British. All his children were educated in England. British naval traditions commanded his reverential respect. If during his long tenure of office as ruler of the Kaiser's Navy he saw the opportunity of challenging Great Britain's title of "Mistress of the Seas," it was Great Britain's mistakes and the negligence of her politicians that gave him his opportunity. As succeeding events provided scope he went on building up the German Navy, and when war broke it was deemed to be strong enough, as, indeed, it proved to be, to defend the shores of the Fatherland from a British invasion.

Admiral Von Tirpitz, whatever the estimate of him in history, will be remembered by his fellow countrymen as the man who designed the German Naval Law. He was the embodiment of Germany's determined and consistent bid for sea power. He was first appointed Secretary of State for the Navy in 1898 and he held that post through the years of preparation preceding the war. In that time, as well as during the war years, he was one of Germany's strong men, an intense patriot who raised the expenditure on the German Fleet from $30,000,000 in 1898 to $115,000,000 in 1913. The dead admiral was undoubtedly a great politician and a genius in organization. He was suavity and frankness incarnate. He was typical of the Imperial German as it was during the years prior to the outbreak of war, and he interpreted the Prussian doctrine when the struggle came. He was sound, he was sane and he was sagacious in the long years he held office at the Leipziger-Platz, and he rendered eminent national service. In the strain and stress of war his judgment in some particulars became warped, but we doubt if he ever really lost the place of respect which he enjoyed in the estimation of the German people whatever his erstwhile enemies may think of an outstanding figure of the Great War who has now gone to his long rest.

SUGGESTS DOLE FOR CANADA

Mr. Mackenzie King says the day is coming when unemployment insurance will be in operation in Canada. Mr. Peter Heenan, the Federal Minister of Labor, has advised a Toronto delegation to ask Premier Ferguson of Ontario to introduce such legislation and then request the Dominion Government for co-operation. Thus, it seems that the present administration at Ottawa favors the dole in this country. The Liberals must be losing their faith in the destiny of the Dominion when they advocate legislation of such a type in a land of wide spaces, exhaustless resources and but a slim population.

The dole system in Canada would have a tendency towards fostering the coming of such immigrants as might seek to get paid for doing nothing. It would be a detriment to capital investment because the dole has been shown to be an encouragement to laziness. Capital goes where the means of production are well organized, where the spirit of industry prevails, where the opportunities exist of operation under the fewest legislative handicaps. Dole legislation is an incubus on national development, and that the suggestion for its institution should have come from the Federal Government is an indication of a bankruptcy in vision.

The Dominion Government is ready to throw up its hands where an immigration policy is concerned. It has come to the conclusion that the Provinces should separately negotiate their own immigration settlement plans without Federal aid. That is another admission of failure to visualize conditions that apply to prosperous development. Provincial Governments, which almost invariably have shown greater national vision than the Federal administration, will be willing to accept this burden but we feel assured that they will not acquiesce in Mr. Peter Heenan's suggestion that they should put unemployment insurance into effect. That policy and any efforts to promote immigration would be contradictory. The one would neutralize the other. The explanation of the attitude of the Dominion Government in suggesting, within a week, that the Provinces should promote immigration policies of their own, and at the same time put unemployment insurance into effect, is an admission of ineptitude. The Mackenzie King Government has failed to attract immigrants of the right sort in sufficient numbers. Its fiscal policy has been a hindrance instead of a help, and in addition that policy has been the chief reason for the development of unemployment during the present Winter.

The privileges of Parliament cover a multitude of sins, and principally that of irresponsibility in utterances. Miss Ellen Wilkinson, a British Labor member, who is an ardent supporter of the Soviet Republic of Russia, said recently in the House of Commons: "Russian security is the best in the world; it is security backed by a nation that dare not default." The trouble is, however, that the present Russian Government has repudiated securities worth hundreds of millions of pounds. Soviet securities are known to be the worst in the world.

A PRAYER

Give her the sunlight, wherever she goes;
Dear lips to kiss and a heart to break;
Nightlong the sleep of the folded rose—
Let her have these for her own sweet sake.

Give her gay music, wherever she dwells;
The melodies thrushes and linnets make;
Each dawn the waking to silver bells—
Let her have these for her own sweet sake.

Give her small blossoms, wherever she walks,
And evenings of hush where the rainbows live,
And moments alone when her own heart talks—
Let her have these, which I could not give!

—Bert Cooksley, in The New York Times.

No nation can produce its full complement of worthy citizens until all are assured of the bases of life.—E. M. White.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

To an old sword drawn from the bed of the Ettrick River near Philiphaugh, Selkirkshire, where it had lain embedded for nearly 300 years.

Blade, blade, hanging so passive high on the wall,
Tell me, dark blade, whose step do you long for to enter the Hall?
Years you lay smothered 'neath Ettrick's clear stream, Patient, aye breathing that one day your dream,
That dream of revenge—still your tarnish blood-kissed—
Would be yours, and your lord's—Ha, you stir at the thought of yon masterly wrist?

Steel, steel; I ken you are ready to leap when you feel
His strong, clever grasp, and hear the spur ring on his heel;
Tell me, dear blade, on that fateful day did you fail?
For once, 'fore the smashing broadsword did you quail?
Ha, you old rascal; you smile and lift a recalcitrant lip.
Dash; my eyes are deceived if that whurl in your guard didn't give a sly flip.

Blade, blade, listening and waiting,
and hoping so long,
As a dog ever faithful to fight for the right or the wrong;
Was it love, or for guerdon, or unquenchable blood-lust, you strove?
Were you wrenched from his hand in a last desperate effort to prove
That time tak's na' tent whilst fair
Ettrick stream flows?
And ever the breeze from the river,
for you, whispers
"Forget not Montrose."

HASTIE COCHRANE.

Esquimalt, March 5, 1930.

What a wonderful world this is and how pregnant with news of enthralling human interest—if you are a reader of the newspapers—and make notes of the current actions and ambitions of men and the progress of events in the nations. Of course the reactions of men to new and unexpected circumstances are the most interesting features of the news of the day. If you read the reports of the proceedings of our Provincial Legislature, or have had time to attend the sessions and observe the demeanor of our legislators, you will have noticed that the change of the parties from one side of the House to the other has reacted in a peculiar and unexpected way upon the old members—not old in the commonly accepted sense of the term, but old in the political sense of service.

The Leader of the Government is of course a new member of the Legislature, and there is no means of comparing Dr. Tolmie as a member of the Opposition with Dr. Tolmie as head of the Government. The time for such an interesting comparison may come, for there is no more certainty about the course of political events than there is about the course of human events; but the present position of the Government appears to be about as solid and substantial as the physical figure of its leader. However, the Doctor is a politician and philosopher of the cheerful school, and we do not think anything unexpected or unusual in the course of political events could possibly change his outlook upon either politics or life.

The present Leader of the Opposition is also an optimist. He is quite as cheerful in his views as leader of a torn and decimated party as he was when first lieutenant in a government which believed it was as secure in its position as the solid stone walls of the legislative buildings. No unexpected turn in the wheel of fortune can destroy confidence in his capacity to exterminate root and branch by the power of his eloquence and the powder of his logic this administration the people of British Columbia in a moment of mental weakness or temporary political aberration have set up. The Minister of Finance may declare he can prove by the testimony of figures and the logic of facts that Mr. Pattullo by his impetuosity plunged the province into a sea of debts and liabilities which will be a burden upon the taxpayers for years, but the gallant and intrepid leader of the loyal Opposition simply disposes of such allegations with a wave of his magician's hand.

But while the countenance of the Opposition leader is cheerful, the face of his first lieutenant is covered with a pall of gloom. While the leader of the Opposition has put the past behind him and looks into the future with abounding confidence, his first lieutenant cannot forget the past and is filled with forebodings for the future. Mr. Pattullo does not attempt to account for the existing untoward situation; he accepts it. Mr. Manson in all his public statements attempts to explain the situation and blames everybody and everything for it except the members of the late Government and the remains of the formerly triumphant party. He says the people are responsible (which is quite true). He says the Press is responsible (which in a measure may be true). He says the vicious campaign funds are responsible (which we have no doubt may be quite true, although rather incomprehensible considering that the party in power is generally considered in a position of advantage in the matter of collecting campaign funds). Contributors to campaign funds are seldom liberal in their gifts unless they are assured of compensating favors.

Thus from the gloomy point of view of Mr. Manson the political situation would appear to be quite hopeless. Mr. Manson says the politicians are what they are because the people have made them so. We might purify politics by abolishing politicians, but we cannot purify politics by abolishing the people. And if we abolished the present politicians, the people who cannot be abolished would set up another set of politicians. We might abolish the Press, but this would be a dull, drab and dreary world without newspapers. So that any way we look at it, we fear the late Government must be held wholly responsible for the present political conditions and that Mr. Manson must accept his share of the responsibility therefor instead of striving to convince us everybody and everything should be charged with the responsibility. "What cannot be cured must be endured."

SATISFACTION

Full well I know
All joys are brief;
Though white and bent,
Old Time's a thief.

Nor dare I ask
Too much of him,
Who goes with scythe
And visage grim.

I would not hold
The things of youth,
Though these by all
Are prized, in truth.

Careless, I cast
Love, beauty, grace
Away, before
Time's mocking face.

With all the rest
I well can part,
But leave me, Time,
A child's glad heart.

Chamber of Commerce To Hear Mr. Albright

The quarterly meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be held on Friday, March 14, when Mr. W. D. Albright, superintendent of the Beaverlodge experimental substation in the Peace River country, will address the members.

Mr. Albright has traveled thousands of miles through the Peace River country, and it is expected that his address will prove to be of exceptional interest. He has been associated with practical farming for many years, having obtained a diploma at the Ontario Agricultural College. Over sixty acres are now under cultivation at the Peace River experimental station.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.6 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

SAANICH BY-ELECTION

Sir,—In your issue of the 5th inst. I note that Mr. William Stubbs is making an appeal to the Ward 3 electors for their support on Saturday next. Mr. Stubbs was present at the ratepayers' meeting on Saturday night last and was given an opportunity by the chairman to address the meeting, but he did not do so.

The ratepayers present chose Mr. W. F. Somers as their candidate, and to my mind they could not have made a better selection. He is a resident of long standing, has been president of the Gordon Head Fruit Growers' Association since 1917, has served on the municipal council and he has the confidence of all who know him. I believe that all who have the good of the community at heart will see that Mr. Somers heads the poll on Saturday next.

THOMAS WALKER.
San Juan Avenue, Gordon Head, B.C., March 6, 1930.

SEYMOUR NARROWS

Sir,—I would like to ask Mr Losee if his statement that at the present time there is no steamship on the northern run that can buck Seymour Narrows, northbound, one hour after the tide has started to run out (ebb)?

If this statement is correct, Mr. Losee's knowledge of Seymour Narrows is very poor, as a steamer northbound, with the tide ebbing would have a fair tide and would not be bucking it.

He also states that one hour after the tide has started to run out, shipping always waits for slack water to make the passage. I have been through Seymour Narrows many times and have never been on a vessel that waited for slack water.

Please refer to Page 71, of the Pacific Coast tide tables; "sailing directions, Seymour Narrows, written by a well-known navigator. During the ebb northbound the Narrows can be safely run northbound at any stage of the ebb, by a handy ship if fitted with good steering gear.

The broken water on Ripple Rock can be plainly seen, even on the darkest nights, when the current has any strength. These directions also state that a sixteen and seventeen-knot vessel can buck through at any tide.

Would the removal of Ripple Rock lessen the velocity of the current? I say not. We have just read where the Government has worked on Hospital Rock, in Victoria, for fifty years, which is located in the harbor, where they can work without interference of current. How long would it take to remove Ripple Rock, where they could work only during slack water?

Why not dam Canoe Pass, and, possibly blast away part of Mand Island Point, to give the current a straighter course.

SAANICH WARD BY-ELECTION

Sir,—If you will allow me space in your columns, I would like to reply to Mr. Dawson re Ward Three by-election.

Mr. Dawson asks why I did not speak at the meeting? For the simple reason that I was not invited to do so. I have no doubt nearly everyone there knew I was contesting it, as the notice had been in both papers earlier in the week, and under the circumstances it would have been courteous of the chairman to ask me if I wished to address the meeting.

He says the attendance was from all over the ward. It would be interesting to know how many were there from Cadboro Bay, or even outside a radius of one mile of the hall.

He also states that my attitude while in the council was against their interests, and also that I am not acquainted with their problems. I would like to know on what authority he makes these statements.

As the ward which I had the honor to represent for four years was half urban and half rural, I had to have a very open mind on all subjects, and at times it was difficult to see the best course to take.

My sympathies have always been with the producer, no matter in what kind of business, and the only vital question upon which I differed was secession, and I never could see where it would be beneficial to the rural areas, especially looking ahead ten years. I think the decision of the Government proves that my views were sound, and if the residents of Gordon Head had had very definite ideas on the subject, they would have cast in their lot with Wards Five and Six from the very beginning, instead of waiting until after the decision.

With regard to my knowledge of Ward Three problems, I probably know more about them than he does, seeing that I have sat next to the councillor for Ward Three for four years and heard and taken part in all the discussions. That is more than Mr. Dawson can say, or my opponent either, whom he says has been forty-four years a resident and taken active part in municipal affairs. Then why was it that at Saturday's meeting he said he was not very well acquainted with them, and his knowledge of road work was practically nil, or words to that effect?

I have nothing against Mr. Somers personally and as he said he was pressed very hard to take the nomination, so evidently there were not many aspirants clamoring for the honor.

Referring to my previous remarks re the narrow representative area, my contention is borne out by the fact that all the gentlemen who signed Mr. Somers' nomination papers live very close to Gordon Head Hall, whereas the signatories on mine are separated by about six miles. I wonder how it is that some of the names on the former's papers were of people who were not at the meeting? If it was so unanimous why was this necessary.

In conclusion, I will say that if elected I shall be pleased to work along with the ratepayers through the association, providing that all parts of the ward are dealt fairly with, and will attend the meetings to report on business transacted. This has been my usual custom, and I recognized the fact that this is the only means of acquainting the ratepayers with what is going on, as I never was in favor of business behind closed doors.

PRISON AND REFORM

Sir,—The point raised by Mr. Mulholland's letter is worthy of thought. The prison does not necessarily brand the young man as a felon and he may reflect honor upon the prison. "Pilgrim's Progress" came out of a prison. If the college education would not fortify him against temptation and bring out the best in him, the prison may. If punishment as just and consistent as the burning flame could be meted out to us from our earliest years we would not need to fear the law. This young man may be thankful all the rest of his life that he came against this law at the first offence.

LEONE HAYWARD.

SAANICH BY-ELECTION

Sir,—Re Ward Three Saanich municipal election for councillor on Saturday next to fill the vacancy caused by the much-regretted death of Mr. G. F. Watson, I wish to correct an incorrect statement made by Mr. W. Stubbs in an interview appearing in your paper under date of March 5.

Mr. Stubbs states that the ward's meetings are run by a small section, and that he should have been returned by acclamation, as he was the only other candidate at the last election. He also infers that Mr. W. F. Somers, the other nominee, knows very little of municipal affairs.

I wish to state that last Saturday's meeting comprised a very representative gathering of the ward's electors, and as to returning Mr. Stubbs to the Saanich Council by acclamation, I see no reason for so doing, as he is very little known in the ward, having only moved here recently, and there are a number of men of long residence who can quite creditably uphold our interests.

Mr. W. F. Somers has served on the Council and has always taken a great interest in municipal affairs and is well informed on this subject. He has also been president of the Gordon Head Fruitgrowers' Association almost continuously for the last twelve years, and we are very fortunate to have a man of his integrity and ability present himself for election.

No one is more well thought of in the ward than Mr. Somers, and I trust everyone entitled to vote will cast a ballot in his favor on Saturday.

"Well," drawled the farmer, "I reckon he's a lot safer than you are just now."

PLEA VOICED FOR ROAD LINK TO ALBERTA

Mr. J. R. Michell Asks for Survey to Be Made to Connect Up to Jasper Park

BRIDGE WANTED AT CLEARWATER

The claims of his constituents in the district of Kamloops were ably pressed upon the Government yesterday afternoon by Mr. J. R. Michell, in his contribution to the Budget debate in the House. He made no excuses for his attitude on the subjects of being extremely local character, stating that he was in the House to represent his riding to the very best of his ability, and he therefore had no excuses to offer for bringing the needs of that important section of the province to the attention of the Government.

In pressing for consideration by the Minister of Public Works in connection with roads and bridges, he made it clear that he had every confidence in Hon. N. S. Lougheed as an administrator. His work had been very satisfactory, but he wanted the House and the Government to realize just what were the requirements of his riding.

There were some 20,000 people in the riding of Kamloops. He did not want to be regarded as unfair in his demands to know how money was to be spent, but he did wish to have his fair share for the district.

LINK WITH ALBERTA

The claims of the North Thompson valley for a road to connect up with Alberta was stressed. Mr. Michell said that he did not press for this alone to provide a tourist route, but the needs of the residents of the valley made it imperative. There were a lot of residents there now. Only about thirty-five miles remained to be surveyed, in order to connect up with Alberta by way of Jasper. He wanted this surveyed by the department this year, as something required.

In this connection, and backing up the position which he took, he said that there had been resolutions passed, not only in his riding, but in Cariboo, calling for this being done.

The resolutions quoted called for the improving of the road so as to make it an up-to-date one from Jasper Park to Blue River, and then for the carrying through of the completion of the present road from Kamloops for the thirty-five miles remaining to connect with Blue River. The attention of the minister was called to the necessity of this work.

BRIDGE WANTED

On the North Thompson River there were at present ten ferries. He pressed for a bridge at Clearwater, which would afford the opportunity for a part of the residents that now had to use the ferries to reach rail connection.

The road between Spences Bridge and Ashcroft needed attention so that it might become perfectly safe.

The Minister of Education received the thanks of the member for his visit to the schools of Kamloops, and for his consideration of the claims of the residents to relief with regard to educational costs. He felt that he was giving very conscientious attention to the department.

At the same time the Provincial Secretary was thanked for his attention to the hospital needs at Kamloops, and his general interest in the work which was being carried out there.

IRRIGATION MATTERS

In connection with irrigation schemes the member expressed the opinion that great benefit was being derived from some of these works. He had himself in his own district seen the results, and these showed that the schemes had been fully warranted.

The court house situation at Kamloops was gone into by the member. He pointed out that the requirements there were such that the present building was altogether inadequate. He pressed for the setting aside of sufficient money to warrant the carrying out of the work.

VETERANS' NEED

Before he closed, Mr. Michell made a special plea for the returned men. He said that instances came under his eye which showed that there were those who were not being given the attention they should in view of their sacrifices in the time of need. Some of these men were not able to come within the scope of the Pension Act, and yet were suffering deprivation. He felt that the Legislature might well bring the matter to the attention of the Dominion authorities, with the object of having these matters adjusted.

SPEAKS OF VISIT TO BATTLEFIELDS

It was with interest mingled with a good deal of sadness that a capacity audience in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last evening heard Captain William H. Carroll's talk on his fifteen-hundred-mile tour of the battlefields of France and Belgium. Taking as his subject "War Graves of Canadian and British Heroes, Monuments and Cemeteries," the lecturer brought before his listeners something of that phase of the Great War, which is still so vital a part of post-war work. He paid a great tribute to the War Graves Commission for the splendidly organized work in connection with the keeping up and caring for the cemeteries in France and Flanders. He showed a large number of excellent slides, many of which were made from his own photographs taken during his tour.

The resting places of soldiers at Ypres, the Somme and Vimy were shown, and many touching personal anecdotes added to the great appeal of the address, given with a delightful simplicity, sympathy and at the same time a touch of whimsical humor. Captain Carroll, O.B.E., a commandant of the Salvation Army, has been giving his lecture in various parts of Canada, "in love and reverence to the 55,000 Canadian soldiers who died on Flanders Fields."

Father (to Betty, who has laughed at her brother): "Well, Betty, are you so sure yourself that you always know the meaning of some big words you use?"

Betty (primly): "I may not know their meaning, but I do know where to use them."—Punch.

LIVESTOCK MEN FORM NEW BODY

Organization Will Be Known as B.C. Livestock Union and Will Work by Co-operation

VANCOUVER, March 6.—Under the chairmanship of Mr. A. D. Paterson, reeve of Delta, representatives of the livestock industry in all its branches unanimously went on record Wednesday as in favor of the organization of a British Columbia livestock union, with equal representation from all individual organizations.

Copies of the proposed constitution will be forwarded to all organizations for consideration and amendment, and there will be a further meeting held at later date.

The new body would take the place of the British Columbia Stockbreeders' Association which goes out of existence in June, and would function co-operatively for the development of the livestock industry generally, without interfering in any way with the work of sectional organizations.

For the purpose of presenting a united front to governments; for presenting the case of the livestock breeder to the public, and for co-operation with livestock associations of other provinces throughout the Dominion, it is stated that the proposed union would effect a great result.

ROTARY CLUB OF BRISTOL IS NOTABLE

Archdeacon G. F. Davidson, of Regina, Tells of Public Service That Body Is Performing

BIG INFLUENCE IN FOSTERING AMITY

"The Bristol Rotary Club is one of the most wonderful service clubs in the world," Archdeacon G. F. Davidson, of Regina, told Victoria Rotarians at their meeting in the Empress Hotel yesterday, when he described his impressions of a visit he made to Rotary Clubs in the Old Country.

Archdeacon Davidson said that the Bristol Rotary Club owned its own building, which possessed offices, halls for public use, and quarters for visiting Rotarians. The club had its own monthly illustrated magazine, and operated a theatre, paying a stock company to perform throughout the year. This was a form of service which was proving of great value to the community. It had a home for boys, and conducted an employment bureau. There was a women's auxiliary to the club, and a court of past presidents.

"When the citizens of Bristol want to put anything over which requires careful management and skill, they come to the Bristol Rotary organization. There could be no greater tribute to the efficiency and public spiritedness of the club than that," Archdeacon Davidson said.

The speaker remarked that the Bristol Rotary Club paid out $3,000 per month in salaries, which included those of the members of the stock company and the staff of the home for boys.

FLAGS OF NATIONS

Archdeacon Davidson told of visits he had made to Rotary Clubs in Bristol and London, and the fine character of their sessions. He said that all Rotary Clubs in the Old Country had standards bearing the flags of all countries in which Rotary is established. He declared he had been tremendously impressed with the influence of Rotary in international relations.

Felicitations were extended to Rotarian Albert Maynard upon the sixty-eighth anniversary of his arrival in Victoria on March 6, 1862. Rotarian Walter J. Clubb was welcomed on his return from a trip to California. Rev. Montague Bruce was congratulated upon being elected a life member of the Saanich Board of Trade.

All the Rotary members in the Legislature: Hon. J. W. Jones, Speaker; Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance; Mr. J. H. Schofield, Mr. James H. Beatty, Mr. Frank McPherson, Dr. L. E. Borden, Mr. W. F. Kennedy and Mr. George S. Pearson, were present, and were warmly greeted. The guests included Colonel Nelson Spencer, M.P.P. for Vancouver, a member of the Kiwanis Club of the Terminal City.

BY-LAW MATTER IS LAID OVER FOR ONE WEEK

Saanich Council Divides on Motion, Three Voting Each Way, Reeve Deciding

OPTION IS NECESSARY IN OPINION OF REEVE

The Saanich Council in session last evening laid over for one week the request of the municipal school board that a by-law be submitted to the ratepayers of the district for a sum of $85,000 for the purpose of erecting a high school building in the municipality. The decision to take a show of hands in connection with the matter followed a lengthy discussion, Councillors Hagan, Crowhurst and Oldfield, with the reeve, voting for the motion, and Councillors Eden, Wood and Borden voting against it.

Prior to this action, the secretary of the school board, Mr. Brydon, was questioned by the council in connection with certain matters pertaining to the school building. The reeve also asked why the Department of Education would now only allow $20,000 towards the cost of a high school building, when a year ago a much larger grant could have been obtained, and was offered. Mr. Brydon replied that this matter had been taken up with the deputy minister of education, who stated in explanation that the amount placed in the estimates for school building throughout the province had been reduced from the figures of the preceding year. At the time the larger offer was made, $200,000 was the total amount available, while for 1930 the funds were limited to $135,000. It was also disclosed that no option was held by the school board on the Falmouth Road site; and it was suggested by the reeve that one be obtained before the by-law was prepared. At one time during the proceedings, stressing the advisability of haste, the school board members present were apparently willing to accept the offer of the council to prepare a by-law provided an option on the Falmouth Road site was obtained within twenty-four hours, and they retired from the chamber. Returning again a little later, the trustees wanted the stipulation in connection with the option withdrawn, and this request resulted in the division, which finally disposed of the matter for the time being, and set it over until Thursday, March 13.

An item of $8,000 which the council had advanced the school board for school purposes in 1929, is to be embodied in the extraordinary expenditures of the board for 1930.

REQUEST GRANT

The secretary of the Victoria Musical Festival wrote asking for the same grant as the council had made to this association in 1929, the amount being $125. This request was tabled until the estimates are considered.

The directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital wrote expressing sympathy with the council on the loss sustained in the passing of the late Councillor G. F. Watson. It was decided that a copy of the letter be sent to Mrs. Watson and family.

Mr. H. D. Locke, fireman in charge of the municipality's fire department, reported that forty-one grass and bush fires had occurred between June 1 and September 30, 1929. Mr. Locke recommended that no more fire permits be issued during these months, and that provisions for fines be made in the event of such regulations being broken.

ARTERIAL HIGHWAY

The Saanich Board of Trade asked that two or three members of the council go with a committee of that body to the Government, with the object of having certain portions of the East and the West Roads designated as arterial highways. Councillors Borden and Hagan, with the reeve, will represent the council when the interview takes place.

A request from the Victoria Publicity Bureau addressed to the council for financial assistance to the extent of $2,000 for 1930 was read and tabled.

A request from a committee of the Real Estate Board, signed by Major Spurgin, asking that certain equipment be furnished for the construction of trails and bridle paths where necessary in the municipality was read and tabled.

The committee of the council, Messrs. Borden and Crowhurst, appointed to get prices on a motor truck for the works department, recommended the purchase of a Leyland truck, the price quoted being $7,200, and a used truck belonging to the municipality valued at $600.

A concert under the auspices of the Knox Presbyterian Church Choir will be held in in the church, Stanley Avenue, this evening, at 8 o'clock. Bass solos will be given by Dr. T. H. Jones; soprano solos, Mrs. T. H. Jones; contralto solos, Mrs. S. M. Morton; tenor solos, Mr. G. H. Llewellyn; trombone solo, Mr. Fred Townend, and humorous selections, Mr. A. H. Adams.

George Garvey, who recently celebrated his diamond wedding at Hulsh Episcopal, England, has sung in the village choir for more than seventy years.

PAVING FOR ISLAND ROAD ADVOCATED

However, I suggest that if we have not the courage to do what is necessary to prevent the encroachment of Orientals into the industrial life of the province, we will have courage not to encourage such penetration."

Speaking of the last session of the Older Boys' Tuxis Parliament, which was held in the Legislative Assembly, Mr. Davie recalled that from the city of Victoria one of the members elected was a Chinese, and from Vancouver one of the members chosen was a Japanese.

"What is the province coming to? Are we members of the Legislature going to countenance this?" he asked.

"The Boys' Parliament should be put in its place, and if it is going to continue to carry on its activities each year in these legislative halls, then it should be on the condition that only white constituents are sitting in the Parliament," Mr. Davie declared.

"When a Chinese or Japanese is elected to sit here, then I walk out," declared the speaker, amid prolonged applause.

Mr. Davie expressed the hope that when the next session of the Boys' Parliament is held, there will be no Orientals representing the city of Victoria or the city or Vancouver, or any other place in British Columbia.

CONGRATULATES MR. PEARSON

The speaker extended his felicitations to Mr. George S. Pearson, Liberal member for Nanaimo, upon his able contribution to the budget debate. "If there is one man in this House when he gets on his feet divorces himself from politics, it is the member for Nanaimo. His speech was a masterpiece, and I congratulate him upon the impression he has made."

Mr. Davie took Mr. Pattullo, leader of the Opposition, to task for trying to "exhibit himself as a leader of a section of the people who he claims are groaning under the oppression of an autocratic Government. However, let me say here and now that that section is imaginary to the leader of the Opposition. And any groanings that there may be have been caused by what he performed while in office for twelve years."

The speaker charged that Mr. Pattullo had "heaped aspersions on the heads of his adversaries for the purpose of making a hit with the people. It has long ago been said that 'abuse is no argument.' Therefore, his arguments fall on that account, as well as because they are tinged with such political feeling that they lose all merit. The speech which he delivered here today was certainly not free from rancor or bitterness."

CRITICIZES CRITIC

"Who is this critic?" asked Mr. Davie, in referring to Mr. Pattullo. "Was success attendant upon his administration, when in office, of the Department of Lands, the Sumas scheme, the South Okanagan irrigation, the university lands and the soldier settlements?"

Cries of "no" came from the Government benches.

Mr. Davie said that there was not a single project that the Leader of the Opposition could mention that, wen in office, he governed, that was a success. In fact, everything had been a failure.

"What has this new critic cost the country? Approximately $20,000,000," said Mr. Davie. "Each year $1,000,000 has to be raised to pay for the mistakes of the Leader of the Opposition when he was a minister in the late Liberal administration. The last person entitled to criticize the present Government is the former Minister of Lands."

The speaker said that the Leader of the Opposition had accused the present Government of wanton exercise of patronage. He inquired what deputy ministers had been removed by the Government since it took office. The deputy ministers of mines, finance, education, labor, the chief forester and his assistant, the water comptroller and other such officials, who were in office under the Liberal Government, were still in their positions, and had not been disturbed. Two deputy ministers were superannuated.

Dr. J. J. Gillis, Liberal, Yale: "You forget agriculture."

"My friend says what about agriculture," replied Mr. Davie. "Where did Mr. Warnock, the former deputy minister of agriculture come from? He came to British Columbia from the Prairies. Was he a member of the Governments of the Prairies? Let me say that there are just as efficient men in British Columbia to administer that department as there are on the Prairies."

ABUSE OF POWER

Mr. Davie scored the practice of patronage by the late Liberal Government, and asked "who came from Prince Rupert through patronage?" He said that between the efforts of Mr. Pattullo, member for Prince Rupert, and Mr. A. M. Manson, K.C., member for Omineca and former Attorney-General, "nearly all of Prince Rupert was transferred to Victoria."

"The people haven't got blinded eyes or poor memories, and are mindful of the patronage tactics of the Liberal administration. The Liberals created new departments in the Government, and filled the new positions with their followers," he said, amid approbation from the Government side of the House.

The speaker stated that when the Liberals were in power, every road foreman in his district was either president or secretary of the Liberal associations. He had no doubt that if the Liberals ever attained power again that the present road foremen in his constituency would be removed.

"Notwithstanding cries of horror which we have heard from the lips of the Leader of the Opposition, he must realise that he took care of his friends while he was in office," Mr. Davie remarked.

Mr. Davie next turned his attention to former Attorney-General Manson, who, he said, had raised his hands in holy horror "to think that there are such things as campaign funds and they don't come from the Salvation Army. His conscience is tortured at the thought that there are campaign funds."

"When he was Attorney-General, why did he not raise his objection and resign his commission as a protest against campaign funds? Surely he must have known then that there were such things as campaign funds. Why does such a thing worry him so now? Remorse is a sign of regret, but not a sign of repentance," declared the speaker.

Mr. Davie lauded Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, upon the masterly way in which he presented the budget. He said the minister had brought down the budget in a manner that the people could understand. "What struck me was that the estimates, as now presented, give to the public full scope of the proposed Government transactions during the coming year.

"The Liberals never did that in their budgets. In fact, the estimates before did not contain many items of expenditure," he asserted.

The cost of Government financing was less in British Columbia than in any of the other provinces, he said.

DEFICITS OF PAST

The speaker recalled that the Liberals when in power attempted to reduce taxation, but the expenditures were increased. The result was that deficits occurred and they had to be met by borrowings. "How can the Opposition now criticize the present Government borrowing on account of the deficits of the late Liberal administration?"

"Notwithstanding all the deficits created by the Liberals, the Minister of Finance last year promised to present to the House a balanced budget, which he has done," Mr. Davie stated.

Bombay presidency, where serious trouble is expected. The policemen, accompanied by British law officers, have strict orders not to permit the removal of a single sack of salt without the tax payment.

Troops belonging to the Poona division, garrisoned some 120 miles from Bombay, are under orders to keep themselves in readiness for any emergency. These troops can reach Ahmedabad—Gandhi's headquarters and an important cotton manufacturing centre—within ten hours. Nearly 1,000 police, armed with rifles, machine guns and tear bombs, have already arrived in that city to reinforce the inadequate local police.

PRINCES TO PLAY PART

Meanwhile Viceroy Lord Irwin is discussing with the native princes the best means of co-operation in case the civil disobedience movement should become a violent affair. The Indian Government appears to be willing to give the Indian princes important concessions.

At the time when the British Government was contemplating gradual dominion status, both Lord Irwin and Rt. Hon. Wedgewood Benn, Secretary of State for India, favored a uniform constitution for the whole of India, including the various self-governing principalities. This would have deprived the mighty maharajahs of their present local power and of much of their wealth. Now that the Indian Government has to rely in case of trouble on the princes' support, something must be done to buy their favor.

Consequently the British Government and the Viceroy are willing to accept the maharajahs' claims that should India be given Swaraj, or home rule, they should not be placed under the jurisprudence of a Swarajist but be treated as equals by the Dominion Government. The Viceroy will continue to exercise the rights of the paramount power—Great Britain—through a new political department which would not be under the control of the eventual autonomus government.

WOMEN AS RACE OFFICIALS

For the first time in British automobile racing women will be officially recognized in the Royal Automobile Club's Tourist Trophy race in Northern Ireland next August. The new regulations prescribe that "female attendants in entrants' pits will be permitted this year." An official of the club said the innovation followed discovery that many auto manufacturers employed women who are valuable in lap scoring and keeping statistical records generally.

I.O.D.E. Chapter, Chemainus

The monthly meeting of the Porter Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on March 4. The regent, Mrs. Russel Robinson, was in the chair. The following members were present: Mrs. Jack Mather, Mrs. James Goldsmith, Mrs. Allen Porter, Mrs. W. W. Southin, Mrs. Frank Reed, Miss E. White, Mrs. Peter Wyllie, Mrs. James Wynne, Mrs. Alec Work, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Lewis G. Hill and Mrs. Knight. In response to several appeals grants were made to the Miss Helen Mackenzie fund; towards the freight on the Christmas goods sent to Rollo; to the Empire Memorial Hostel for Canadians in England. In the discussion which followed with reference to the Mrs. Henry Croft Memorial, four plans were put before the meeting for its approval. After the careful consideration of all the plans set forth, it was finally decided that it would subscribe to a fund being raised, similar to the Mary Gooderam Fund, i.e., a fund to help the needy. The regent gave notice of a course of lectures to be given by Miss Yates, of the Cowichan Health Centre, on the health and education of the child of pre-school age. These lectures were principally for young mothers. Tea hostesses were: Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Smiley, Mrs. W. W. Southin. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The regent, Mrs. Hopkins, reported on the Navy League and League of Nations Model Assembly, held at the high school, both of which she had attended. Mrs. A. E. Griffiths gave an interesting account of the Christmas hamper sent to Rollo, Peace River district. The treasurer's reppрt showed a satisfactory balance in the bank. The usual donation to secondary education was voted.

A delightful playlet was given by Miss Spiers, Miss M. Spiers and Miss Dorothy Allwood, in which Mrs. Hamblett's method of recording her vote afforded much amusement. A vote of thanks was passed to the artists as well as to Mrs. Stephen for her hospitality. Mrs. P. WORK OF MOTHERS' UNION OUTLINED

The quarterly general meeting of the Mothers' Union was held in the Guild Room of the Memorial Hall on Ash Wednesday. The president announced that the annual service would be held in the Cathedral on March 25 at 3 o'clock, when the preacher will be the Archdeacon of Columbia.

The resignation of Mrs. Goward as tea convener, owing to illness, was received with regret, and gifts of flowers will be sent to her and to Mrs. Porter. It was announced that during the secretary's absence in England her place would be taken by Mrs. Gowers, 2618 Roseberry Avenue. The librarian, Mrs. Littler, called attention to the fact that she would be in the library on Mondays from 3 to 4 o'clock, or at other times if members will telephone 10180.

Mrs. Crook, enrolling member for Vancouver, the speaker of the afternoon, took as her subject, "Union Is Strength." She outlined the beginnings of Mothers' Union work in Winnipeg, where she worked for fifteen years, and which was by far the most enthusiastic centre of the Mothers' Union in Canada under the devoted leadership of Mrs. Matheson, and also in Vancouver where the work is only in its infancy. She had found that there was more interest taken if practical work was done, and instanced St. Luke's, Winnipeg, which worked for the Margaret Scott Mission, and the scattered branches in Vancouver which made baby clothes for the W.A.

On behalf of the members present, Mrs. Cropper thanked Mrs. Crook very heartily for coming to speak to them and then welcomed Mrs. Walker, of Quathiaski Cove, who spoke for a few minutes on the prospects of Mothers' Union work in that district.

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

METCHOSIN

The monthly meeting of the Metchosin Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon at "Sherwood," the home of Mrs. H. C. Helgesen, with the president, Mrs. McVicker, in the chair. The correspondence included a letter from Mr. Pooley acknowledging the receipt of a resolution from this institute protesting against the closed watershed area. A letter was received from the Esquimalt Institute inviting members of this branch to attend a birthday social, to be held in St. Paul's Parish Hall on the afternoon of March 17. The secretary was instructed to accept the invitation, saying that as many members as possible would be pleased to come.

A letter was read from the Strawberry Vale Institute asking endorsement of its resolution, "Whereas, the employment question has become a serious national problem, and whereas many stores, offices and factories employ married women whose husbands are in a position to support them adequately, be it resolved that this meeting go on record as being against employment of married women in such circumstances."

In discussing this motion it was brought to the attention of the meeting that women have been working for their political and civil rights for many years and that many of the benefits received have been largely through the efforts of married women of independent means. Is such a person, and women have now been declared persons by the Privy Council, is not to be allowed to work, it is only logical also to bar the employment of men of independent means. Canada is very proud of having the first woman Senator in the British Empire. However, her husband is in a position to support her adequately, so that if women in such circumstances are not to be allowed to work, logic again calls for her resignation. It is a matter of statistics that owing to improvement in machinery, fewer workers are now required, and there are many other economic reasons for unemployment, so that this meeting unanimously voted against the resolution.

It was decided to enter an exhibit from the Metchosin district, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, at the Victoria Horticultural Society flower show on April 25-26, this being in charge of Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Charles Helgesen.

Wednesday, April 23, was the date decided upon for the Spring bulb show, which will be held in the Metchosin Hall. A committee was appointed to revise the prize list, and the members will meet on Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Taylor, Kangaroo Road. The other committees were also appointed, the conveners being: Mrs. Charles Helgesen, tea; Mrs. Witty, home cooking; Miss E. Milne, ice cream.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Fergus Reid, "Glen Rosa," Rocky Point, when a tree, which has been donated by Mrs. Savory, will be planted as near as possible to the site of the old homestead, in memory of Mrs. Vine. A special invitation is to be sent to representatives of the Victoria Historical Society, and all those interested are cordially invited.

The sewing for the Solarium was distributed, and following adjournment, tea was served by Mrs. Helgesen, assisted by Miss Nora Helgesen.

LANGFORD

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Wednesday at the regular card party held by the Women's Institute in the Institute's hall. Bridge and court whist were played. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cuthbertson were first prize winners at bridge, Mrs. Macdonald and Mrs. Ritchie receiving the consolation prizes. Mrs. Welch and Mr. Straw received the court whist prizes. All prizes were donated by friends. Refreshments were served by the social committee, under the convenership of Mrs. J. E. Macdonald.

Under the auspices of the Women's Institute, a very successful class on parliamentary procedure was held in the schoolhouse on Tuesday evening by Mrs. J. D. Gordon. Mrs. Gordon dealt with organization work of societies, touching on the secretarial work, giving hints regarding the minutes of the meeting, etc. The duties of president were ably demonstrated and amusing farcial resolutions discussed. The speaker showed up clearly the broadening influence on a woman's life of working in organizations or societies that held for their object community betterment, etc. During the evening an invitation from the Esquimalt Women's Institute was extended to the local branch to attend a birthday social, to be held in St. Paul's Parish Hall, Esquimalt, on March 17, at 2:30 o'clock. The next class held by Mrs. Gordon will be on Tuesday evening, March 11, at 8 p.m., in the schoolhouse.

TROPHY GOES TO EMPRESS CAPTAIN FOR EFFICIENCY

VANCOUVER, March 6.—"Mechanical details may be perfect, but there is always the human element to be considered. It is to make this human element in the care and safety of passengers as perfect as possible that we have this competition."

This statement was made aboard the Empress of Russia at Pier B here today by Captain A. Aikman, when he presented to the ship's commander, Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R., the E. W. Beatty Shield for safety and efficiency. The shield was donated in 1928 for competition among Empress ships of the Pacific fleet, and the Empress of Russia has won it twice in succession. The competition is on an annual basis. Efficiency of lifeboat, collision and life-saving drills, general ship orderliness and smartness of officers and men are the determining factors.

Captain Aikman, in pointing out how advances in marine engineering and architecture have made the modern ship a complex organization, said $85,000 had been spent in recent years on the Empress of Russia and her sister ship, the Empress of Asia, to assure greater safety and comfort of passengers.

The Empress of Russia is the liner on which members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce who enroll for that organization's tour of Japan and China, sailing from here on October 16, will make the westbound voyage. The return trip, however, will be made aboard the new 26,000-ton Empress of Japan, which will go into service in August.

MUSIC RECITAL

A music recital will be given by the pupils of Mrs. Ruby Moore, Quadra Street, on Saturday night at 8 o'clock in St. Mark's Hall, Tennyson Road. A collection will be taken up for the purpose of providing additional hymn books for the choir.

After answering 25,000,000 calls during her forty-four years at a switchboard, Miss Elizabeth Walker, of Keyport, Ky., has retired on pension.

HOPE MARKING REGATHERING OF DELEGATES

since the French left London. The conversations between United States Senator Reed and Japanese Ambassador Matsudairo will be enlarged next week to include United States Secretary Stimson and Reijiro Wakatsuki. Opinion in conference circles is that a generally satisfactory solution will be produced.

MAY MAKE CONCESSIONS

The third new element in the conference situation is that the French delegation has returned in a—so reliable sources say—conciliatory frame of mind, eager to make concessions if that will make the conference a real success.

The only one of the larger problems which seems as far from an answer tonight as it was when the conference opened, is the Franco-Italian controversy over parity. The indications are this will be left alone for a few days in the hope that time may prove as helpful in the dispute.

Historic Event to Be Celebrated

Final arrangements for the tea to be given next Friday afternoon at the Empress Hotel, by the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., to commemorate the eighty-seventh anniversary of the founding of Victoria, were made at the meeting of the chapter, held yesterday.

The Commodore Broughton and H.M.S. Resolution Chapters are contributing attractive musical numbers to the programme, which will also include a historical address by Mr. Lindley Crease on the subject of the life of Sir Henry P. Pellew Crease, whose close association with Sir James Douglas will be a special feature of the address.

The chapter is to act as convener of arrangements for the annual meeting of Municipal Chapter, which is to be held on Thursday, March 27. Preliminary arrangements were discussed, some helpful information being given by Mrs. Tyrwhitt Drake, convener of last year's arrangements.

Mrs. A. N. Boyd, Echoes secretary, brought in the report of the Municipal Chapter meeting of February 27, Miss McMullin giving an interesting report of the annual meeting of the Girl Guides.

The regent, Mrs. R. B. McMicking, with the standard bearer, Miss E. B. Hill, had represented the chapter at the commemoration service on Paardeberg Day and had placed a wreath on the memorial tabled in the Armories. The chapter decided to hold a bridge party on April 29 and a rummage sale as early in April as possible, for which members were asked to collect contributions and to notify Mrs. S. W. Walker if they desire to have articles for sale called for.

One new member joined the chapter, another transferring from a Calgary chapter.

Antiques To Be Exhibited By Chapter

The March meeting of Gonzales Chapter, I.O.D.E., on Tuesday was exceptionally well attended. The members are enthusiastically interested in the plans for a loan exhibition of old silver, pictures, curios and historical articles of various kinds, which the Chapter proposes to hold early in April. A skilled committee of members, assisted by several gentlemen, who are connoisseurs of art, have plans almost completed for a unique display of treasures and heirlooms which are being loaned by friends of the Chapter.

The regent and executive urgently requested that each member do her share towards making this antique display a financial success by selling the book of tickets which will be forwarded to her in the near future.

A cordial vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Hardy, of The Booklovers' Library for a very generous donation of books to the Chapter's hispital library.

Personality Outshines Insipid Prettiness

LONDON, March 6.—Miss Gladys Burlton, who launches many girls on business careers, asked what she looks for when engaging girls for posts, gave a startling reply: "I look them in the mouth," she said. "By the mouth you can usually tell whether a girl is generous, contended and good-humored. To be successful in business a girl must be sociable, likeable, able to impress an interest. Her looks do not matter except in so far as they indicate character and intelligence.

"Conventional prettiness counts for nothing at all, for there is nothing more disappointing than an attractive face which hides an insipid, uninteresting character. Brains, in the purely narrow sense, may count first for a few specialised jobs—there is room for the highbrow in business—but, generally speaking, personality and intelligence are more important."

Officer—And you are giving a reward of only $5 for the return of your wife?

Husband Harry—That's all.

Officer—No one will bring her back for that small amount.

Husband Harry—I know it.

Officer—Playing "

Weddings

JONES—KENT

The marriage of Julia Valentine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kent, 805 Linden Avenue, to Mr. Frederick Llewellyn Jones took place very quietly at the Church of Our Lord, Reformed Episcopal, on Monday afternoon, Rev. A. deB. Owen officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for a honeymoon in Seattle and Vancouver.

PALMER—DAVIS

St. Martin's-in-the-Fields was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday, St. David's Day, when Rev. Canon Stocken united in matrimony Bessie Laura, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Naval Dockyard, and Mr. Ernest Lansdowne Palmer, of the staff of the B.C. Electric Company. The bride was dressed in electric blue trimmed with beige, with felt hat to match, and carried a sheaf of tulips and narcissi. Mrs. Victor Palmer, the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor, and the bridegroom was supported by his brother, Mr. Victor Palmer. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents and was largely attended. Among the many and very beautiful presents was a standard lamp from the staff of the B.C. Telephone Company, where the bride had been employed for some time. Mrs. Jim Merrix sang three songs during the evening. Velma Jacklin, her brother Roy and Charlie Medley constituted a delightful little orchestra and charmed the company with their instrumental music. The table was prettily decorated with daffodils and freesias and tall yellow candles. In the centre was the wedding cake, which had been tastefully ornamented by Mrs. Fred Lock. After the ceremony the couple left for their honeymoon, and on their return will reside in the city.

LEWIS—FIELDING

The marriage of Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Fielding, 701 Craigflower Road, to Mr. John T. Lewis, son of late Mr. J. W. and Mrs. Kate Lewis, of this city, was solemnized by Rev. Father Wood at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Tuesday evening. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly attired in an ensemble of tan and orange georgette with hat en suite. Her corsage bouquet was of roses, violets, sweet peas and maidenhair fern. The bride was attended by her sister Violet, who was smartly attired in flowered crepe de Chine to correspond with that of the bride, her bouquet being of sweet peas, roses and fern. The groom was supported by his brother-in-law, Lieutenant Austin Craven, M.C. Following the service a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Austin Craven, 1315 Coventry Avenue, where a large number of relatives and friends were received by the bride and groom. Mrs. Fielding and Mrs. Craven assisted in the receiving. The table was prettily decorted with daffodils and mauve sweet peas. The toast to the happy couple was proposed by Alderman James Adam and was responded to by the groom. The young couple were the recipients of many pretty and useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left on the midnight boat for the Sound cities, and upon their return will take up their residence at 180 St. Charles Street.

"Six feet in his boots!" exclaimed Mrs. Flatt.

"Yes," said Mr. Flatt.

"Nonsense! Why, they might as well tell me that the man had six heads in his hat!" — Halifax Chronicle.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

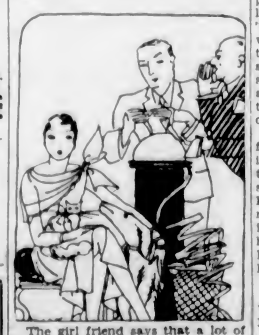

The "between-season" coat has gotten out of the middle rut and taken the high road to Spring adventures. The vogue for tweeds and pastel woolens has done much to send this item of the wardrobe on its travels rejoicing, for it now has new details to look forward to.

The model shown in the sketch above is one that has reason to be optimistic about its prospects. It is of violet blue plain tweed and is cut with the princess bodice. By the aid of banded gores the coat achieves the flared hemline, scalloped according to the latest sartorial manner. The beige galyak cuffs and collar, tying in a bow at the throat, show affection for a style companion sponsored by Parisian couturiers.

Is Price Really an Object?

Primarily the purpose of sending out printed advertising matter is to impress the buyer or prospective buyer with his opportunity or advantage of buying.

Undoubtedly, therefore, the mission of printed matter is identical with that of the salesman who calls in person. Yet no one would think of getting bids from applicants for a salesmanship position. The man who goes out to sell goods practically names his own salary. It's results that count.

If the printed matter sent out gets results the matter of a few dollars in its original cost matters not; yet if it must be produced by some printer who is confined to a certain price limit it's liable not to get results.

So, after all, is the matter of price really an object in buying printing? Select a printer you can trust and don't restrict him.

GROWERS AND JOBBERS ARE IN CONFLICT

Disruption Threatened of Canadian Horticultural Council Over Charges Made

ALLEGE SECRETARY ACTED IMPROPERLY

OTTAWA, March 6.—Disruption of co-operation between growers and jobbers in the Canadian Horticultural Council was threatened at the annual meeting of the council today when members from British Columbia introduced what virtually amounted to a vote of censure on the secretary, Mr. L. F. Burrows.

In effect the British Columbia delegation sought to secure the services of the secretary full time to the council and to remove him from availability of other organizations allied with the council which he now serves.

CAUSES EXPLAINED

It all developed out of the Sales of Consignment Act, and the action alleged against Mr. Burrows of having been instrumental at the instance of the council or some source unknown in having action on this act by the respective provinces, more particularly in the Prairie Provinces, held up. It was claimed, however, that action on this act had been delayed in order to afford an opportunity for effecting uniformity in legislation and to make fully effective in scope as well.

Following the discussion a standing vote was taken endorsing the present practice of having Mr. Burrows act as secretary not only of the Horticultural Council, but as well of as many allied interests as might be practicable, with a view of furthering co-operation and co-ordination of effort.

Among the resolutions disposed of was one to ask the fruit branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture to provide a radio report service for fruits and vegetables during the growing season at 7 p.m. daily.

Mr. Paul Fisher, of Burlington, Ont., was chosen president for 1930. The second vice-presidency went to Mr. T. Abrial, of Nakusp, B.C.

Cow With Window In Stomach Dead

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 6.—The world-famous cow with a window in her stomach, Pennstate Jessie, is dead.

In the past four years Jessie attracted world-wide attention and contributed much important scientific data to the feeding of man and beast, with the help of various Pennsylvania State College research specialists.

Jessie never showed signs of being bothered with the opening and quietly submitted to inspection by thousands of visitors.

Recently she had to be moved from her place of honor in the first stall of the dairy, and apparently she did not like her new quarters in another wing. She seemed to resent the imposition, lost her appetite and reputation as a contented cow, and quietly passed away when no attendants were about.

Scientific studies with Jessie started with a test showing samples from her stomach to contain vitamin B, although all traces of this vitamin had been removed from her feed. By this experiment it was determined absolutely that all cows manufacture vitamin B within their systems.

Wife Was Unable to Argue in the Dark

NEW YORK, March 6.—The genius of a deaf mute in evading domestic argument was revealed recently in children's court by his wife. Her husband dared to come home late at night. Furthermore, he wouldn't so much as crook a finger in explanation. And when she sought, through sign language, to ask a few pertinent questions and make a few wifely remarks about his conduct, he silenced her by turning out the light.

TARIFF BILL HITS CANADA HARD BLOWS

Hawley - Smoot Measure, Soon to Be Through U.S. Senate, Gravely Affects This Dominion

AGRICULTURE VERY SEVERELY SMITTEN

By KEN CLARK
(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 6.—The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill will be passed by the Senate within a few days. The Senate has considerably revised the measure presented for its consideration by the House of Representatives and, from the Canadian point of view, for the worse. Increased duties are proposed upon agricultural products.

For example, the Senate proposes a duty upon live cattle of 2 1-2 cents per pound for those weighing less than 700 pounds and three cents upon those over that weight. Canadian ranchers have been exporting about $14,000,000 worth of cattle to the United States annually under a tariff of one cent on those weighing less than 950 pounds and two cents on those weighing more.

CANADA'S GREAT LOSS

The reduction of the weight to 700 pounds strikes at the export of baby beef and if the Senate's proposal is carried into effect it will mean a serious loss to Canadian interests.

The present tariff law makes the duty on cream 30 cents a gallon. Last year Canadian producers shipped $50,000,000 worth of cream into the United States. The Senate proposes to raise the tariff to 58 3-5 cents.

Similar increases, ranging from 20 per cent to 100 per cent, are proposed upon beef, mutton, lamb, poultry, dead and alive, flax seed, alsike clover, potatoes, turnips, maple sugar, milk and cheese, all of which commodities are exported from Canada to the United States in annual value of from $50,000 for dead poultry to $6,604,000 for beef.

EFFORTS THAT FAILED

One cheerful feature of the Senate history of the Hawley-Smoot bill is the fact that extraordinary efforts made by senators from the far Northwest to procure a tariff upon lumber failed. There was also a collision of interest over hides, leathers and shoes which resulted in the temporary setback of those who desired a tariff upon these items. Export from Canada of lumber runs into many millions yearly, and hides and leathers come into the United States to the value of $17,000,000.

The much revised and revised Hawley-Smoot bill now goes to conference between the Senate and the House, where there will be trading of rates in order that an agreement may be reached. Two administrative features of the bill are the great stumbling blocks to unanimity. Those are the provisions taking power of revision for paying a bounty to the farmer upon his exports. The seriousness of these difficulties can hardly be overestimated for were the House to agree to leave them in the bill, President Herbert Hoover, who has declared himself against them, might be forced to nullify fifteen months' congressional work by vetoing the measure. On the other hand, there is small doubt but that the senators who put provisions into the bill will fight tooth and nail for their retention.

CHALLENGE ACCURACY

Trouble Develops in House With Regard to Beer Increase Questions and Replies

Speaking on a question of privilege, Mr. A. M. Manson objected yesterday, in the House, to the questions which had been asked by Mr. W. F. Kennedy, with regard to the investigation into the prices of beer which had been increased in 1924, and also to the answers that were given by the Attorney-General, which, he said, were unfair. He also objected to the questions as being out of order.

After speaking for considerable time, and after the answers had been defended as correct by the Attorney-General, the point was raised that the speeches were out of order on a question of privilege.

This brought from Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., the retort that there was a continual violation of the rules of the House in long speeches being made under this privilege. He rebuked Mr. Manson for coming forward, and "squealing" when he was hit in the replies to questions. The Opposition, however, including Mr. Manson, had loaded the order paper up with some 200 questions, put there for political purposes, many of them out of order and known to be so, and then violating the rules of the House in speaking at length on questions of privilege.

Mr. Manson went into the whole matter, including the royal commission report on the subject.

In the answers he said there had been a distortion of the facts.

Mr. Kennedy said that he was not concerned with the matter of whether the questions were in order or not. The point had been raised on the Highway Bill by Mr. Manson that there was danger of campaign funds being raised as a result of the provisions.

"I thought, therefore, that it was well to recall the past," said Mr. Kennedy.

Hon. R. H. Pooley said the answers given were correct. He would not give incorrect answers knowingly to any questions that were submitted.

The matter was ruled out of order, and a stop brought to the discussion by the Speaker.

Indian Claims Ought to Have Consideration

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

NEW DELHI, India, March 6.—Rt. Hon. Srinivasa Sastri, Indian statesman, has made his reports on his mission to East Africa to inquire into the status of Indians who have migrated to the various British colonies and dependencies in East Africa in large numbers.

He found an utter lack of mutual understanding of political outlook between the Indian and white communities in Kenya, and expressed the hope the British Government would make a statement of policy assigning equal status to the Indians. In Tanganyka and Uganda, he found that though relations between the Indians and whites were better than in Kenya, nevertheless he was surprised at the vigor with which the Indian claims for equality of representation were contested, though they were in his opinion entitled to more than parity.

He suggested measures by the Indian Government to secure better recognition of the rights of Indians abroad.

Auction and Contract Bidding

	1st Rd.	2nd Rd.
South	2 ♠	4 ♥
West	Pass	Pass
North	3 ♠	Pass
East	Pass	Pass

I have repeatedly warned players against the practice of making an introductory Minor suit bid when holding a biddable Major, and particularly when holding two biddable Majors. During the last several months of syndicate hands, I have given numerous examples of failure to arrive at the best contract between the two hands due wholly to this practice.

Take for example South's holding of five Quick Tricks massed in three four-card suits. With this holding South should desire:

(a) to play the hand at a suit trump rather than at No Trumps, and

(b) at a Major suit rather than at a Minor.

and, therefore should avoid inviting either a Minor suit assist or a No Trump take-out by an introductory Minor bid with this type of hand.

It should be obvious to South, not knowing what his partner holds, that if he start the bid whether at Auction or Contract, with this type and strength of holding, with an original two bid, and such two bid be in a Minor, the chances are in favor of either a two No Trump or three Club take-out by North. If two No Trumps, then South must elect which of his two Majors to show. If he selects Hearts and bids three Hearts, he risks partner bidding three No Trumps, and thus forcing him to a bid of four Spades to show his second Major. If he selects Spades, and North bids three No Trumps, he must now bid four Hearts to show such Major. If North bids three Clubs, South, three Spades and North, three No Trumps, again four must be bid to show the second Major. Of course South, following a three Club take-out by North, could bid three No Trumps, a bid that could easily result in the loss of a game hand if North's Club take-out happened to be exceedingly weak.

So analyzed, it must be clear that South should not invite a No Trump by North until after he has shown both Majors.

In respect to which Major South should show first, the standard practice is to bid the higher ranking of two biddable suits first even though the lower ranking be the stronger of the two. With equal support for either suit in hand of partner, it is always preferable to have the weaker suit the trump and the stronger suit the supporting suit. Also, this is the normal way to show two suits. To reverse the process, that is, to show the lower ranking suit first and subsequently the higher denies that the higher ranking suit is soundly biddable on the first round of bidding.

Curiously enough, several failures to arrive at the best bid for game between North and South arose in the Duplicate Contract Match in which this deal was played, due in each case to South's opening with a two diamond bid. At the tables in which these failures occurred, South opened with two Diamonds, which North assisted to thereé Diamonds, whereupon South bid three Spades and North either four Spades or five Diamonds—the Heart suit not being shown at all.

Five Diamonds cannot be made on the hand however played, as one Spade, one Club and one Diamond trick must be lost. Also four Spades cannot be made, as South's trump force on the second round of Clubs will give West two trump tricks.

The normal bidding of this hand as given above, that is, two Spades by South, three Spades by North, Four Hearts by South and a pass by North permits the partnership to arrive at the only bid in the combined hands at which a game can be produced.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Auction and Contract: In my recent articles I have suggested the use in auction as well as in Contract of an original two bid when holding a hand of the type and strength of that held by South. If employed in Auction, it should be answered in the same way as it is answered in Contract, that is, by a take-out or an assist by partner, if possible, to provide the original bidder with a second opportunity to bid. Hence in Auction, North should not leave in an original two-bid unless holding sufficient supporting strength to guarantee a game at the declaration named, and in Contract should take out in either event, if able. Therefore, North, in answer to South's two Spade bid, should in both Auction and Contract bid three Spades, following which South will bid four Hearts, with which bid North should rest content.

It is this introduction into Auction or Contract bidding that has marked the greatest advance in bidding efficiency in recent years, and has also added to the keen enjoyment of thoughtful players.

THE PLAY

West opens the King of Clubs. The Dummy going down, South plays the eight from Dummy, East the encouraging six and South the seven from his own hand. West having shown the Queen of Clubs by the opening of the King, next leads his Jack of Clubs, which South trumps with the eight of Hearts.

South, with two finesses to take and but one entry in Dummy, that of the Queen of Hearts, is in a precarious position. He cannot afford to take three rounds of trumps at this stage. He, therefore, leads but two rounds, the Ace and King of Hearts and follows with his Jack of Spades, as he can well afford to concede the two missing Kings and cannot afford a further lead of trumps. West refusing to win, South next leads his Queen of Diamonds, as he must drive out either the King of Spades or King of Diamonds before taking out the last adverse trump. Fortunately for South, West, with but two Diamonds to the King, must play his King.

At this point of play the wisdom of South's refusal to lead more than two rounds of trumps becomes apparent. Had he done so, West would now lead his Queen of Clubs, forcing one of Dummy's two remaining trumps which, with the King of Spades and a trump still outstanding would be a situation in which South could not go game. But as South still has a trump the lead of the Queen of Clubs would permit South to discard a Spade in Dummy, trump in his own hand, enter the Dummy with a Diamond to take out West's last trump and make five odd on the hand instead of four. West, therefore, to avoid giving South an extra trick, leads his remaining Diamond, which South wins, exhausts West's remaining trump and concedes West the King of Spades.

At The Playhouses

VARIETY THEATRE Love triumphant, in spite of poverty and parental opposition, is portrayed in that screamingly funny farce comedy, "Love and Horseradish," which the Toby Leitch Players are presenting with such outstanding success at the Variety Theatre this week. Esther Todd is a shining light in the cast as Mrs. Jennie Baldwin, the garrulous neighbor, and Lorus Bagley is responsible for a fine performance as Rollo Jenkins, the wealthy, but, in the end, unsuccessful suitor for the hand of Hazel Robinson.

CAPITOL THEATRE As Buck Duane, the outlaw by circumstance, George O'Brien spurns fate and man-made terrors for a woman's smile in "The Lone Star Ranger," Fox Movietone all-talking romance, adapted from Zane Grey's widely-read novel, which opened at the Capitol theatre yesterday. Few pictures ever made, silent or talking, ever presented many more thrills, so much spectacular action and so entrancing a romance.

ROYAL THEATRE "The Creaking Chair," which the Gordon McLeod Players are offering at the Royal Victoria Theatre this week, is a great success. The play is a fine thriller, but has a very large amount of comedy which, judging from the roars of laughter which greet the amusing scenes between the butler and the maid, make this play one of the most popular with Victoria audiences. On Monday next, "Meet the Wife," a comedy by Lynn Starling will be presented. This play was first presented in New York, where it ran for a long season. Afterwards, Constance Collier, one of England's best-known actresses, produced it in London, where it had instant success. To quote The New York Times, it is a comedy of gorgeous amusement. Miss Lillian Christine will play the leading role, supported by Gordon McLeod, Ernest Bodkin and Margaret St. Barbe-West.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Mae Clarke, playing the chief feminine role in "Nix on Dames" at the Playhouse Theatre, is a sister-in-law of Fannie Brice, and reached her first fame as the leading dancer in the New York stage production of "Gay Paree." Local screen fans will remember her notable work in Fox Movietone's "Big Time."

DOMINION THEATRE Life on the rolling wave has its trials and tribulations, most of them comic, for William Haines, in his first all-talking vehicle of the screen, "Navy Blues," now playing at the Dominion Theatre. The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production is a comedy romance, in which Haines tinges his whimsical comedy with some serious acting that discloses, under the veneer of laughs, one of the most deft delineators of emotions on the screen.

COLUMBIA THEATRE The cast of "A Texas Steer," Will Rogers' latest starring vehicle for Sam E. Rork, were hosts to twenty-five inmates of the Walter Reed Hospital for Disabled War Veterans at the annual baseball game between the fire and police departments in Washington, D.C., when the company were shooting exteriors there. The First National comedy special is now playing at the Columbia Theatre.

ELEVEN PLAYERS TO SHARE CAST

College Players' Club Will Present "Come Out of the Kitchen" Tonight

Farcical and embarrassing situations, arising from the unfriendly relations of the American Yankee and the aristocratic Virginian, of employer and employed, and of the frustrated lover, constitute the appeal of the hilarious comedy, "Come Out of the Kitchen," which is to be presented by the Victoria College Players' Club at the Victoria High School tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15.

The popularity of "Come Out of the Kitchen" can be seen by the fact that both Ruth Chatterton and Nancy Carroll have acted as leading ladies in it. As in previous years, the play is under the able direction of Major L. Bullock-Webster, who has assembled a promising cast of eleven collegians.

The exacting and difficult part of the beautiful Virginian Olivia Dangerfield, who by a reversal of fortune becomes the coquettish Jane Ellen, and cook-extraordinary in her own house, is played by Miss Mary Martin. Opposite to her, as Burton Crane, the Yankee millionaire, and the new tenant of the mansion, owned by the impecunious Dangerfields, is Jack Rutton, who, like the rest, fails in love with this "Dresden china shepherdess," and acts somewhat strangely in her presence.

The incongruous situations of the play are accentuated by the appearance of a disagreeable Yankee dame, Mrs. Falconer, played by Miss Peace Cornwall, who is anxious to marry her daughter, Cora (Miss Helen Harris), to their rich host. However, Cora loves a poor statistical poet, Tom Lefferts (George Hall), who is rated as poison by the mother. The pompous lawyer Salon Tucker (Frederick Green), is hardly a more pleasant guest than his sister, Mrs. Falkoner.

Pitted against these unpopular Northerners, and led by the evil of one of their sisters, Olivia, are the young members of the Dangerfield family, whose fortunes are influenced by the illness, in Europe, of their father. The role of Paul, the elder brother, is taken by Edmund Senkler, who, by a series of events which the audience will see, is relegated from the position of a polished gentleman to that of a rough-and-ready butler. Along with him descend the elder sister, Elizabeth (Marguerite Van Vooght), and the mischievous and irrepressible schoolboy, Charlie Dangerfield—the former to the position of housemaid, and the latter to that of the usual boy, Randie Weeks, played by Denis Humphries, appears as a loyal friend to this family in their adversity, but eventually is jilted by the irresistible Jane Ellen. The cast is rounded off by Amanda (Kathleen Johnston), the affectionate and rotund negro "mammy," whose comic appearance should cause many laughs.

POULTRY POOL ISSUES REPORT

Five and Half Million Dozen Eggs Are Sold in Ten Months—New Organization Forming

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 6.—At the annual meeting here today of the British Columbia Poultry Co-operative Association, the directors reported that 5,468,568 dozen eggs had been sold for $1,897,462 in the ten months ending on January 31. The operating expense was 4.349 cents per dozen, and the average net price paid to shippers was 30.275 cents per dozen. Reduction of from 1-4 to 1 cent per dozen was made for a reserve fund, which, at January 31, amounted to $33,613.

The membership at January 31 was 1,774, and it has increased since to 1,825.

Hope was expressed that a proposition will soon be submitted to the members for the formation of a co-operative feed organization in conjunction with the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association. Mr. F. B. Stacey, of Chilliwack; Mr. J. H. McIntyre, of Cloverdale, and Mr. W. Stanhope, of Parksville, were appointed as resolutions committee.

Duty on Butter Is Proposed by Dairy Expert

LONDON, Ont., March 6.—"The dairy industry of Canada is sound," declared W. F. Stephen, secretary of the National Dairy Council of the Canadian Produce Association, which was brought to a close here yesterday.

Montreal was selected as the meeting place for the 1930 convention.

"To better the situation," continued Mr. Stephen, "increase production by herd improvement. This is the dairymen's part in co-operation with the Departments of Agriculture. More cow efficiency is needed."

Mr. Stephen also suggested a duty of 7 cents on butter with Australia and New Zealand given a 3-cent preference.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

One Up and One Down

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

What seems disaster, it is plain,
May prove to be the victim's gain.
—Hooty the Owl.

Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty were having more difficulties this year than ever before in raising a family. You see, one of the babies was in the nest and one was on the ground. Mrs. Hooty had thought that this one had tumbled from the nest, so she had scolded him right well for his carelessness. But he hadn't tumbled from the nest. No, sir, he hadn't tumbled from the nest! He had been pushed out of the nest by his greedy and selfish sister. She didn't seem a bit sorry, either. Probably she thought that now she would get all the food.

Mrs. Hooty, however, thought differently. She had no intention of allowing the little fellow on the ground to suffer if she could help it. So she fed him down there. In fact, she paid very little attention to the greedy sister up in the nest. She left Hooty himself to look after that one. It seemed that she hunted twice as hard for the little fellow on the ground. There was no danger of his going hungry.

He hissed and snapped hiss bill at me

Sammy Jay spent a lot of time watching, but taking great care that neither Hooty nor Mrs. Hooty should know what he was about. Once when neither of them were around Sammy flew down and alighted on the ground near the little Owl. But he didn't stay there long. Sammy told Mrs. Sammy about it afterward.

"You should have seen him," said he. "He is the most savage youngster I ever saw. He hissed and snapped his bill at me and threw himself on his back and struck at me with his claws. He is a little savage. Yes, sir, that is what he is—a regular little savage. He didn't seem to be any-the worse for his tumble from the nest. I believe he is growing faster than the other one now. Probably Mrs. Hooty thinks all the more of him because he did tumble from the nest."

The little fellow on the ground was doing very nicely. He had a sheltered and very comfortable place underneath a little hemlock tree. In fact, he was warmer there than he had been up in the nest. He wasn't old enough to worry. He left that for his mother. Mrs. Hooty did worry some. She always worried a little when she was away hunting food. You see, there was always the chance that Reddy Fox might come along, or Yowler the Bobcat, or Old Man Coyote. She knew that any one of them would be very glad to try young Owl for dinner. So she always hurried back as fast as she could and as soon as she could. And always she found the young Owl safe.

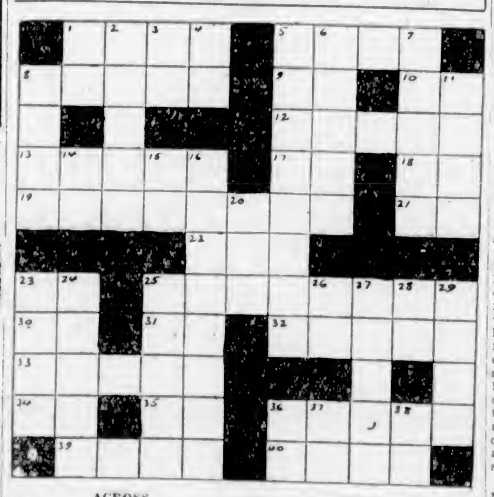

One reason for this was that Old Man Coyote, Yowler the Bobcat and Reddy Fox as a rule kept away from that part of the Green Forest. They knew that there was not likely to be anything to catch over there. They knew that with Hooty the Owl and Mrs. Hooty hunting both night and day, there was little likelihood of finding anything to eat very near that nest. So they didn't waste time going over there, which was just as well for the little Owl on the ground.

So, with one up and one down, Hooty and Mrs. Hooty found their family cares greatly increased. It was just twice as hard to keep watch of the babies separated as it would have been with the babies together in the nest. Meanwhile, the one on the ground was growing faster than the one in the nest. There was no doubt about it. Perhaps this was because it got the choicest bits. Certainly he had lost nothing by being pushed out of the nest by his greedy sister. And she, on her part, had gained nothing. In fact, she had really lost, which is quite as it should be.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you knew of someone who is troubled with catarrhal deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula, which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment, and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial. (Advt.)

Does Sunlight Contain Vitamins?

NO! Yet the direct rays of the sun act on the human system as does one of the vitamins in Cod Liver Oil. Both enable the body to increase its resistance to many forms of disease. Both quicken the recovery after illness. Both do a great deal towards helping people to keep well.

Both promote normal development of sturdy frames and good teeth in babies and children. In these respects, Cod Liver Oil closely resembles sunlight but with additional nutritious factors of vital importance.

While Canada is virtually deprived of the sun's health-giving ultra violet rays from the end of September to the beginning of April, we can maintain our powers of resistance during this period of diminished sunlight by including in our daily diet Ayerst's Biologically-tested Cod Liver Oil, widely known as "Bottled Sunlight."

If used consistently, it will do a great deal towards keeping you well.

Ayerst's Cod Liver Oil is subjected to rigid tests, and its high vitamin content is assured by an elaborate "biological" test. It is also treated by a special carbonating process which imparts a surprisingly fine, wholesome flavour and enhances its quality of being easily digested, by even young babies.

If you are not as well as you should be—or if there is someone at home whose health you are watching—consult your physician. If he recommends Cod Liver Oil, ask him about Ayerst's.

FIVE TEAMS TO PLAY IN CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE

Lions and Bucks Still Deadlocked for Lead in Pacific Coast Hockey

Overtime Session At Portland Ends In Scoreless Draw

Lions and Buckaroos Present Airtight Defences in Fastest and Cleanest Game of Season at Rose City—Goalies Stand Out

PORTLAND, Ore., March 6.—Battling to a scoreless overtime tie at the Coliseum here tonight, Portland and Vancouver each advanced one point in the standings, but failed to break their tie for the leadership of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. Each team now has forty points.

Neither team was able to consistently penetrate airtight defences. Brilliant back line defensive playing and stonewall net tending by the opposing goalies, Andy Aitkenhead, Portland, and Percy Jackson, Vancouver, featured the fracas, one of the fastest and cleanest affairs ever played locally.

Frequently the forward charging line of one team or the other would get behind the blue line with the puck, but clean chances at the net were exceptional. Portland threatened twice, once when Louis Coupez passed to Gordon Teel, who was directly in front of Jackson at the Linnet. Stonewall Percy, however, came out and hit Teel's shot, stopping the puck dead. This occurred in the third period. The other great came in the opening session when Coupez wormed his way through the Vancouver defence to a position in front of the Lion goal. He made the shot, which looked to be a certain point, but Jackson made a sensational save. Aitkenhead also was called upon for more than one rescue. The Portland net keeper made thirty-five saves to twenty-nine for Jackson.

In the extra period neither team tried to go deep into scoring territory, attempting long shots from the blue line mostly.

Referee Mickey Ion was forced to assess only six penalties in the four periods of the contest.

MOVE TO AID BADMINTON IS DEBATED HERE

C. H. Rayment Brings Up Important Matter for Discussion at Annual Tennis Club Meeting

MAY ERECT CLUB AT THE WILLOWS

One of the greatest moves to improve badminton and tennis, especially the former, was brought up by C. H. Rayment, president of the Lower Island Badminton League, at the annual meeting of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club held last night in the board room of the Belmont House. Rayment stated that the badminton league was willing to take over certain property belonging to the local tennis club in order to erect a building or clubhouse, both for tennis and badminton. If arrangements with the tennis club could be made.

"With reference to the proposal to build a new badminton club, a meeting was held recently, among whom were members of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club and the various badminton clubs of the city. Those present were of the opinion that in view of the great interest now being taken in this game, the time was ripe to erect a suitable hall with every convenience necessary," Rayment said.

"Several alternate suggestions were made, one of which was to erect a badminton hall between the present tennis clubhouse and Fort Street, converting the clubhouse into a lounge. This suggestion was placed before architects, and they advised us that the situation was unsuitable for several reasons," he continued.

TO BUILD CLUBHOUSE

"An alternative suggestion was to build the clubhouse on lots owned by the tennis club, to the south of the courts. The architects were of the opinion that this would be a more suitable situation for such a clubhouse.

"With this end in view, we would like to obtain an option to purchase outright these lots at a price equivalent to the taxes due on them plus 8 per cent. Our suggestions are that the building be erected in such a manner and in such a position that, ultimately, it can be converted into a combined clubhouse, both for tennis and badminton. In the meantime, we wouuld be willing to allow the tennis club to make use of the showers, lounge, etc., at such time as they may need it," the speaker concluded.

In commenting on Rayment's suggestions, J. G. Brown, vice-president of the tennis club, stated that he thought that it was a good idea, but as it was important that it should be left over for the incoming committee. He also pointed out that the matter should be dealt with at a special general meeting of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club.

Major McDonald moved that the matter be left for the incoming committee and that they deal with it from every possible angle. His motion was seconded by R. E. A. Diespecker and was adopted unanimously.

Carnera Would Be Colorful Champion

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Primo Carnera, the man-mountain with feet the size of the gondolas which ply the canals of his native Venice, is probably the most talked-of fighter since Luis Firpo.

The most surprising thing about Primo is the way he has shrunk since he left Europe. According to the bill of lading when he was shipped to New York he was six feet ten inches tall and tipped the scales at 285 pounds.

When he was surveyed recently he weighed 270 pounds and is six feet six inches tall. But he still is the biggest heavyweight to make his appearance in the last half century and he'll get the dough. He is the greatest of the many curiosities that have replaced the real boxers in the heavyweight division. Art Shires has retired from boxing, so some one else will have to be found to stop Primo before he becomes a national menace.

Vancouver Woman Has Easy Victory at Pebble Beach—Marion Hollins Advances

DEL MONTE, Cal., March 6.—Miss Helen Lawson, of Hollywood, eliminated Mrs. Brent, of San Jose, 2 and 1, in the hardest-fought battle of today's quarter finals of the Pebble Beach women's golf championship.

Miss Lawson was two up at the turn, and although Mrs. Potter fought gallantly, she was unable to overcome the lead.

Mrs. Vera Hutchings, of Vancouver, B.C., Pacific Northwest champion, had the best round of the day, carding a forty-six going out and coming in with a near par score to defeat Mrs. Charles Nicholas, of Chicago, 6 and 5.

Miss Marion Hollins and Mrs. Gregg Lifur had another easy day. Miss Hollings shot better golf than any day so far this week to dispose of Miss Barbara Lee, Oakland, 2 and 1. Mrs. Lifur turned in an easy 5 and 4 victory over Miss Angie Parkhurst, Crystal Springs.

Ex-King George Will Battle Scottish in Intercity Fixture

Strong Vancouver Rugby Fifteen Will Appear at Royal Athletic Park Tomorrow in Exhibition Game—Two Matches Carded

Despite the fact that they will be minus two of their star performers, Canadian Scottish will present a well balanced fifteen for tomorrow's exhibition game with the strong Ex-King George squad from Vancouver, at the Royal Athletic Park. Bob Tye, clever and speedy halfback of the Scottish, left recently to take up a position in the West Kootenays; while Reg. Wenman is still nursing an injury he received in the last McKechnie Cup match at Vancouver.

With the shortage of halfbacks prevailing, Manager Bob Travis, of the Scottish, has decided to use eight forwards, the extra man playing as a wing forward. He will place the ball in the scrum, as there will be no half.

In announcing his team last night for the tussle, Manager Bob Travis stated that Bill Pollard would most likely play five-eighths in company with Turgoose, Oliver, Horne, Pugh and Kinsman will form the Scottish three-quarter line. Art Eagel has been named for the fullback position. Muirhead, Bruce Forbes, Lamb, J. Rowlands, Jack Miller, Campbell Forbes, Fanning and Godfrey Wenman will be the forwards. The locals completed their training at the Armories last night and are in the pink of condition for the struggle.

INTERMEDIATES TO PLAY

The Intercity fixture will start at 3:15 o'clock, and will be preceded by an Intermediate League game between the Victoria College, local and provincial champions, and the Y.M.C.A. The match marks the completion of the Intermediate League schedule, and victory here will allow the Collegians to walk off the field with their string of victories in league games intact. This game will start at 2 o'clock.

The teams:

Canadian Scottish—Eagle; Oliver, Horne, Pugh, Kinsman; Turgoose, Pollard; Muirhead, Bruce Forbes, Lamb, J. Rowlands, Jack Miller, Campbell Forbes, Fanning and G. Wenman.

Ex-King George — Bob Rowan; Lyfle Barr, Reg. Wellman, Murray Rowan, G. Niblo, Gus Tazsanon; Hec Urquhart; Hec McLean; G. Cowan, Mitchell, Lawson, H. Newitt, J. Bain, W. Barker and Hager.

CHILDREN FREE

Children under fifteen years of age will be admitted to the games as guests of the Victoria Rugby Union.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

What is the cause of repeated bad shots on water hazard holes?

Answered by
WILLIE MacFARLANE

Bad shots at water holes are usually caused by "tightening up" and trying too hard, when you know that only a good shot will get you by.

This can be overcome to a certain extent (providing the carry over the water is not too long) by simply teeing the ball up slightly higher and taking a club that will give you more distance than is needed.

For instance, if the water hole is, or should be, a mashie shot, take a midiron for a change, then take an easy swing, and if the hole is a medium distance let the spoon do the work with another easy shot. Should the hole be a drive or more, take the brassie for a change, and the chances are that such simple little details will help your game immeasurably.

Three Tied for Top In Del Monte Shoot

DEL MONTE, Cal., March 6.—Mark Arie, of Champaign, Ill., and Frank Troeh, Portland, Ore., continued their winning streak today, tying with C. A. Gunning, of Longmont, Col., and breaking 100 consecutive targets in the sixteen-yard event of the fourth grand Del Monte handicap trapshooting tournament at Del Monte Gun Club.

Troeh was also runner-up in the Del Monte sliding handicap with 98 out of 100.

PACKED HOUSE IS EXPECTED TO SEE MAT MEN

Bob Kruze, Portland, Will Meet George McLeod at Tillicum Gymnasium Tomorrow Night

TWO OTHER GOOD BOUTS ARRANGED

Added interest was created in tomorrow's grappling card to be presented at the Tillicum gymnasium with the announcement last night that the winner of the Bob Kruze-George McLeod eight-round main event will appear here in the next card, probably against Charlie Hanson, Seattle matman. Following the second show the ultimate winner will be sent in against "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, present world's heavyweight champion, when he appears here late this month.

Kruze, spoken of as the "Farmer Burns of the grappling game," is rated by critics as one of the leading men on the Coast today. Youthful, speedy and strong, he has the makings of a champion. George McLeod, the "Nebraska Thunderbolt," is a member of the old school who knows the bone-crushing racket from all angles. However, despite this, Kruze is favored to throw him. This bout is billed to go eight rounds at 210 pounds.

MORTENSON TO APPEAR

Fred Mortenson, Portland, and Walter Johnson, Minneapolis, are scheduled to go five rounds in the semi-wind-up. The latter, more experienced than the youthful Portlander, will be in for an interesting session, but is expected to come through to victory. They will weigh about 190 pounds.

Each weighing 155 pounds, Roy Lyness, Portland, and Jack Mitchell, Longview, are billed to open the card in a three-round preliminary bout.

Tickets have been moving steadily and by the time the first bout is ready to start tomorrow night a "sell-out" is expected.

THE FEATURE MATCH

The feature match promises to be at Beacon Hill where the Jokers, second berth occupants in the Combination Cup series, will do battle with Esquimalt. The City-Thistles game at Central Park might prove more interesting than it looks at present, but the latter should chalk up a win here.

The teams:

Victoria West Juveniles will be selected from the following: Lund, Fraser, Fraser - hrdatdfamtmamt Luttrell, Campbell, Barnswell, Fraser, Rickenson, Colgate, Purdy, Bichard, Kennedy, Graves, Dawson and Bell.

Canadians, Jokers Tillicums, Eagles And Elks in League

Return of Lodgemen Will Add Interest to Loop —Officers Are All Returned—Women Will Be Guests at League Fixtures

Ball fans are assured of seeing a five-team loop operating here when the curtain goes up on the 1930 season following developments at the adjourned annual meeting of the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League at the Y.M.C.A. last night. Eagles, Tillicums, Elks, Jokers and Sons of Canada made it definitely known that they will be sure starters. Sidney, a member of last year's league, is not expected to enter.

With the return of the Elks to the City League many fond memories of baseball tussles here a few years will be recalled, as will the fact that the lodgemen, with Walter Lorimer in the managerial role, annexed the British Columbia championship in 1922. Lorimer will return at the helm of the Elks club this season and perhaps he will take them to another championship. At any rate that will be his ambition and it is a sure thing that local fans would only be too pleased to see a British Columbia title rest here once again.

WALTER LORIMER

Who Brought the Elks Baseball Club through to a British Columbia championship in 1928 and who will manage the antlered crew in the City League this season.

The Elks Club will be practically the same as that which played as the Victoria Capitals in the Vancouver Island League for the past two seasons. After entering the loop on Tuesday night as the Capitals, an application to change their name to that of the Elks was granted at last night's parley.

OFFICERS RETURNED

Paying a tribute to his work of last season the delegates returned William Oliphant as president for another term. R. A. Hunt was re-elected vice-president, and Sydney Thomas, secretary-treasurer. Police Commissioner Andy McGavin, Fred Ramsdale and Bob Dowswell were again elected to the post of governors.

Mayor Herbert Anscomb was re-elected honorary president, while Alderman James Adam and Alderman William Straith were named honorary first and second vice-presidents.

The league will continue its policy of last year, that of allowing all members of the fair sex to attend regular fixtures as their guests. The matter of season tickets was discussed and resulted in the cancellation of such tickets for adults. Children's tickets will still be available for a small fee.

The president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer were named members of the grounds committee, to which will be added a delegate from each of the clubs.

The parley decided to use two umpires for all games.

The Spalding cushion cork centre ball will be the official ball to be used by the league during the 1930 season.

BARTLEY MADDEN DIES FROM FALL

Famous Irish Boxer Fails to Recover From Injuries After Falling Down Steps

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A fall of twenty feet from the steps of the Treasury Building during a sightseeing trip here brought to an end the career of Bartley Madden, forty-one-year-old Irish heavyweight, who became famous for his staying qualities against championship contenders.

Madden died in a hospital here last night, a few hours after he had accidentally slipped off the incline. He had stopped for a day in the capital on his way to New York from Miami, where he had attended the Sharkey-Scott fight.

He came to the United States as holder of the Irish heavyweight championship and was considered a possibility for the world's heavyweight title. While he was no successful in this ambition, prior to 1917 there were few Americans in his weight who could knock Madden down, and in later years he had stood up against all of the heavyweight aspirants at one time or another. Recently he was characterized by Gene Tunney as one of the two gamest fighters the former champion had ever met.

Officials Hand Out Twenty-Six Penalties in Rough B.C. Senior Hockey Play-Off—Final Score Is Four-All

(Canadian Press)

TRAIL, B.C., March 6.—Vancouver and Trail battled to a four-goal draw in the first contest of a two-game series for the senior amateur hockey championship, here tonight. The second game will be played here Saturday night.

It was a hectic contest that the two teams waged tonight. The lead see-sawed throughout, with first one team and then the other going out in front. It also was a ruggedly-fought contest, no less than twenty-six penalties being meted out during the sixty minutes of play, including one of five minutes duration given to Reddick, Trail defenceman, in the final period.

Vancouver opened the scoring less than one minute from the start, when Sibbett went through to surprise Garland. Trail came right back, however, and in less than seven minutes had taken a 2 to 1 lead on goals by Brennan and Kendall. Fifty-two seconds after Kendall's goal, Grimmet tied the score for Vancouver. Trail obtained the only goal of the second period, Houbregs beating Hope six minutes from the end.

Vancouver jumped into the lead again midway through the final session, on goals by Cranstoun and Sibbett; but seven minutes later, A. Mackie flashed through with a fast one to knot the count once more. The teams battled on even terms from then until the final bell, with the rival goalies turning back everything in sight.

The game did not go into overtime because the series will be decided on the goal basis.

LIPTON'S NEW BOAT WILL BE FINISHED SOON

America Cup Challenger Will Take Part in Trials at Cowes, Southend and Ramsgate

SHAMROCK SAID TO BE FASTEST SO FAR

GOSPORT, England, March 6.—Sir Thomas Lipton's new America Cup challenger, Shamrock V, is nearing completion, and will be launched soon for sailing tests at Cowes, Southend and Ramsgate. The builders call it "the fastest cutter that ever spread canvas to the breeze." Sir Thomas, not so superlative, says the new challenger has a "much better chance than any of the Shamrocks."

SIR THOS. LIPTON

All England is wishing the Irish yachtsman luck in his fifth and possibly last America Cup race with crack yachts of the United States off Newport, R.I., September 13.

FOURTEENTH ATTEMPT

When the new Shamrock sails some time in July, it will be the fourteenth time that British yachtsmen have started out to try to regain the world's premier yachting trophy, which they lost to the schooner America in 1851.

Sir Thomas made his first attempt in 1899 and lost. He repeated the challenge in 1901, 1903 and 1920, but was unsuccessful. On the threshold of his eightieth year he is going to try again.

The new challenger is about seventy feet long, and has a hollow, steel, three-section mast 150 feet high. It has a sail spread of about 7,600 square feet. In this respect it is smaller than the last challenger, which carried 10,500 square feet of sail.

SAME SIZE

Both challenger and defender will be of approximately the same size and sail spread, since this year they must adhere to the "J" class regulations of the New York Yacht Club. Each will have a mast considerably higher than any which has yet been stepped into a vessel of corresponding size.

Annual Meet of Capital City and District Carpet Bowling Association Draws Record Field—Mayor Anscomb Will Officiate

FIRST AVENUE LIGHTING IS CONSIDERED

Improvement Is Contemplated at Ladysmith With Electric Lighting

BY-LAWS ARE TO BE OVERHAULED

LADYSMITH, March 6. — The Council of Ladysmith decided upon a progressive move at its meeting this week, deciding to have an up-to-date system of lighting on First Avenue, at an estimated cost for material of $1,000; to this must be added the cost of labor.

Since the city was incorporated, the street lights have not been satisfactory and this movement will put part of the system on an up-to-date basis; and by reducing the lights on the system now in vogue, it will mean that those lights situated in parts of the city other than First Avenue will be intensified in brilliancy, thus improving the system all round. The work is scheduled to be completed this Summer.

FIRE CALLS

During the month of February there were two fires, so reported the fire chief. One was negligible, the other was a small dwelling, the total loss amounting to $1,800; insurance to the extent of $800 was carried.

The fire chief also tested out the fire alarm at the public school, and the children were all marshaled out of the building in less than one minute.

POWER RATES

Power rates are to be reduced to six cents for the first 300 k.w. hours and then five cents and four cents. This is another progressive move, and one which will be appreciated by all who use electrical power in bulk. Domestic rates will be considered at an early date, but the electric light committee is not greatly in favor of a reduction this year on account of the increased street lighting programme.

A special meeting is called for next week to consider the by-laws of the city, many of which are obsolete. It is hoped that, by the end of the year, all will be brought up to date, and applicable in every detail.

LONG RANGE IN FORECASTS MAY BE FEASIBLE

Value of Greater Knowledge of Weather Cycles to Industry Stressed by Mr. F. Napier Dension

IS ENTERTAINED BY FEDERAL OFFICIALS

That reliable long range forecasts will be feasible, with their great practical value to forestry, agriculture and hydro-electrical development, was foreshadowed in a paper read before the Western Forestry and Conservation Association this week, at Portland, by Mr. F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Gonzales Observatory.

He was speaking, in association with Mr. L. G. Gray, of the United States Weather Bureau, to the question of "Scientific and Administrative Developments in Fire Weather Work."

The superintendent was able to tell the audience that Dr. Douglass, of Tucson, Arizona, one of the leading experts in this class of meteorology, will pay a visit to the Northwest this Summer.

Mr. Denison said he was convinced "that these vast areas of high and low barometric pressure which are constantly crossing this continent, are parts of the world-wide weather cycles. Though at present too complicated to be fully utilized, it is hoped later these systems may be simplified and used to a far greater extent."

"Some of these weather cycles are due to solar variations, and the best known of these is one of eleven years."

He traced the effect of solar disturbances on climate, and the effect of volcanic eruptions on the earth causing vast quantities of volcanic dust to be blown into the upper air, which cause another form of screen or veil which reduces the amount of solar heat reaching the earth.

SPEAKS TO OFFICIALS

Mr. Denison described the operations of the meteorological service before the Federal Business Association, meeting at the Multnomah Hotel. Mr. Denison told how the Canadian service co-operates with the United States weather bureau to exchange weather information. Because many storms which reach large proportions in the United States originate in Canada and Alaska, this service becomes of great importance to residents of the United States, he said. The superintendent told how the meteorological service was organized across Canada. He was very well received by the organization, which is composed of United States federal officials. He expressed his pleasure at an invitation being extended to the British consul to attend the luncheon.

OLD SEA DOG OF GERMANY HAS PASSED

which afterwards led the United States into the war. Wilhelm was for a less vigorous submarine offensive than Von Tirpitz.

In his last years at a small villa on Starnberger Lake, Admiral Von Tirpitz liked nothing better than the company of a few genial companions; his guests came from all parts of the world. He was father of two sons and two daughters, born of his happy marriage with Marie Lipke.

At the peak of his career he is said to have known the name, history and fighting capacity of every warship in the world. He was one of the best fencers and sharpshooters in the imperial service. In his latter days he was fond of hiking.

He was rather inclined to view Germany's future pessimistically, and consequently preferred never to discuss his country's political development. When the stupendous progress of Germany within the last decade was pointed out to him, he would waive all further discussion with the remark: "Oh, well, perhaps I've outlived the times."

Red Demonstrations Mainly Confined to Turbulent Rioting

aid them in breaking up the demonstration.

The marchers carried banners with "Down With Police Brutality," "Starve or Fight," "Fight for Full Social Equality," and "Down With Capitalism."

Police rode into the crowd as it started to move, grabbing the banners and tearing them from the hands of the marchers, a great number of whom were women. Officers used their night clubs to force their way through the crowd.

Anticipating such a demonstration the streets in the "skidroad" district were lined with spectators, who arrived early to watch developments. It was estimated that 5,000 persons watched the turmoil.

Twelve persons were arrested by the officers during the battle in which a few bricks were tossed at the police. Officers kept the crowd moving on the streets during the afternoon.

AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, March 6. — "Red Thursday" was rather a fizzle here today, the police ban on a parade confining the Communists to the holding of an open-air meeting at the Powell Street grounds. At that only about 200 self-styled "Reds" gathered in the grounds, and after hearing numerous speeches they disbanded without any disorders.

AT TORONTO

TORONTO, Ont., March 6.—Police arrested between twelve and twenty persons in the course of a demonstration of unemployed before the City Hall here today, held in connection with the international "Red Thursday."

AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Man., March 6. — Communist demonstrators, four hundred strong, were dispersed by baton-swinging policemen when they attempted to stage a procession through city streets this afternoon. Almost in the shadow of the City Hall, forty police officers waged a hand-to-hand struggle using fists as well as billies to break up the parade. No arrests were made.

Prominent among Communist leaders was Alderman W. N. Kousnyk. As he shouted words of encouragement to his followers, the City Council member was hurried away from the milling mob by two officers, and the battle with police lasted only a short time after.

Tonight it was reported that no one was seriously injured, though bruised heads and limbs were common among the demonstrators.

AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Police used tear gas today to disperse a gathering of "Unemployment Day" demonstrators in front of the White House.

Several were injured in a struggle with police when Bert Lawrence, leader of the demonstrators, climbed to the top of the iron fence separating the White House grounds from Pennsylvania Avenue and attempted to speak. Two policemen forced Lawrence to the sidewalk.

A youth wearing a flaming red sweater grasped one of the police from behind and a general melee started. The youth in red fell with the policeman. Another policeman released a charge of tear gas and demonstrators fled in all directions, but six leaders were arrested.

AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 6.—Disobeying Police Commissioner Whalen's orders against a parade, Communists engaging in an unemployed demonstration at Union Square today started forming their ranks for a parade shortly after 2 p.m., when Commissioner Whalen sent in a riot call.

At the first outbreak of rioting a crowd of shouting Communists was seen to charge toward the shack in which Commissioner Whalen had set up his headquarters, but it appeared that none of them went through to the commissioner himself. Mounted and foot police formed a human barricade around Mr. Whalen.

National Guardsmen, unarmed, and firemen also answered the riot call, and in a few minutes were in full possession of the square.

between Lord Beaverbrook and Mr. Baldwin. Lord Beaverbrook would say: 'Here I am. I have taken this thing and now I don't know how to get out of it. After all, I was a friend to Bonar Law and I am a friend of yours, if you only knew it. Now can't you be a good pal and get me out of this mess'

"To which I imagine Mr. Baldwin replied: 'Well, you didn't know what you were doing. You are not an Englishman, but I sympathize with you and I will try to make it as easy as possible.'

"Thereupon Lord Beaverbrook said: 'Well, what about submitting the thing to the people themselves by a referendum?'

"'Splendid,' said Mr. Baldwin. 'Salisbury proposed it once. Balfour proposed it once. True, nothing came of it. But we can try again.'"

Other people like the foregoing unsubstantial narrator, have more seriously suggested that Lord Beaverbrook's campaign has proceeded, in part at least, from his ignorance of English political life. The suggestion hardly seems to hold water, for after all it is exactly twenty years ago since Mr. Max Aitken, as he then was, burst into English politics from Canada, and he has held a prominent place ever since.

Lord Beaverbrook will doubtless enlighten the public more fully.

At any rate, no further subscriptions are being invited to the Empire free trade crusade. Lord Beaverbrook admitted that Mr. Baldwin's decision would save the United Empire party a lot of expense in opposing Conservative candidates.

Care of Lawn Deserves Special Consideration

WITH an equable climate it is already the season when Victoria citizens are turning their thoughts toward the garden in preparation for the Spring which is close upon us. Both the owner of some acres of trim lawn, and the proprietor of as many feet of uncultivated "lot" feel the urge to aid Nature in her yearly task of rejuvenation and freshening. One and all we owe it, not only to ourselves but to our neighbors and the city as a whole, to co-operate in an effort to maintain that wonderful reputation as "A City of Flowers," which is our proud boast. Nature, as ever, will do her part, and by unmistakable indications of activity Victorians are equally ready to do theirs.

Perhaps the most essential of this early movement toward Spring gardening is the removal of the debris and rubbish of last year's growth, and the results of certain high winds. Leaves are to be gathered up, dead annuals to be uprooted, and the air is already blue with the smoke of a legion of burning rubbish heaps.

With this done the yearly problem arises for the majority of city workers, how to create a pleasant garden whose owner has a limited time for gardening. So many times the enthusiasm of "Spring fever" leads the unwary to planting on a scale which is more than he has leisure to keep in order, and the result is that the garden becomes run down and neglected. The laying out of a garden at this stage takes careful thought with this eventuality in mind. The simple care of shrubs and trees, the planting of perennials and annuals in the borders will often give quite sufficient exercise when taken in conjunction with the care of the lawn. The judicious laying out of evergreen shrubs of a hardy nature will simplify many a problem of this nature. Spring seeding of a lawn is best done as early as the ground can be worked.

After digging, raking and rolling until the surface is smooth, hard and even, stretch strings as guides from end to end and sow half the seed up and down the plot and the remainder from side to side. This, if done on a calm day, will insure even seeding. Lightly scratch the surface with a rake after seeding and keep off the grass until it is three inches high. Then give first cutting with the mower set at two inches off the ground.

PLANTING ESSENTIALS

Protect roots from sun, wind and frost. Prune broken branches and roots with sharp knife. Dig holes large enough to admit all roots spread out. Place fine loam next to roots—never manure or chemical fertilizer—and work it in among them with fingers. Set trees only an inch deeper than they stood in nursery. Cut back branches at least fifty per cent of previous year's growth. Water twice weekly if season is dry. Cultivate to maintain loose surface free of weeds.

BRACELETS FOR GAMBLERS

Bracelets are popular on the Riviera of France this Winter, and nearly every follower of fashion is wearing at least one. The newest are made of gold links, through which a very narrow leather strap is threaded. Gamblers, who are very superstitious, are wearing those made of wood, with clasps of gold.

GLASS FLOWERS WITH SCENT

Glass flowers, which have been so highly in vogue as table decorations in Europe this season, have a new phase. A decorator has designed a centrepiece in which pink roses with naturally shaded, glossy leaves contain tiny electric bulbs. The heat of the bulbs bring out fragrance of incense in a small bowl concealed in the flowers.

Early outdoor flowers make fine house plants. Soon as ground thaws dig up clumps of dwarf iris, astilbe, violets and others, except bulbs, that you may have. Pot them in good soil with plenty of drainage, keep in cool cellar till tops begin to form, then bring to heat and light of living-room window.

EVERGREENS NEED CAREFUL CHOICE

Situation in Which Shrubs Are to Grow Should Be Considered

Some evergreens should be included in the landscaping of practically every place, no matter how moderate the dimensions may be. This fact has become so universally accepted that the beginner is apt to believe that all evergreens are good, no matter to what use they are put. This point of view is responsible in a large number of cases where the planting of evergreens has turned out unsatisfactorily. The truth of the matter is that while there are evergreens adapted to almost every type of soil and climate it is of the utmost importance that they should be selected intelligently.

It is easier to go wrong with evergreens than with any other kind of planting and it is also a far more serious mistake as the cost is greater than that of the more ordinary variety of tree or shrub. Nevertheless, properly selected, the evergreens will return the owner full value for the thought and expenditure. Besides the undeniable beauty there is no better protection than that afforded by these. They convey an appearance of permanency, and that is an effect which is sought after by all Victoria gardeners.

In the choice for the amateur he must bear in mind the two general distinctions, the difference in the ultimate size and the appearance of the full grown tree. When in the nursery they all look alike. For the guidance of the beginner, it may be stated that ordinary varieties of big evergreens include firs, spruces, pines and hemlocks, while the others junipers, cedars, arborvitaes, yews and cypresses make much smaller trees. A third variety are of spreading, growing or trailing forms. All three groups have their appointed place in landscape purposes, and are not interchangeable.

Garden Notes

As soon as the frost leaves the ground, dress lawn with bone meal one-half pound to square yard) and dry wood ashes (one-quarter pound). After a shower or two has washed these into soil apply ground sheep manure (one-quarter pound). When growth starts add soda nitrate (one-eighth pound).

When nursery stock arrives unpack at once. If dry soak both roots and tops over night or longer in water before planting. Keep roots covered with wet burlap out of sun and wind. Never place manure or fertilizer in holes where plants are to go. If ground is dry fill holes with water and let soak away before planting. Form circular dam of soil around each plant and fill with water. Repeat in droughty weather.

Repair old lawns early in Spring by covering them with a one-inch layer of equal parts good loam and pulverized peatmoss to which is added a six-inch flowerpotful of both bone flour and ground sheep manure. Before applying, roll with heavy roller while wet so it will pack well, and again after applying top dressing. Fill hollows and shave down mounds and roll again.

Grading, sodding, etc. While soil is moist but after it has ceased to be wet is best time to do grading, terracing, sod laying and other construction work. Walks and drives are also best made at this season, they soon look as if long established; especially when bordered by grass and flowers.

Remove mulch from strawberry and bulb beds but leave loosest of it near by to put back on a frosty night. You may thus prevent losses or damage that might follow carting it away. It always pays to play safe.

If your lawn was dressed with horse manure last Fall, rake off the debris in late March or early April before ground gets soft and put it on compost pile or use it as a mulch in the flower or shrubbery borders or on strawberry bed.

Hardly phlox that has made dense clumps may be cut in four or six pieces by thrusting sharp spade vertically down through middles, each at angle to others, then digging up pieces and replanting in fresh places.

Plant rose bushes while still dormant and cut back tops of strong canes to only six or eight inches, taking care not to break off buds that will form branches. These are at joints of stems. Destroy puny shoots as they will not make flowers.

Roses protected over Winter by inverted hampers full of leaves may be uncovered when grass begins to grow near by. Others with earth heaped against their bases may have soil leveled around them.

House plants long potted may be potbound. To make sure, turn upside down with hand placed over top of pot. Strike rim downward on table or bench to loosen ball of earth. Lift off pot and examine roots. If heavily matted, repot in pot only one size larger, using good soil and drainage if pot is larger than four-inch size.

Grape vines that have been pruned must be fastened firmly to supports, but not so tightly as to girdle them after growth starts.

Rhubarb is easy to force. Early this month just place barrels upside down over clumps in garden. Pack straw around them half-way to top. Examine weekly after second week and pull stalks when ready. Fresh horse manure around barrels hastens forcing. When uncovered clumps begin to yield stalks, remove barrels and straw; but if manure has been used, fork it into soil.

A hotbed made early this month will supply peppergrass, mustard, radishes, lettuce and onions from sets six weeks or two months earlier than can be gathered from open ground sowings. It will also start all plants needed for transplanting to garden. When early crops are nearly gone, earliest cucumbers, egg plants, melons, beans, beets and carrots can take their place.

Dahlia tubers may be sprouted after middle of March. Place them in flats filled with moist peat moss or moist sand. Keep rather cool to insure hardy growth and easy handling after sprouts appear. If too warm, sprouts will be long, spindling and easily broken.

MANURE VALUE IS EMPHASIZED

Three Essentials Are Restored to Soil in Fertilizing Plant Life

Modern dietics have provided for the scientific methods found in the feeding of children, farmers and experimental farms have consistently studied the programme of nourishing field crops; but it is only recently that the back yard gardener has given the matter much thought. In the past, barnyard manure has been considered sufficient, but with the advent of the automobile and the decreasing possibility of securing this commodity the small gardener has been forced to pay more attention to the subject.

Locked within the soil are practically all the sixteen elements needed by plants for their growth, but three of them are usually lacking in sufficient quantities and have to be supplied artificially. These are nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. The value of nitrogen is to encourage the growth of the leaf and stem, making the leaves dark green, and when applied to the plant in bud increases the size of the flower. Humus and decomposed vegetable matter is an ideal source of nitrogen. Phosphorous increases the growth of the roots and the fine, hairlike rootlets. It improves the quality of the stem. This is best obtained from bone meal. Potassium acts as a balance between the two latter fertilizers, checking any tendency to over-development, and corrects excessively succulent leaves. Potassium or potash is available commercially as muriate of potash, sulphate of potash, and found in hardwood ashes. One way of testing out the value of different plant foods is to plant two beds side by side, thus gaining identical climatic conditions, and to test them accordingly.

SCENT RECALLS OLD MEMORIES

FRAGRANCE OF FLOWERS VARIES WITH SUNSHINE AND EVENING GLOW

Some Plants Love Twilight for Full Maturity of Their Perfume

Just the word "garden" brings a thought of flower scents, of that warm, summery potpourri of fragrance that hovers over a garden; at its best a mingling of the breath of roses, heliotropes and lilies, or the spicy odor of carnations that recall the saddest of perfumes, the scent or old rose-jars, where petals are preserved in spice; at its best a damp, green "growing" smell, earthy odors of after rain and clean cut grass.

Pleased with the mingled sweet odors of the garden we are apt to forget that we may plant especially for perfume. Not only those flowers that force us to come to them but those who fling their scent to the four winds in prodigal liberality. First is the tuberose, which, though somewhat inconspicuous by day awakes in the evening with a riot of balmy perfume. Honeysuckle scatters a sweet scent both day and night. The garden heliotrope, the lemon verbena and the mignonette are all plants that smell sweetest when the sun is warmest upon them. In this category, too, is the yellow evening primrose, sweet alyssum, common lavender and purple flowering wild thyme. Wallflowers, especially suited to this climate as like to the English conditions, are universally known and loved.

PARIS' BEAD CRAZE GROWS

Beads are the craze in Paris just now. It makes no difference which kind, just so they are beads. Rubber beads are still "in," and those made of resin and look like dark amber are a novelty. Then there are the paper mache baubles which are very light but will melt in the rain.

SEA WALL AGAINST FLIES

To combat a plague of flies at Cullen, Scotland, a sea wall is to be built adjacent to the west pier. Merchants and housewives in the vicinity have been fighting the winged pests, a special species, both inside and outside their buildings, despite frequent paraffin spraying.

PARIS HAS COLOR COMPLEX

Paris' color craze is growing more intense. Men's bowlers can be had in green, blue or brown, and women are demanding many hues in the papers of their cigarettes. Even the pepper and salt are being colored to match the wallpaper in most Paris restaurants. In some places the pepper is blue.

London's great exhibition of Old Masters sent from Italy and women's impatience over the slow growth of their hair have resulted in the "Botticelli Wave." In front the hair is combed straight back, or parted in the middle with curly waves hanging down on the side of the head, while the back is hidden by a turban of gauze. When the hair has grown a little at the back it may be curled up a la duck's tail.

Lower Credit Rates Give Impetus to Trade at N.Y. And Gains Are Recorded

NEW YORK, March 6.—With a fresh decline in open market credit rates, to levels regarded as clearly indicating a lower Federal Reserve rediscount, together with a cut in the Bank of England rate, professional traders bid up more than a score of leading industrial shares to record levels for the recovery in today's stock market, only to learn after the close of the market that the Reserve directors at their weekly meeting had left the rediscount rate unchanged at 4 per cent.

Call loans, after renewals at 4 per cent, were available at 3 1-2, the lowest since January, 1928.

The electric equipments were notably strong. General Electric and Allis Chalmers rose a couple of points to new peaks, and Westinghouse Electric rose more than 5 points to close to its best 1930 level.

The domestic and Porto Rican sugar stocks gained 2 or 3 points in response to the Senate's approval of a higher sugar tariff. U.S. Steel gained about 4, and American Can, 2; Bendix, Goodyear, Engineers' Public Service, Stone & Webster, Missouri Pacific and Vanadium mounted 2 to 4 points to new 1930 tops.

Foreign exchanges were featured by a rally of nearly 1-2 cent in the Spanish peseta, which touched 12.12 cents. Sterling cables gained nearly 1-4 cent, ruling at $4.86 7-32.

An unusual easing in money rates was accompanied by a substantial buying movement in high-grade bonds. So far as seasoned investment issues were concerned, it was the most active market session of the year, and the volume of nearly $14,000,000 has been exceeded only once since January 1.

Beginners Should Have Counsel

The Bond is rapidly becoming the investment principle of young men and women who form habits of saving. It is giving their money a high earning power without risk of loss. These new investors are, however, inclined to look too much toward yield rather than those issues which are more "seasoned."

Before deciding upon any particular Bond you should get disinterested investment counsel to assist in laying a foundation to follow through the years.

WHEAT ACTIVE WITH ERRATIC PRICE RANGE

Concentrated Buying of Futures at Chicago Causes Upturn From Early Lows

OATS AND OTHER GRAINS UNSETTLED

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

CHICAGO, March 6.—Wheat was active and price changes extremely erratic. There was concentrated buying of futures which the trade regarded as for the Government. This buying and short covering and commission house support caused an upturn of over three cents from early low. Legge denied the Farm Board was attempting to corner the wheat market. The Farm Board posted a notice at Minneapolis that it would support cash and futures market.

Sanford Evans, of Winnipeg, member of the Manitoba Legislature, told the latter that Europe was looking around for wheat from countries other than North America. Export demand at seaboard was slow, with sales of around 400,000 bushels in all positions, largely Manitobas.

There was buying of futures here, suggestive of export business in hard Winters. Foreign crop reports were generally favorable. Forecast was for rain or snow and colder over the Winter wheat belt, with general run of crop comments rather favorable.

Liverpool closed 1-2 to 5-8 lower, while Buenos Aires was 1-4 to 1-2 at midday. Corn broke early in sympathy with wheat to a new low for the week and averaged lower for the day, despite the upturn in wheat later. Trade was mainly of a local character, with outside interest light. Buenos Aires was 1-2 lower at midday.

Oats were unsettled with other grains. All deliveries of rye sold at new low on the crop and prices dropped to the lowest figures since June, 1924.

Money at Work

Earning—Saving—Investing

Speculation plays a definite part in the progress of civilization.

The future industrial and financial development of Canada and the United States needs the speculator.

Statistics reveal the fact that most new corporations fail or go through certain reorganization remedies before success is attained. Therefore, financial advisers warn against investment in speculative securities of untried corporations.

Progress of civilization, however necessitates new corporate organizations. If there were no market for such capital issues it is doubtful if the old established corporations could or would meet the demand placed upon them. Our future development requires new enterprises, and in obtaining them untold amounts of money will be lost in the failures which are bound to occur.

New enterprises based upon future possibilities and earnings should be financed by those who can afford to speculate. There are plenty of safe investments for the persons who cannot afford to take chances and there are plenty of persons who can afford to speculate to offer all the capital required by new organizations in the future development of our great country.

Stocks Going To New Tops Says Whitney

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, March 6.—Whitney, of Wall Street Financial Bureau, says: A world-wide movement of interest rates to lower levels was inaugurated today when the Bank of England rates were reduced and the lead followed by Holland, Sweden and Denmark, and to be followed shortly by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, all of which cleared the way for the establishment of call money at the lowest point of the year, when the 4 per cent rate could no longer be maintained.

I expect that even lower time and call rates, as well as lower central bank and rediscount rates will be witnessed in the near future, and that these facts will be translated into higher prices for both stocks and bonds. In fact, I believe, that today's market inaugurated the second portion of the upward reaction until the industrial, utility and rail averages have advanced to the objectives named today. Until this is accomplished, advantage should be taken of all moderate selling movements, such as that witnessed in the closing quarter hour of today's market, to buy stocks.

Europe has been, since the first of the year, and continues to be, a particularly heavy buyer of American stocks, a steady flow of funds for this purpose coming from London, Paris and Amsterdam, the entire cause for this being found in the conviction that American conditions are as bad as they are going to be and that, therefore, the time to purchase stocks is now, anticipating the time to sell them—which will be when newspaper headlines of declining commodity prices, unemployment and curtailed industrial activity no longer appear.

General Electric has established a new top for the year. It is still a purchase while it remains under 80 for an objective close to 100. Anticipating the 1929 report, Radio was called upon to absorb large offerings. The 1929 report has been thoroughly discounted. If it appears tomorrow, as expected, buy the stock anticipating a new record for the year. If not by the end of the week, then early in the new one, and continue the purchase of Montgomery Ward while it remains below 48. I believe the entire steel group has definitely finished its reaction, and is ready to start forward again, and I believe that there is a more than substantial profit to be made in the purchase of Vanadium Steel, particularly if it is acquired below 76.

All the previously mentioned utilities, particularly Consolidated Gas, Western Union, International Utilities "A" and Brooklyn Union should be bought at current levels. Look for an advancing market over the week-end and further substantial advance in the new week.

WHEAT HEAVY DURING FIRST OF SESSION

Prices Break Two Cents From Previous Close at Winnipeg—Market Nervous

MODERATE BUSINESS IN COARSE GRAINS

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, March 6.—The wheat market was very heavy during the first part of today's session and prices broke 2 cents from the close yesterday. Chicago was just as weak, but the Farm Board was reported as buying on the break, and finally Chairman Legge reiterated his intention of going through with the stabilization programme and denied reports that it had been abandoned.

Both Winnipeg and Chicago markets were probably a little oversold, and shorts started covering on the Farm Board announcement. Winnipeg followed Chicago, and before this demand was satisfied, prices had advanced over four cents from the early low marks, this market at times being stronger than Chicago. Trade volume was 90 per cent local, while there was some commission house buying early said to be for country account and which absorbed the offerings on the scale down.

At present price levels the market acts very nervous on declines and is easily influenced by any news of a conservative kind, while seaboard estimated export sales in all positions at 300,000 to 400,000 bushels, all largely Manitobas, only a small proportion of this amount could be confirmed here, there having been a few loads worked via Vancouver.

In the local cash market there was a continued good demand for No. 3 and 4 grades of wheat at spreads 1-4 to 1-2 better, but offerings were very light. Other grades were just in fair demand. There was nothing new in the flour trade. The market was unable to hold the full bulge and sold off 1 1-2 cents during the closing moments.

Coarse grain markets continue more or less quiet with just a moderate business passing in the cash markets, largely with Eastern Canada, with the demand being for the low grades. Barley continues to gain a little on oats.

Flax—No feature. Demand continues very quiet.

IRREGULARITY IN PRICES ON STOCK MARKET

Oil Prices Are Mixed Toward Close of Session After Time of Uneasy Trading

MINE PRICES TEND TOWARD FIRMNESS

VANCOUVER, March 6.—Irregularity crept into the local stock market today, and at the close, oil prices were mixed, with the mines also somewhat irregular but tending towards firmness.

BALTAC FISHING FOR A LOST CONE

Well Showing Increase of Gas — Homestead No. 1 Also Reports More Wet Gas

CALGARY, March 6.—Baltac No. 1 is fishing for a bit cone. The well is in a soft porous formation of the lime and showing an increase of gas. They will make a test for production when they have drilled through the porous lime. The depth of hole is 5,735 feet, 310 feet in the lime.

Hargal No. 1, the eastern offset to Home No. 1 producer, has drilled out cement and is making new hole in the limestone. Six and a quarter inch casing is cemented in top of lime at 5,076 feet.

Freehold No. 2 is standing cemented with ten-inch casing on top of the lime at 4,130 feet. They are rigging up a control head and expect to start making new hole in the lime shortly. No. 3, located 200 feet north of No. 2 well, has surface pipe cemented at ninety feet. They have shut down operations and it is understood they will wait for developments at the No. 2 well.

Eastcrest No. 1 is rigging up diamond drill equipment. The well is 107 feet in the lime at 4,414 feet and has a strong showing of wet gas. They have a fishing job to clean up before drilling deeper. No. 2 started to drill out cement; depth is 400 feet.

A.P. Con., No. 2, is drilling in the limestone formation at 5,240 feet. A showing of gas is coming up in the circulating ditch. Six-and-a-quarter-inch casing is at 5,180 feet.

Homestead No. 1 is drilling at 4,386 feet, 100 feet in the lime. The well is showing an increase of wet gas and is looking good.

Lowery Pete is on separator test, results of which will be known shortly.

Farm Board Not Trying For a Corner

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, March 6.—Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, said that neither Farm Board nor Grain Stabilization Corporation, is speculating in or attempting to corner the wheat market. He declared the board is not speculating nor cornering in anything, nor is the Stabilization Corporation. He reiterated his intention of going through with the stabilization programme, and denied reports from London that it has been abandoned. The board will issue a statement after the close of the grain market today. Previous to the announcement that there would be a statement after the close of the grain market, Legge and Secretary Hyde conferred with President Hoover at the White House.

STOCK RECOVERY BECOMES GENERAL

Bullish Enthusiasm Is Assertive in Afternoon—More Constructive Tinge to Events

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, March 6.—Starting the day with the cut in the English bank rate as a background, the market was spared further bearish attacks which were started yesterday by professionals. In consequence the early quotations recorded a general recovery, and prices during the first of the forenoon remained at a moderately lower level with selling directed for the shares of electrical manufacturing companies.

In the afternoon bullish enthusiasm became more assertive in response to a drop in call funds to 3½ per cent. The oils were particularly responsive, due to the simultaneous publication of statement by the president of the American Petroleum Institute, in which the belief was expressed that a cut in California crude had been averted, through the effective co-operation of operators in that territory. Prices in general were carried on this move 1 to 3 points above the opening. The later quotations eased off slightly, the close showing net gains of from 1 to 3 points among the leaders with fractional gains for the less prominent issues.

The news space was occupied chiefly with reports of developments as they occurred at the reassembled Fox Film meeting. The outcome being that the modified Lehman plan was approved by a substantial majority of the stock. It was also interesting to note that the Engineering and Mining Journal estimates that the copper fabricating plants, including brass and wire divisions, are averaging 90 per cent capacity. The developments of the day appear to have taken on a more constructive tinge, and we recommend that long lines of stocks be augmented as well as retained.

BANK RATES DOWN

LONDON, March 6.—The Bank of England reduced its discount rate today from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent.

The principal reason for the reduction of the bank rate was found in the difference of 1 per cent between market discounts and the official minimum, which made the latter ineffective.

The recent inflow of gold, with more to come, from Australia, placed the bank's gold position with sufficient strength to enable it largely to ignore the continental demand.

STOCKHOLM, March 6. — The National Bank of Sweden today reduced its discount rate from 4 1-2 per cent to 4 per cent.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 6.—The National Bank today decided to reduce its rate from 5 per cent to 4 1-2 per cent, beginning tomorrow.

NEW COMPANY HAS SILVER CUP

Omineca Mining and Milling Company to Continue Its Development

(Meharry, Roe & Co., Ltd.)

The Silver Cup mine at Hazelton, it is reported, has been taken over by a new company to be known as the Omineca Mining & Milling Company, which is about to be incorporated. It is the reported intention of the company to first develop a quantity of ore, after which milling would be resumed in the plant which was established during the past year by the old company. Holders of shares in the old company, it is said, will be able to take out shares in the new. Alwin Harvey, Vancouver produce broker, is provisional president, and J. Edward Sears, lawyer, secretary. T. B. Lewis, a well-known mining engineer, will be managing-director, and, according to the report, will assume immediate control of the property.

Mr. G. R. Bancroft, consulting engineer for the Premier Border Gold Mining Company, states that during the past year his company has done 1,600 feet of tunnelling and a few hundred feet of surface work on their Northern Light property. In the tunnelling they encountered one definite porphyry zone at 1,283 feet and another smaller one about 200 feet in. These are Premier porphyry sills, being identical in geological structure to those encountered in Premier, B.C. Silver and Sebakwe. The company plans further development along the porphyry zones by underground tunnelling and diamond drilling.

NEW YORK SUGAR

NEW YORK, March 6.—Raw sugar was firmer again today and prices advanced 1-16 on continued buying by refiners, prompted by the action of the Senate yesterday in voting to advance the duty on sugar. Sales were reported of 14,000 bags of Philippines and 5,000 bags of Porto Rican nearby at $3.61; 14,000 bags of Philippines for March-April shipment at $3.64, and 14,000 bags of Philippines for April-May at $3.69.

Refined was unchanged at $4.85 for fine granulated, but a better inquiry was reported, prompted by fears of an increased duty and the firmer ruling of the raw market.

BROUGHT TO NEW HIGH TERRITORY

Outlook for Agricultural Implement Stocks Causes International Harvester to Rise

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

NEW YORK, March 6.—The constructive attitude on the outlook for the agricultural implement stocks brought International Harvester into new high territory yesterday. Being a conservative issue, the movements in Harvester were narrow when compared with the broad advance recorded by another stock in this group, the J. I. Case Company. In three days the stock has recorded gains of almost 50 points. While we consider the market position of "CTM" still attractiveñ we believe that it is worth while taking profits on a portion of the holdings in Case and switching the profits into a more conservative security in the same field.

Harvester is excellently suited for this purpose. It is true that Harvester also advanced into new high levels but the total gains in this stock were extremely moderate when compared with the movement in Case. Harvester is unquestionably in an excellent position to benefit by any improvement in the agricultural situation to at least the same extent as Case will. Its well diversified lines of activity make this stock an issue of investment calibre even if it is subject to broad market fluctuations.

BENDIX

The improved tone of the aviation stocks suggests a broadening of the movement in this group. Bendix Aviation has an exceptionally well diversified line of activity and is not limited to the aviation field exclusively. Its organization is sufficiently broad to benefit from all improvements in any fields of its endeavor. Even though the latter part of last year was not satisfactory, Bendix nevertheless, made a good showing. Its outlook for this year is more favorable because of the elimination of many of the shoestring enterprises in the aviation industry. This stock may not do much for some time but patient holders should be rewarded well within a reasonable time.

Tape Topics

The reduction in the Bank of England rate from 4 1-2 per cent to 4 per cent will have the effect of making business conditions easier and will probably be followed by the lowering of the New York bank rate. On the New York Stock Exchange yesterday all the averages were up, industrials being 3.92, rails 0.37 and utilities 0.85. The brokers' loans, it was announced, had increased $94,000,000. Total sales were 3,344,800.

Strength of the picture issues primarily was the feature of the market, combined with great activity in the public utilities and the motor stocks. Loew's Inc. was the leader in the picture class, but Warner Bros. also gained to make a new high at 69 3-8, closing at 68 7-8. In the motors, Auburn had a rise from 217 to 234 1-2, closing at 232 1-2, while for the rest of this section a gain of practically a point was recorded.

On the curb, following Auburn's lead, Ford Corp. rose to 12 3-4, showing a slight advance. In the public utilities Stone & Webster furnished the lead to Engineers Public Service by rising from 96 5-8 to 102 1-4, closing at 101 1-2, while Engineers recorded a gain of a point on the day's trading. The majority of the public utilities advanced less than one point, but were very actively traded in. Cities Service opened its trading with a block of 4,300 shares at 37 1-2, closing at 38 1-4 after a large amount of trading around these prices.

Baltac from a first sale at 70c went to 78c and closed 77c-79c. Merland sold at 26c and 25c, and McLeod at $2.25. C. and E., from a first sale at $1.75, went up to $1.85 and closed at $1.77-$1.79. Freehold had sales at 62c and 63c, Eastcrest had a first sale at 65c and a last at 63c; Home's first sale was at $8.75, last at $8.65, closing at $8.60-$8.75; Hargal sold 300 shares at $1.12, Big Missouri was quiet, selling only 4,500 shares in five parcels at 55c, 57c and 56c.

Premier, on the announcement that the company will pay the regular dividend of six cents a share on April 4 to shareholders of record March 12, was the principal medium of business in the mining section, about 7,500 shares changing hands. The first sale was at $1.25, and the stock, after touching $1.30, had a last sale at $1.28, closing at $1.28-$1.29. Other transactions on the market were small. Grandview sold around 10 1-2c; Noble Five around 12 1-2c-13c; Golconda at 80c and 81c; George River around 9 1-2c, and Reeves McDonald went from 80c to 88c before closing at these prices.

Strength was shown on the Toronto market, where Sheritt Gordon and Sudbury Basin were the most active stocks. The former, from a first sale at $2.50 advanced to $2.85 before closing at $2.87-$2.90. Sudbury Basin also made a slight gain, the opening sale being at $3.10, and that at the close, $3.16. Nickel sold first at $39, touched $40, and closed at $39.75-$40. Abana had sales around $1.14, Teck Hughes, after a first sale at $6.10, went up to $6.30, and closed at $6.25-$6.30, and Noranda's last sale was at $41.25, a gain of 25 cents from the amount of the opening transaction, with $41-$41.25 quoted at the close.

Reduction in Fees Adopted at Annual Tennis Gathering

Entrance Charges at Victoria Lawn Tennis Club for Next Three Months Will Be $5 Instead of $15—Officers Are Elected for Year

Dr. E. W. Boak was unanimously re-elected as president of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club at its annual meeting, held last night in the board room of the Belmont House. Although Dr. Boak was not present when the election of officers took place, it was the opinion of the largely-attended gathering that he take over the reins of the association for another term. His consent has yet to be secured.

J. G. Brown, who has been active in local tennis circles for many years, was re-elected as vice-president. The 1930 committee contains some new faces along with some of the old standbys. C. H. Rayment and Miss Mona Miller, well known in the badminton world, are the new members of the 1930 committee.

The officers elected follow: Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce, honorary president; Mrs. James Dunsmuir, General Sir Percy Lake, Mayor Herbert Anscomb, His Honor Judge P. S. Lampman, R. P. Butchart, Charles F. Todd and Dr. A. B. Hudson, honorary vice-presidents; Dr. E. W. Boak, president; J. G. Brown, vice-president; C. H. Rayment, Miss Mona Miller, H. A. Isnay, Rev. S. Ryall, K. R. Streatfeild, D. M. Gordon and R. E. A. Diespecker form the committee.

PRAISES MEMBERS

Dr. Boak opened the meeting and in a brief address went over the achievements of the club during 1929. He stated that far better twelve months had been enjoyed in 1929 than in 1928, and stated he was glad to announce that a large balance was in the bank. The president spoke highly of the members of the club, who had done so well in tournaments and referred to fine ratings received by local players in the Pacific Northwest and British Columbia rankings.

In a few words Dr. Boak reviewed the British Columbia Tennis Association. He said it consisted of some forty clubs in an area as far north as Prince Rupert and as far east as Trail.

He praised highly the splendid showing of Crocker and Wright, Canada's two leading racquet exponents, at the last Wimbledon tournament and hoped that the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association would keep on sending Dominion representatives to the Old Country.

The Canadian championships will be held at Toronto this year, next year at Regina and, in all probability, at Vancouver in 1932, he said. As every branch of sport was preparing for the Empire games to be held at Hamilton this Summer, Dr. Boak states that the best possible players should represent British Columbia in the tennis tourney.

In concluding, he thanked the members, the committee and other officers who had co-operated with him during the year, and hoped that the club would enjoy an even more successful season than last year. He was greeted with continuous applause.

In turn, Mr. Brown congratulated Dr. Boak for his untiring efforts during the year and fine work he had done as a British Columbia delegate to the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

F. A. Jackson, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were adopted, and gave a brief outline of the financial condition of the club. He went over a list of the titles that members had acquired and explained items on the balance sheet. The bank balance this year showed a decided increase, due to saving of labor and a large donation from Charles F. Todd. In closing, he praised the fine work of Dr. Boak and his officers.

FEES REDUCED

A lengthy debate then took place on the entrance fees of the club, which, in the opinion of some members, were too high.

One member suggested that the entrance fees be reduced from $15 to $5 so that many new members could be secured. Major Merston stated that he thought that it was not the entrance fees that kept the membership below the mark, but thought that if the club's officials would make their headquarters more attractive, a noted increase would soon take place.

R. E. A. Diespecker suggested that a membership drive would be a good idea. In answer to Mr. Diespecker's suggestion, Mr. Brown stated that the committee for years gone by had worked diligently to acquire members and that the results were not what they expected. He explained that fifty-six new members were accepted last year at the $5 fee but none were taken in at $15. The present membership, Mr. Brown stated, did not carry the club, but if more newcomers could be rounded up, better accommodations would be the result.

The discussion was brought to an abrupt end when a motion was accepted that the entrance fees be reduced from $15 to $5 for the next three months. The motion carried.

The meeting was told that the hard courts were in splendid condition and that they would be ready for play by the middle of April. The following new members were accepted into the club: Mrs. Forbes, Miss Forbes, Miss Sheila Gillespie, Norman Grieve and Eric Boak, Jr.

Before the gathering adjourned the following votes of thanks were passed, to the press, the retiring committee and officials, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Hodgins, chairman of the women's committee.

Letters to the Editor

SOCCER IN VICTORIA

Sporting Editor:

Sir,—As a follower of soccer in Victoria for many years, I was very much interested in the articles published in The Colonist of February 26 and March 2 by "a disappointed fan," under the heading, "Soccer in Victoria." Although I cannot see eye for eye with him on all points, I can assure him that he will have no reason for being lonely, as there are enough "disappointed fans" in Victoria at present to make a record gate. With reference to the query: Has game deteriorated? I have no hesitation in saying it has, and to a point where we might say that it is an insult to classify it as soccer.

A smaller first division supplemented by a strong second division, and intercity games at regular intervals, would go a long way in reviving interest; but I cannot quite see how this would remedy the loss of temper, unseemly rows, ungentlemanly conduct and protests. The first three may not exist, as no suspensions have been meted out this season for these reasons, with one exception, and the team concerned in this case was not engaged for half of the penalty. So, I take it, the board must be pleased with the state of affairs.

With reference to protests based on technicality, I ask: Why have such a constitution. One clause reads: All clubs shall furnish a complete list with full names of all players taking part in duplicate form, and present it to the referee before the game; and another clause reads: A protest shall not be entertained unless an objection has been lodged with the referee before the start of the game.

Sometimes our referees get the lists at half-time, often not at all; but the moguls always get the protest fee. That brings me to the question of the fans having a right to some knowledge of the financial end of the matter. Well, I would advise your correspondents to say as little as possible on that matter, as I happened to be present at a public meeting some years ago in the K. of P. Hall, when it was shown from accounts of the B.C.F.A. that the traveling expenses of the Victoria delegate had then cost hundreds of dollars, and it is probably not getting anything less. The statement that there are seven associations and leagues governing football in Victoria at present is appalling, and the wonder is that we have any players left. However, that solves the mystery, and the remedy is easy. The juveniles could only get one official to help them—they had no money. Fans, keep your money or go to the talkies for a season, and you may get officials like the Rugby boys.

Underhill and Radford Reach Badminton Semis

Vancouver Stars Show Up Well in Canadian Meet at Ottawa—Eileen George Goes Under in Big Upset in Women's Singles

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Ont., March 6.—The women's and men's singles reached the semi-final round stage, while the mixed doubles advanced to the quarter-final round this evening at the Badminton Club of Ottawa in the ninth annual tourney of the Canadian Badminton Association.

In a day featured by several distinct upsets, Ottawa players forced themselves to the forefront and stole the thunder of out-of-town stars. Mrs. H. F. Wright, Miss Ruth Robertson, Miss Margaret Robertson and Miss Norma Hall, fourteen-year-old Ottawa girl, stepping into the limelight by downing noted players, among whom were holders of Dominion and provincial titles.

The entry of Norma Hall into the semi-final round of play in the women's singles marked the first time in the history of Canadian badminton that a girl of her age has succeeded in reaching the round before the final.

The most unlooked-for upset of the play occurred in the third round of the women's singles when Miss Ruth Robertson, of Ottawa, ousted from the tourney list Miss Eileen George, of Vancouver, 1928 champion, in straight games.

Three former Canadian champions entered the semi-final round play of the men's singles, Jack Purcell, of Toronto, 1929 crown holder, being drawn to meet J. J. Underhill, of Vancouver, 1928 champion, while C. W. Aikman, of Montreal, 1925 and 1927 singles champion, is carded to meet Noel Radford, of Vancouver, Vancouver city champion, in the semi-final round matches tomorrow evening.

In this evening's play Noel Radford advanced, but only after R. Sedgwick, of the Toronto Granite Club, had forced the Pacific Coast star to the very limit of his game. The score was 15-8, 15-18, 15-12. Aikman in his march to the semi-final round of play was successful over T. B. Hayle, of Oakville, and R. Phalen, of Toronto, two strong players. Jack Purcell, defending champion, was in sterling form, marching through his match with Bev. Mitchell, the hard-hitting Ottawan, by 15-12, 15-1.

GOVERNMENT ACT "SMACKS OF CLOSURE"

naimo, rose to speak but the Prime Minister got the floor.

Agreeing that some amendments to the Pensions Act might be made, Premier King contended they could be worked out better by the committee after it had heard the evidence of returned men. The House could not take into consideration individual cases which might be considered in committee and have an important bearing on the proposed changes in the Act.

The Prime Minister asked that both the McGibbon motion and the amendment, moved at the beginning of the discussion by Mr. W. G. Ernst, Conservative, Lunenburg, be referred to the pensions committee.

The amendment of Mr. Ernst was "That in any application for pension where disability or death occurs, such disability or death shall be presumed to have resulted from and be attributable to military service unless and until the contrary is proven."

MR. BENNETT OBJECTS

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Leader, objected to the Prime Minister's motion, which he declared was out of order.

Mr. Speaker Lemieux ruled that the motion of the Prime Minister was in order.

Again Mr. Bennett protested.

Speaker Lemieux maintained his ruling was correct but added that in his judgment "this procedure smacks of the closure rule."

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative, Vancouver Centre, joined in questioning the ruling.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative, South Wellington, said he could not conceive that it should be in the power of any Government to cut off discussion at any time by this means.

Mr. Bennett again rose and asserted that the motion of the Prime Minister was nothing short of closure.

Mr. J. T. Thorson, Liberal, Winnipeg South Centre, took exception to the suggestion of Mr. Speaker that Mr. King's motion "smacks of closure."

Mr. Lemieux replied that the motion to commit did not smack of closure but that there were several provisions in the rules for closure.

OTHERS WANT TO SPEAK

Mr. Bennett declared that the motion was not only one to commit but an instruction as well. He knew of two members who wished to discuss returned soldiers' questions but would be prevented by this motion.

"I have not the least desire to cut off discussion but I base my judgment on the rules of the House," Mr. Speaker declared. When he asked should the motion carry there were shouts of "yeas" and "nays."

"Call in the members," he declared, and the division bell began ringing. At this juncture there was agreement to allow the motion to pass "on division" and a registered vote was thereby avoided.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 5.—Delegates from the British Columbia Amateur Lacrosse Association to the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association will be instructed to urge that the Dominion body reinstate all former professionals who have not played in the past four years. This was the unanimous decision of the provincial body at its annual meeting.

Reeve R. M. Grauer, of Richmond, was re-elected president, and Cory Hesse, Vancouver, was also the unanimous choice for secretary-treasurer. H. Latham, New Westminster, was elected vice-president.

The meeting also decided to play under Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association rules, and the tentative Olympic committee, recently named, will be asked to give lacrosse representation.

The association will adopt a new registration form, patterned after one now used in Ontario.

President Grauer stated that the association would strive for fifty affiliated clubs this year and would work on playdowns in all divisions for provincial honors.

INTERNATIONAL SITUATION IS LECTURE TOPIC

Prof. F. H. Soward Addresses Members of University Extension Association

EUROPEAN PROBLEMS UNDER DISCUSSION

The general outlook in International affairs formed the subject of an interesting lecture, given to the University Extension Association of Victoria at Victoria College last night by Professor F. H. Soward, B.A., B.Litt.

"There is no doubt," said Professor Soward, "that we are living in one of the most interesting ages of all time, and I can suggest no more valuable activity for the student of international politics than an attempt to watch the ebb and flow of the affairs of the nations of the world."

Professor Soward, who was introduced by Mr. A. B. Sanders, president of the association, in speaking of the Naval Disarmament Conference in London, said that very valuable information had been gained from the mistakes made during the naval negotiations of 1929. He spoke of the value of disarmament. In reducing distrust among the leading nations of the world, and also in relieving the people of the primary powers from an overbearing burden of taxation.

$3,000 A MINUTE

Great Britain, he said, was paying no less a sum than $3,000 a minute to settle the cost of the late war. Seventy per cent of the taxation of the Old Country went to settle the cost of the Great War and to prepare for future hostilities.

The speaker mentioned the activities of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, pointing out that, when the British Prime Minister went to Geneva, he had tried to convince the Governments of Europe that any question of naval disarmament was not in any sense an Anglo-American agreement.

Mr. Hoover, continued the speaker, had dotted Mr. MacDonald's I's and crossed his t's in the speech which he, the President of the United States, had made upon Armistice Day. It was significant, that, in the course of this speech, he had said: "We will only reduce our naval strength in proportion to the reduction undertaken by the other naval powers of the world."

NEW GERMAN CRUISER

Professor Soward spoke of the new German cruiser which has lately been launched. This, he said, was a new and very remarkable departure, which, while conforming to the exigencies of tonnage restrictions, carried an armament which might be said to place the ship in the battle cruiser class.

It was true that the Socialist Government of Germany had opposed the building of more of these ships at the present time, but the mere fact that a vessel of this nature had left the slips had disturbed the Government of France.

Great Britain and America were strongly for the abolition of submarines, continued Prof. Soward. Italy was balanced on the fence in this matter, and France and Japan were in favor of the continuance of this type of craft on the ground that the submarine was a cheap defensive unit.

REPARATIONS QUESTION

Speaking on the question of reparations, Professor Soward said that the original Young plan had been modified by the two Hague Conferences. In connection with the German indebtedness it was interesting to note that it had taken the nations of the world close upon ten years to consent to the acceptance of the sum which Germany had offered in the year 1919.

The lecturer touched upon the dramatic incident when Mr. Snowden, who had previously been scouted as an anti-Britisher and a Little Englander, made a firm stand for the British Empire, with the result that he secured for his country a number of concessions which were not expected by the taxpayer.

MUSSOLINI AND THE POPE

Another outstanding feature of European politics during the past year, went on Professor Soward, was the agreement which had been reached between Mussolini and the Pope. The speaker wondered whether this agreement was the result of a desire for returned prestige on the part of the Vatican. At least, it created a sovereign state of a few hundred acres, which had been given as compensation by the Italian Government for the seizure of Rome several centuries ago.

In Italy, he said, there was a persistent attempt to control the education of the younger generation and to turn it into channels wherein the Premier-Dictator was regarded as the be-all and end-all of Italian life. The Pope, on the other hand, believed that education was the primary right of the church. Therefore a clash might be expected in the near future.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The League of Nations, concluded the speaker, had had, last year, the most general assembly in its history, and he took this opportunity of congratulating the Victoria High School upon its recent representation of the Tenth Assembly.

The past twelve months had been the most peaceful which the Balkan States had known since the war, the only possible danger in this direction being the formation of a dictatorship in Jugoslavia.

Russia, at the present time, was not playing an active part in world affairs, her primary question today being domestic, and the country has gone back to a state of undiluted state control, with the idea of expanding production.

GROWERS' WINE COMPANY WILL ERECT PLANT

New Westminster Property Secured for Concentration on Lower Mainland Logan Crop

The Growers' Wine Co. announces that it will establish a plant at New Westminster for its Lower Mainland business.

It is intended to terminate the lease of the Vancouver plant, which is in leased premises in an apartment district, where there is no opportunity for expansion, and to move to New Westminster, where the plant will be more readily accessible to the growers of the Lower Mainland.

A ten-lot site has been acquired in the vicinity of Twelfth Street and Fourth Avenue from the city. The first unit of the new development will cost approximately $25,000 to develop, and it is expected to be ready to handle the 1930 crop. In the proposed building will go $10,000 worth of equipment, providing a capacity of 500,000 gallons, involving a large tonnage of fruit.

Owing to the period of maturity required for the loganberry wine, it is necessary to have a large capacity in the form of storage while the wine is ripening for sale. The available crop of loganberries is not as large as that on Vancouver Island, and the headquarters will remain here, as well as the Victoria plant providing for a maximum of storage space during the period that the wine is reaching maturity.

Indian Vessel To Be Released From Detention

SUVA, Fiji, March 6.—With the recovery today of the member of her crew who was believed to have contracted cholera, authorities indicated they would release the Indian immigrant ship Sutlej from quarantine, should no new cases appear within a week.

The Sutlej was quarantined on Monday after arriving from Calcutta with 880 East Indian passengers. One case of cholera was landed at Batavia, Java, during the trip. About 600 Indian repatriates are expected to return on the Sutlej.

VANCOUVER ISLAND FISH STARTS OFF AT TEN CENTS A POUND

Captain John Stemland Aboard Tor First to Arrive at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, March 6.—The first halibut boats of the season arrived today with fish from the nearby banks, the total being 15,000 pounds, Captain John Stemland, of the halibut boat Tor, arrived from the banks off Quatsino with 5,000 pounds, which brought prices of 10 cents for chicken, 14.4 for medium, and 11 cents for large.

The boat Dreamerie, Captain Olaf Iverson, fishing off the West Coast of Vancouver Island, brought 2,000 pounds and obtained 10 cents for chicken and 16 cents for medium.

Captain Hans Nordhouse, halibut boat Emerandy, came in with a 3,000-pound catch from off Hope Island, north end of Vancouver Island, and realised 10 cents for chicken, 14.2 cents for medium and 11 cents for large. All the fish was bought by the B.C. Packers.

The fishermen reported weather not too bad. Quite a fleet of halibut boats is now bound inward with fair to good catches.

Scotland Is at Constantinople On Long Voyage

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 6.—World cruise passengers aboard the Empress of Scotland, which reached here yesterday on its globe-encircling voyage, today were reveling in the scenic delights of the three cities which make up Constantinople. Stamboul dates back to 660 B.C., and with its great wall and subterranean cistern, the Mosque of St. Sophia, where is heard the Haya Ila el Salah calling the Faithful to prayer, and many other ancient customs, provided interest for visitors.

A trip up the Bosporous to the entrance of the Black Sea, with a sail through the famous Dardanelles on the way up, is part of the programme of the visit here. The ship sails Friday for Beirut, the next port of call.

AUSTRALIA DOCKS AT KOBE ON TOUR

KOBE, March 6.—The Empress of Australia docked here today with her complement of world cruise passengers. Special trains have been secured for a trip to Nara and Kyoto. Yokohama is the next port of call.

NAPLES, March 6.—The Empress of France, with a Med terranean cruise party, sailed for Venice, where a group of passengers who have been traveling overland will rejoin the ship.

Scenes Along New Air Mail Route to Aklavik

THE recent inauguration of a regular air mail route to Aklavik, in the Mackenzie delta, near the Western Arctic Ocean, has revolutionized life for trappers, prospectors and other residents of the Northwest Territories. The map, No. 1, shows the route followed by mail, it being transported by train from Edmonton to McMurray and there transferred to planes. No. 2 is Kittigazuit, on the Mackenzie River delta, one of the Arctic settlements profiting by the new service. No. 3 is Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, of Edmonton, senior pilot on the inaugural mail trip. No. 4, Auxiliary supply schooners operated by the Hudson's Bay Co. on the northern Mackenzie. Around the border of the layout are the air mail cachets prepared by the Postoffice Department to commemorate the inauguration of this Northern postal service.

OLD SCHOONER IS SAFE ON COURSE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The old schooner Gamble, well known to the Pacific Coast, was reported 400 miles off Galveston last Sunday, according to a message received by the Marine Exchange. The vessel is headed for Tampa and is already twenty-eight days overdue and had virtually been given up as lost.

Shipbuilding In Japan Far Ahead of 1928

TOKIO (By Mail).—Japan last year saw the largest number and tonnage of ships built during the last three years. The number is seventy-nine vessels of 119,619 tons against forty-five vessels of 80,658 tons for 1928 and thirty-seven vessels of 58,037 tons for 1927.

There were thirty-six vessels of 191,595 tons under construction at the end of 1929. The number of registered ships, each of more than 100 tons gross, at the end of 1929 was 20,125 vessels of 5,149,740 tons. Of these, steamers totaled 3,705 vessels of 4,215,784 tons and sailing ships 16,420 vessels of 933,956 tons.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE ON CRAFT

DAMAGE TO SUPERIOR IN MORNING BLAZE IS SET AT $2,500

Valued at $10,000, Tug Was Built at Ladner Twenty-Nine Years Ago

Captain Mathias Mathieson's tug Superior, which caught fire amidships in the inner harbor early yesterday morning, is damaged to the extent of $2,500, a survey revealed. Repairs will be commenced today.

Valued at $10,000, the Superior was built at Ladner in 1901 and is 57 feet long, 14 feet in beam, 7.3 feet deep, 44 tons gross and 30 tons net.

The loss, partly covered by insurance, will be greater than anticipated because the craft was just going on a daily charter. The cause of the blaze has not yet been determined.

"IRON MIKE" IS USEFUL ON SHIP

Gyroscopic Principle Keeps Vessel on Straight Course at Sea

TORONTO, March 6.—"Wanted: A permanent position on board ship as wheelman. Can steer courses more accurately than others and use less rudder. Am sober, intelligent, strictly attentive to business, never ask for time off, do not talk back, am not affected by bill of fare or poor cooking, in fact, do not eat at all.—Iron Mike."

"Now what do you think of that?" said Old Salt somewhat scornfully. "What next will they give to help out the sailors? When I think of those days of iron men and wooden ships—!"

And this is the story of Iron Mike, as the Old Salt related it. "Iron Mike is officially known as gyro-helmsman. Since sail passed from the seven seas, superseded by steam, and steam seems well on the way to be superseded by Diesel engines, engineers the world over have been seeking new labor-raving devices. So recently, Iron Mike made his appearance. He is manufactured on the gyroscopic principle, just like those little toys we used to buy when we were youngsters. Through electricity he is connected to the gyro-compass, another invention on the same principle, and he certainly can keep a ship on a straight line.

"It must be remembered that every time a ship's rudder is turned, there is a slight loss of driving power and a corresponding reduction of speed. Since time means money more than ever before, the very slightest slowdown is expensive. In the old days, it took two and some times three men to hold the wheel of a schooner when there was a heavy sea rolling. Steering engines improved that a lot, but the gyro-pilot improves it still more, and a ship equipped with Iron Mike can steer a straight course through the hardest weather.

"Of course, it saves money and does the work more efficiently than the human could possibly do it. But 'here will always be the experienced helmsman available, ready to step in and take charge when the vessel nears port. Iron Mike can hold a course on a long trip—but some one has to do his thinking for him."

WOULD OUST BLIND BEGGARS

To rid Glasgow and other cities in the West of Scotland of blind beggars, the Scotch Department of Health has been asked to put through a pension plan for all poor and infirm blind. The plan would provide payment of $6.25 a week for each sightless person. It is estimated that there are about 2,000 blind persons in Glasgow and vicinity, and the proposed act would give city officials moral power to compel sightless beggars to abandon their stands on the streets.

FISH FREEZE TO DEATH

That fish were frozen to death in North Sea during the spell of Arctic weather of February, 1929, has just been disclosed. Fishermen who trawl there noted many strange happenings in an area of about 10,000 square miles in the vicinity of Denmark. They say their strangest experience was trawling up large numbers of dead fish, evidently killed by the cold. These included soles, brill, cod, conger dabs and plaice. One skipper reported having thrown overboard 1,500 pounds of dead sole in a week's voyage.

Professor, going over examination papers, to student:

"How do you account for your observation that nitrogen is unknown in Ireland?"

Student: "The textbook distinctly says that nitrogen is not found in a free state!"

SCHOONER TALE COMES TO END

HEIRS OF OWNERS OF LORD NELSON RECEIVE $15,546.23

Canadian Vessel Was Illegally Seized by United States in 1812

(Special to The Colonist, Copyright 1930.)

TORONTO, March 6—After one hundred and eighteen years of litigation, beginning with the complications which attend a breach of international law, and ending in prolonged explorations of the family tree of the late Hon. James and William Crooks, the curtain has at last been rung down on the romantic story of the Lord Nelson, the Canadian schooner which was captured by the United States navy in the war of 1812.

For some months past solicitors representing the Crooks heirs have been meeting in private and preparing a list of the beneficiaries who are entitled to a share of the $23,644.38 (less arbitration and legal expenses, which was paid to the Canadian Government two years ago by the United States Government as a belated indemnity to the Crooks family for the seizure of the "Lord Nelson" thirteen days before the war of 1812 officially began.

The total sum, with interest now paid out is $15,546.23, and the twenty-five beneficiaries, selected from over a hundred claimants, are:

A. D. Crooks and Henry J Bethune, Toronto; William R. Servos, Grace E. Servos, Mary B. Servos, William R. Feast, Charles O. Servos and Margaret G. Servos, Hamilton; Augusta E. Williams and Alexander S. Crooks, Manistique, Mich; Martha V. Irvine, Fenelon Falls, Ont; Alfred E. Crooks and Eva T. Crooks, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Alfred R. Feast, Baltimore, Md.; Ethelinda M. Smith, Burford, Ont.; Harry Servos, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mary K. Feast, Brantford, Ont.; Katherine E. Cutry, Culver City, Cal.; Johnson A. Crooks, Rutland, B.C.; Agnes E. Hardie, Vancouver, B.C.; Margaret A. Elves, Port Angeles, Wash.; Helen A. Orr,; North Vancouver, B.C. Frances I. Barbour, Sequim, Wash.; Janet C. Thompson, North Vancouver, B.C.; and Edith M. Montgomery, Regina, Sask.

Only the direect descendants of the two owners were considered, and the selection was governed by the wills of the Crooks brothers and their heirs.

The century-old tale, now reaching its last installment, began on June 5, 1812, when the Lord Nelson was seized by the Oneida, commanded by Lieut. Woolsey, of the United State navy. She was plying her ordinary trade on Lake Ontario at the time, and it was nearly two weeks before the declaration of war between Great Britain and the United States. She was taken into Sackett's Harbor, libelled in the District Court of New York State, and later ordered sold, the proceeds to be paid into court to abide the event of a suit.

It was the United States navy which acquired the schooner, turned her into a war vessel, rechristened her The Wasp, and used her against Great Britain in the war. By the irony of circumstances, this domesticated trading schooner, illegally taken from her Canadian owners, came to a triumphant and glorious end under the guns of a British warship.

History says she was sunk near the mouth of the Niagara River, and that the commander of the British vessel was Admiral Yeo. She went down near home, because her owners, James and William Crooks, then lived on the Niagara Peninsula.

The legitimate claimants have been determined, the cheques have been mailed, and justice has been done after 118 years. And so endeth the story of the Lord Nelson.

RUTH ALEXANDER HERE FROM SOUTH

Brings Eighty-Five Passengers and Forty-Eight Tons of Cargo

To the tune of "God Save the King," followed by "Auld Lang Syne," the Pacific Steamship Company's Ruth Alexander docked at Rithet piers from San Diego, Wilmington and San Francisco at 10:45 o'clock last evening.

Before she tied up a powerful beam shot from the bridge to get her bearing in relation to the pier side. Her hull struck the dock before all lines were in place.

Passengers on board included Mr. L. D. McLean, well known local business man, returning from San Diego with Mrs. McLean. He was taken off in a stretcher. Among others was Mr. Edward Strowbridge, former United States customs officer here, also returning from California, and Mr. Walter J. Hill, son of James J. Hill, one of Seattle's wealthiest residents.

The Ruth Alexander brought in eighty-five passengers and forty-eight tons of cargo for Victoria and left for Seattle at midnight with 110 aboard. Her list included eight deportees from California.

In her smoking-room a framed document reading as follows is hung up:

"By authority invested in me by the Congress of the United States, the Steamship Ruth Alexander is hereby warranted to fly the flag of the United States Merchant Marine Naval Reserve. In the event the Ruth Alexander is no longer documented under laws of the United States or the master or commanding officers and 50 per cent or more of her officers are not members of the United States Naval Reserve, or her designation by the Secretary of the Navy as suitable for service as a naval auxiliary in time of war is withdrawn, this warrant shall terminate.

"Signed, CURTIS D. WILBUR."

Missie was desperate. She needed help, but where could she go for it? Not to Eileen, so absorbed in her ambitions, so likely to resent any scandal which might thwart them. And Kirby was away again; not that she could have told him, but he gave her strength. For all his visions he was practical.

"Talk? Why should we care? We'll not be here to listen."

The automobile factory was to be on one of the Great Lakes. He was planning to live there.

And when she had mentioned her grandmother, he dismissed her as easily.

"The world moves," he said. "The time is coming when even she will see divorce is more moral than marriage without love, Missie dear."

But she felt that Sarah and her kind were standing, in their own stiff-necked fashion, for something which had its value, for gentility, for that moral pride which carried its griefs in secret to the grave.

Missie thought of her grandmother in those long hours when she sat alone and bewildered, of her thin white hands, of her rigid back; of her refusal to see that Adelaide was a mature woman, or that Lambert was other than a dutiful son. Of that strange habit of washing her hands, which had begun when Cecily went away.

She had survived her husband, big and strong as he had been. But women did live. They had enormous reserves, more reserves than men. They survived their men. All over the world were the Sarahs, lonely old women who survived their men. Survived everything. She herself—she would live forever, on and on. She felt, for all her slenderness, a terrible inexorable vitality in her. Her mother had it, too; had seen ages of unbearable time stretching ahead of her, and had refused to face them.

It made her deperate, that thought. She began to go to church again, seeking help there, but on her knees during the general confession, she would find herself tremoling again.

One day she dressed carefully—Kirby was still away—and went to see Mr. MacDonald. She was shaking with fear, pale under her black lace hat and ermine tippet. But there was nothing formidable in the elderly man who sat behind the desk, untidy, uncared for, desolate. His wife had died, and he now lived by himself. She felt a great wave of pity for him, and when she saw his eyes she had a burst of enlightenment. It was for the best that women survived. Old men alone, that was the greatest tragedy. They were so helpless. They looked out from lonely faces with the eyes of lonely small boys.

No, women had to survive them, to take care of them to the last, to hold tight to them at the end.

How could she talk to him of her own troubles, so trivial compared with death? The very effort he made to be casual made it harder for her.

"Well, well! And what can an old lawyer do for a prosperous and happy young married woman? How's Wesley? He looks well."

"I think he is. I don't see as much of him as I might."

"Well, that's to be expected these days. This drive for success—he's a busy man. He'll go far, Missie." He cleared his throat. "Make him a good home, Missie. It's the woman who makes the marriage. That was your mother's mistake. She meant all right, but she nagged your father." He coughed again.

"There ought to be more to a marriage than that," she said, looking down. "There ought to be—loyalty, Mr. MacDonald."

He lifted a pen, put it down.

"You're young. By and large, a good many men wander a bit at first, but they settle down. They settle down, and they make the best husbands in the end. You——"

"And in the interval? I am not very happy, Mr. MacDonald."

That roused the Covenanter blood in him.

"Happy! We weren't put here to be happy—it makes me sick. We're put here to do our duty, to take and carry on certain obligations, not to discard them. People come in here and talk to me about getting divorces! Divorce! What did that ever cure? If a human being fails in one marriage, he'll fail in another. And marriage isn't only a civil contract; it's a religious one. It's a covenant with God."

She went away confused. With that terrible ability of hers to see both sides of a question, she knew that he was right. But he was wrong, too; he was both right and wrong. "Oh God, give me some help. Show me what to do." She walked along, tulle hat, ermine tippet, toes correctly turned out, her train lifted above the dust. Now and then she bowed to somebody she knew. Men took off their hats with sweeping gestures. That's Mrs. Wesley Dexter. Was a Colfax. Fine old family. Dexter's a coming man. Brother-in-law is Wilkins. Yes, the bicycle chap. Big man, Wilkins. Head of the Board of Trade. Coming man too. "Let me die, dear God, or else show me what to do. I can't go on, and I can't get out."

Two days later Sarah sent for her, received her alone in the great front parlor with the peacock lambrequin. Atropos she was as she sat there, the Inflexible One. And she began without preamble.

"I have no reason to love Wesley Dexter, Marcella. But I have reason to expect certain things from you. Mr. MacDonald tells me you have been to see him."

"I didn't know where else to go," said Missie simply.

"Does that mean that you are thinking of leaving your husband?"

"I don't seem able to think. Yes. I would leave him, if I could."

Mrs. Colfax glanced at the door.

"There is one word that I have never permitted in this house. That is divorce. I have never spoken to a divorced woman and I never shall. I would not expect my own granddaughter; it would grieve me, but you must understand that, Marcella."

But after that ukase she was softer. Not gentle; she never could be that. But she sat back, twisting the worn gold band on her left arm. "I was not too happy in the early days of my own marriage; I had my rebellions. All young wives do. But I lived to be glad that no one but myself had ever known it."

She could be glad! Hard, autocratic old William, Cecily, Lambert, Adelaide, and against all of them it was enough to have the consciousness of duty done. It was sublime. It was Spartan.

She sent Missie back in the carriage. It was very shabby now; it needed paint, and old Ishmael needed a new livery. The horses, too, were growing old; they looked bony, like Sarah herself; their feet slid on the newly paved streets. They moved slowly, cautiously, like old men at twilight.

Missie was very tired. She leaned back and closed her eyes. When she went home she wrote Kirby her first letter.

"I have been thinking things over. Maybe I am weak. Maybe you will think I am ridiculous. But I think this is more than a question of Wesley and you and myself. I think God comes in too. I promised Him something, and now I am asking to take back that promise. I love you, I know I shall always love you. I did not believe that anyone could care as I care. I think maybe I have made you my God, and that is wrong. Indeed, it is all wrong. When I think of all the people who would be hurt——"

There was more of it; she shed bitter tears over it, and had to recopy it.

But she never sent it. That night she fainted at dinner, and the next day she learned that she was to have a child.

Claim Light Is Ruining Turners In Tate Gallery

LONDON, March 6.—Controversy has been aroused by certain West End dealers who assert that the $20,000,000 worth of Turner water colors in the Tate Gallery are being allowed to fade past all recognition.

The gallery, which has 20,000 Turner paintings, water-colors and drawings, denies that the water-colors are fading, while experts declare that the gallery is blinded by its wealth of Turners into not realizing that one day it may have none.

Sir John Lavery has pointed out that light in any intensity is fatal to water-colors.

"These Turners are bound to fade," he said. "I have always regarded water-color as an irritating medium because you cannot guarantee that it will last. Light is fatal to it."

Goes for Joy Ride

SYDNEY, Australia, March 6.—"Granny" Humphries, aged 102, got the wanderlust the other day, took a three-mile ride on a railroad and then went home contented.

"Granny" came to Australia from Ireland in her youth and with her pioneering husband went into the backwoods, whence she never emerged until curiosity got the better of her and she insisted upon taking a train ride. Her three bachelor sons, aged seventy-two, seventy-five and seventy-seven, deplored their mother's escapade.

"After being bothered, both day and night, with it for some time I had a friend recommend which I tried with wonderful results, and now it is the only remedy I ever use for colds.

"I have also used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills with wonderful results."
